Young Aggies ready for SWC Relays

By Ken Sury
Sports Editor

Most coaches want a nice balance of youth, talent and experience on their teams. For Texas A&M swimming coach Mel Nash, his women's team will have to settle for the first two.

But that doesn't have him worried as both the men's and women's teams begin their fall seasons today at the Southwest Conference Relays held at the University of Arkansas.

Thirteen of the 15 women on the team are freshmen, and the two "old pros" — Rachel Benzel and Suzanne Fiori — are just sophomores.

"Rachel and Suzanne are really providing the needed leadership for this team," Nash said. "They've been performing well in workouts and will be the mainstays of the team."

But Nash said he's expecting good things from such new recruits as Stephanie Langham, Susan Habermas, Michelle Chow and Courtney Searcy. "It's so tough to single out anyone in this group," he said. "The ones I've named are those who will probably swim more events."

"But we're an incredibly well-balanced team. It's just like two years ago — our depth will be phenomenal. Out of our 15, virtually any single one can score points for you in a meet. Three-fourths of the team can make the finals at conference."

The A&M women's team surprised the other teams and Nash when it finished second to the University of Texas last year at the Relays. The Texas women's team, however, will not be in this year's Relays due to a prior commitment. Nash said the team's looking at trying to win the meet, but added that the Aggies still are in a learning process this early in the season.

While the women's group has a lot of new faces, the men's team will be missing an essential reason for its past success — All-American butterflyer Chris O'Neil.

"It's going to be a little bit rough," Nash said. "Over the last four years, O'Neil was a big reason we were successful in the Relays."

O'Neil, who twice finished second in the 100-meter butterfly at the NCAA Championships and won the event at the Goodwill Games this summer, is a student assistant coach for the team. He also is continuing his training here for the 1988 U.S. Olympic team.

Nash said trying to find a replacement for O'Neil in the butterfly will be difficult, but he added that swimmers Chris Kanning, Mark and Mike Surozo have the potential to make up for the loss of O'Neil.

Although the A&M team finished second to Texas at the Relays last year, Nash said it was tough time trying to repeat.

Year the Relays added during competition (the Aggies had any divers), and there won't be able to compete.

Nash said he likes what he's seen in his swimmers and looks forward to the upcoming year.

"They're all mature and are tough competitors," Nash said. "Long as they have that, they can win it."

Ag volleyballers drop Cardinals in 4 games

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — The Texas A&M volleyball team opened its three-match tour of Kentucky with a 15-10, 12-15, 15-6, 15-12 victory over the Louisville Lady Cardinals Thursday night.

The win moves the 18th-ranked Aggies' record to 19-6 on the season.

Offensively, the Aggies hit .335 as a team against the Lady Cardinals. Sophomore Cheri Steensma led the Aggies in kills with 18 for a .515 hitting percentage, while redshirt freshman Kelli Kellen had a .625 average and added 11 kills.

Setter Yvonne Van Brandt pulled out 11 digs and had 28 assists.

"Statistically we looked very good," A&M Coach Al Givens said, "but we had 16 service errors and that's too many."

"We played in spurts again. We had determined early in the match that we would win and we played down to their level. It's a win, though, and we'll take it, but we'll have to play tougher against Kentucky (tonight's match)."

The Aggies play Eastern Kentucky on Saturday.
