A&M men's tennis foresees tough task

By Ken Sury
Sports Editor

Texas A&M Men's Tennis Coach David Kent sees this weekend's Wichita Falls four-way tournament as the type of start his team needs — a tough one.

"It's really a good start for us," Kent said. "We've been working very hard, about four hours a day (in practice)."

Kent hopes to see the work pay off as the other teams in the tournament are Texas Christian, Oklahoma State and Southern Methodist. SMU was the top team in the nation for most of last year until it self-destructed in the NCAA championships and finished third. TCU, which hovered with A&M around the No. 20 position nationally last season, returns its entire team.

Although A&M is without Kimmo Alkio, the 1986 Southwest Conference singles champion who now is on the international tennis circuit, Kent is optimistic.

"We've got outstanding team depth this year," Kent said. "But we'll miss Alkio. What we want to do is develop the top of the lineup."

At the top of the lineup will be senior Marcel Vos in the No. 1 singles spot. At No. 2 singles will be Dean Goldfine, who Kent said will have to battle more than his opponent as he's been hampered by a sprained right ankle.

South Africans Dean Johnson and Brent Haygarth will play at the third and fourth spots. Haygarth is improved from last year, Kent said, and will be a mainstay on the team.

Sophomore Chris Stanich and freshman Steve Kennedy fill the final two positions. "Kennedy has shown he can play," Kent said. "He probably has the best serve on the team."

In doubles, the teams will be Johnson, Johnson-Haygarth and Stanich-Kennedy.

A&M men's golf team starts season

The Texas A&M men's golf team will open its 1986 fall season at the Elk River Collegiate Invitational in North Carolina this weekend.

The 54-hole tournament that begins today and continues throughout the weekend has a 10-team field including five teams from the Atlantic Coast Conference.

The Aggies will enter the tournament with a young squad composed of two juniors, one sophomore and two freshmen. Junior Neil Hickerson and sophomore Roy Mackenzie return from last year's team, while newcomers Gary Gilchrist, Andy Cooper and Randy Lee will be seeing their first action for A&M.

After the tournament, A&M will head directly to Baton Rouge, La. to play in the Louisiana State Invitational. The Aggies will play in a 12-team field at the Sherwood Forest Country Club beginning Tuesday, with the tournament concluding on Wednesday.

Hurricanes hope to blow past Sooners with potent pass attack

MIAMI (AP) — The No. 2 Miami Hurricanes' most potent weapon against No. 1 Oklahoma in their game Saturday figures to be their passing attack, with sophomore wideout Michael Irvin the key receiver.

Off the football field, Irvin is the Hurricanes' flashiest dresser, sporting a gold earring and brightly colored shoes he admits are designed to catch attention.

On the field, he flashes past defensive backs and catches touchdowns, 12 in his 15-game career.

Irvin is only two short of Eddie Brown's school touchdown-reception record.

One of those TD catches came in last year's 27-14 victory over Oklahoma, the Sooners' only defeat in a season in which they wound up ranked No. 1.

"I remember the defensive back didn't get a good jam on me at the line, he just brushed me as I went by," Irvin said. "It seemed like he might have been looking into the backfield to play the run."

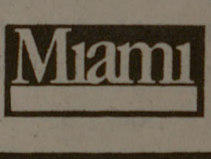

The Hurricanes, especially Irvin and quarterback Vinny Testaverde, are hoping that Oklahoma's defense continues to orient itself to the run it sees so often in Big Eight Conference games.

No. 1

But Testaverde knows the Sooners are not likely to be as giving as last year.

"They're better on pass defense this year than last," Testaverde said. "They seem to be disguising their coverages better. But being a team that throws a lot, we have a feel good about going against a defense that's hardly been tested against the pass."

Irvin agreed, but said that the Sooners' defense will be only half the battle.

"It's not so much what they can do as what we can do," Irvin said. "They haven't seen a quarterback like Vinny or receivers like ours. We believe we have the hottest receivers in the world. Nobody in the world can cover us one on one."

Irvin has been Testaverde's favorite target as the Hurricanes' potent passing attack has switched focus this year from the tight end to the wide receiver.

Irvin has caught 16 passes for 279 yards and two touchdowns. He has had more than 100 yards in receptions in two of Miami's three games.

If he continues that pace, he would break numerous Miami passing records, but he said he hasn't given it much thought.

"Getting three touchdowns against Oklahoma," he said, "I've thought about."
