Scott named MVP in NL playoff series

HOUSTON (AP) — The spectacular playoff pitching of Houston's Mike Scott was rewarded Wednesday when he was named most valuable player of the National League series.

"I know I'll appreciate it in a couple of months . . . or a couple of years," said Scott, who pitched the two victories the Astros had during the series amid accusations by New York players that he was scuffing the baseball.

The Mets won the best-of-seven series Wednesday in Game 6 with a 7-6 triumph in 16 innings. In winning the MVP, the right-handed pitcher compiled playoff records by becoming the first pitcher with two complete games. Scott pitched the most consecutive shutout innings, 16%, and his 19 strikeouts also was a record.

Scott struck out 14 in Game 1, ty-ing the overall playoff record. He also had four straight strikeouts, an-other playoff mark.

Watching the last two games from the bullpen was hard on Scott. "I'm not half as tired when I pitch as I have been watching these last two games," he said. "It's emotionally draining. I just want to reflect on the good things."

The former Met has many good things to dwell on.

On the night when the Astros won the West Division title, Scott became the first pitcher to throw a no-hitter in a pennant-clinching game, beating the San Francisco Giants. He led the majors with 306 strikeouts and a 2.22 earned run average. Last season he struck out 137.

Scott became the fourth pitcher in NL history to fan 300 in a season, joining former Astro J.R. Richard as the only right-handers to strike out 300 in a season.

His season, however, did not start out well. He dropped his first two starts and had an ERA of 7.00. By his 13th start, the ERA was below

For the series, Scott walked just one and allowed only one run on eight hits. Their were, however, constant allegations by Mets players that Scott scuffed the ball when throwing his split-fingered fastball.

After Game 4, Mets second baseman Wally Backman said: "Every single ball was scuffed."

Several times in Game 1 the Mets asked home-plate umpire Doug Harvey to examine the ball — but nothing was detected.

"I've worked his game six times this year," Harvey said. "I must have looked at 72 balls. I'll stake my 25 years of experience on the fact I've never once seen a ball he has

The Mets collected 17 balls they claim were scuffed after Game 4 and gave them to the National League office.

If Scott had pitched Thursday in Game 7, NL officials said he would be watched carefully.

Astros Manager Hal Lanier said using Scott in a seventh game would have meant a victory for Houston.

"I know Scott could have beaten them three games," Lanier said.
About not having to face Scott in a decisive seventh game, Mets Manager Davey Johnson said, "Amen. I feel like I'm on parole, like I've just been given a pardon."

Phil Garner doubled in a run and scored to ignite the three-run first inning off left-hander Bob Ojeda, and the Astros had a lead that seemed safe with Knepper continuing Houston's exceptional postseason pitching.

The Mets, who had the best bat-ting average in the National League, have had only 15 hits in the past three games.

The Astros pitching staff struck out nine Wednesday giving them 57 for the series and breaking the playoff record of 51 set last year by Kansas City against Toronto.

Orosco, who also won Games 3 and 5, pitched eight innings in the Doran led off the Astros' first with a single and was forced out at second when Mets first baseman Hernandez dove to his right to spear a ground ball by Hatcher. Running on the pitch, Hatcher scored from first when Garner doubled into the leftcenter field gap. Davis' bouncing single to center scored Garner, and Bass walked on four pitches.

Jose Cruz's soft line single into shallow right field scored Davis with the third run of the inning as Bass went to third. The Astros then tried the suicide squeeze, but Bass was out in a rundown when Alan Ashby failed to make contact on the attempted bunt. Ojeda finally was out of the inning — with Aguilera already warming up in the Mets bullpen — when Ashby lined out hard to

Three times in the playoffs, the Astros had scored twice in an inning, but never three runs. This also was the first time in his last five outings, including Game 2 of the playoffs, that Ojeda had allowed more than one run. Ojeda won the second Knepper retired the first seven Mets before Santana singled hard up the middle on a 1-2 pitch. Ojeda tried to sacrifice, but for the second time in the playoffs, Garner charged in from his third-base position to turn an Ojeda bunt into a forceout at second. Wilson followed with a walk, the first off Knepper, but Mitchell struck out to end the inning.

completing a string on 18 in a row started by Rick Aguilera. When Bass singled with one out in the 12th, it was the first Houston baserunner since a one-out single by thrown out trying to steal second base. McDowell faced the minimum 15 batters in his five innings.
