

Colts sign ex-Cowboy Clinkscale

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Veteran free agent Dexter Clinkscale, a hold-out with the Dallas Cowboys this year, was signed by the Indianapolis Colts Wednesday, the NFL team announced.

To make room for Clinkscale on the active roster, the Colts cut defensive back Preston Davis.

Colts spokesman Craig Kelly said Clinkscale was scheduled to begin practice Thursday, but it was not known when the strong safety would see his first action as a Colt.

"It will be up to the coaches to work him in. I imagine he'll have to get in some kind of playing shape after being out half the season," Kelly said.

The Indianapolis News reported Wednesday that Clinkscale would sign a three-year contract worth more than $720,000. That figure could not be immediately confirmed by The Associated Press.

The five-year Cowboy veteran did not report to the team this year. The Colts then claimed Clinkscale on waivers, but he declined the offer and became a free agent.

Clinkscale, 28, met last week with the Colts, Miami Dolphins, Detroit Lions, Kansas City Chiefs and Los Angeles Raiders.

"It was a very difficult decision between the Colts and Miami," Clinkscale said Tuesday night in a telephone interview with the News.

Clinkscale had a career-high 100 tackles with Dallas last year. He was a starter the past three seasons and has nine interceptions and nine fumble recoveries in his career.

Red Sox' Clemens, Mets' Carter head AP All-Star squad

NEW YORK (AP) — Boston Red Sox pitcher Roger Clemens and catcher Gary Carter of the World Series champion New York Mets led the 1986 Associated Press All-Star team announced Wednesday.

Clemens got 94 votes as the top right-handed starter in a nationwide poll of 100 sportswriters and broadcasters. Carter was named 93 times.

Also picked were first baseman Don Mattingly of the New York Yankees, second baseman Steve Sax of the Los Angeles Dodgers, third baseman Mike Schmidt of the Philadelphia Phillies and shortstop Tony Fernandez of the Toronto Blue Jays.

Joining Clemens as pitchers were left-handed starter Fernando Valenzuela of Los Angeles and reliever Dave Righetti of the Yankees.

Houston's Hal Lanier was chosen earlier as manager of the year.

Ballotting was done prior to the postseason, with voters naming one player at each position.

In the closest race, Barfield got 31 votes to finish one ahead of Cincinnati's Dave Parker.

Clemens, 24, was the most dominant pitcher in baseball this season, leading the majors with a 24-4 record and helping the Red Sox into the World Series. He started the season with a 14-0 record and went to top the American League with a 2.48 earned run average. Houston's Mike Scott was second to Clemens with four votes.

Scott named Astros' MVP

HOUSTON (AP) — Mike Scott, who led the major leagues with 306 strikeouts and pitched a no-hitter to clinch Houston's NL Western Division title, was named Wednesday as the Astros' most valuable player by the Houston chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Scott, also the league leader with a 2.22 earned run average, beat out first baseman Glenn Davis, who hit 31 home runs and had 16 game-winning hits in his first full season in the major leagues.

Scott, who salvaged his career two years ago by developing an effective split fingered fast ball, became only the fourth NL pitcher to reach the 300-strikeout plateau.

Scott and former Astros pitcher J.R. Richard are the only two right-handers to achieve 300-strikeout status.

Righetti set a single-season save record with 46. He was named on 71 ballots and outdistanced St. Louis rookie Todd Worrell, named on 20.

Carter, with eight All-Star Game appearances, finished third in the National League with 105 runs batted in while hitting 24 home runs and batting .255.

Mattingly, the 1985 AL Most Valuable Player, was second in the majors with a .352 average and hit 31 homers with 113 RBI. Mattingly, 25, led baseball with 238 hits and 53 doubles, both all-time Yankee records, and his .573 slugging percentage also was best in the majors. He got 91 votes and Houston's Glenn Davis was far back with three.

Sax had his best all-around year. His .332 average was second in the NL, he stole 40 bases and he committed just 16 errors, his lowest total for a full season. He got 51 votes and Houston's Bill Doran was runnerup at 14.

Schmidt, 37, enjoyed one of his finest years. He led the NL with 37 home runs and 119 RBI and batted .290.

Fernandez, 24, continued to develop as one of the most exciting young players in baseball. He batted .310 with 10 homers and 65 RBI, stole 25 bases and was flashy in the field while not missing a game.

Rice made an effort to hit for higher average this year and it worked as he batted .324 with 20 home runs and 110 RBI.

Puckett, 25, had one of the most productive seasons in the majors. The Twins' leadoff hitter batted .325 with 31 homers and 96 RBI.

"Quality First"

For eight years, Washington wouldn't give us the money for Texas school children . . . then Joe Barton came along.

For eight years, the Federal Government wouldn't give Texas and six other states any of the $5.8 billion in offshore royalties that had been piling up in Treasury escrow accounts.

Then Joe Barton stepped in.

As the only Texas Congressman on the important Interior Committee, Joe worked out a settlement in his committee.

Then, despite opposition from the Federal Government, Joe was part of the small group of Congressmen who got the House and Senate to agree on how to divide the money among the states.

The result? Texas schools got over $424 million this year alone, with two-thirds of it going to public education and Texas will receive hundreds of millions more in the years ahead to improve education for our children. Over time, the solution Joe Barton was a major part of will mean as much as a billion dollars for our state's education system.

"Joe was one of the key players and a tough negotiator for Texas in coming up with a solution to this eight-year old problem."

Secretary of Interior Don Hodel

Even Texas Democrat state officials applauded Republican Joe Barton's leadership on breaking the logjam.

Thanks to Joe Barton, Texas schools got the money they were entitled to.

What else has Joe done for education?

With Congressman Barton's help, Texas A&M was selected as the only Texas university to receive a special, half-a-million dollar Federal Grant to buy scientific equipment for energy research.

As a member of the Science and Technology Committee, Joe works with university officials to bring firms to the Texas A&M Research Park. Joe's efforts could make A&M an international center for scientific research and bring millions in grants and hundreds of jobs to our district.

By getting our school children the money they deserve, Joe demonstrated he has the leadership and experience to get the job done for Texas education in Washington.
