Jailed U.S. pilot expects conviction from Sandinistas

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Eugene Hasenfus expects to be convicted by the Nicaraguan People's Tribunal trying him for terrorism but hopes his plea for mercy will lighten the sentence, his lawyer said Tuesday.

Hasenfus will make a "mitigating statement" and "has thrown himself on the mercy of the court," said Griffin Bell, the former U.S. attorney-general who is assisting with the captured American mercenary's defense.

"We hope the statement will cause the Sandinistas, the Nicaraguan government, to be more merciful," he told a news conference.

Hasenfus, 45, of Marinette, Wis., was the only survivor of a C-123 cargo plane shot down Oct. 3 in southern Nicaragua while ferrying supplies to U.S.-backed rebels fighting the leftist government. The three other crewmen were killed in the crash, including the American pilot and co-pilot.

Bell said he, chief Nicaraguan defense attorney Enrique Sotelo Borgen and other defenders helped draft the statement for Hasenfus, who also is charged with conspiracy and violating public security.

On Tuesday morning, Hasenfus, Sotelo Borgen, the president of the three-man People's Tribunal hearing the case, and the assistant prosecutor viewed a videotape of an interview with the American mercenary broadcast on the CBS television program "60 Minutes."

The interview was shown in Managua with a Spanish translation Oct. 19.

In the interview conducted by correspondent Mike Wallace, Hasenfus acknowledged being recruited as a cargo handler to help run supplies to the rebels.

He said he was not sure who ran the rebel supply operation based in El Salvador, but believed he was working for the CIA.

Hasenfus gave no real evidence that the CIA or other U.S. government agencies directed the clandestine supply flights from the Ilopango air base just outside San Salvador.

In an appearance earlier this week, Hasenfus told the tribunal any previous statements he made about CIA involvement in the operation were based on hearsay, not direct personal knowledge.

Shultz goes to Vienna for arms control talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz headed for Vienna on Tuesday with a team of U.S. arms control specialists to test Soviet attitudes on nuclear weapons cuts, human rights and terrorism after the Iceland summit.

U.S. officials steered clear of predicting how Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze would respond to Shultz's agenda.

But they said Shultz was prepared to set up negotiating committees to tackle the details of the latest U.S. proposals, which include a 50 percent reduction in long-range nuclear missiles by 1991.

The setting for the Shultz-Shevardnadze talks today and Thursday is a 35-nation review of the 1975 Helsinki agreement.

Its promise of a freer exchange of people and ideas across the icy East-West divide will serve as a backdrop for an expected U.S. appeal to the Soviets to improve conditions in their country.

On terrorism, Shultz is hoping for support in a mounting campaign against Syria, with which the Soviets have strong military ties. Shultz accused Syria in a speech Monday night in Philadelphia of direct involvement in a thwarted plot to blow up an Israeli jetliner at a London airport last April.

L. Paul Bremer, the new head of the counter-terrorism office at the State Department, is accompanying Shultz.

It is not clear how much influence the Soviets have on President Hafez Assad's government, or whether they intend to use it.

Shultz will stop in Paris Friday on his way back to Washington to discuss the problem with Prime Minister Jacques Chirac and Foreign Minister Jean-Bernard Raimond.

Speakes refuses comment on arms policy with Iran

ABOARD AIR FORCE ONE (AP) — President Reagan's chief spokesman refused to say Tuesday whether the United States had ended its longstanding policy of not selling arms or spare weapons parts to Iran.

Larry Speakes told reporters: "We're not commenting, but I think you ought to be a little careful" in reporting the story.

He reiterated, however, that the U.S. policy of "no negotiation, no concessions, no encouraging third countries to make concessions" remains in effect.

Reagan boarded Air Force One in Los Angeles for the flight to Washington and refused to comment on published reports that his former aide, Robert McFarlane, had traveled to Iran as an administration emissary and had been arrested and jailed there for five days before being deported.

Speakes spoke with reporters after published reports in the Middle East said that American hostage David Jacobsen was freed Sunday as a result of negotiations between the United States and Iran.
