

Sports

Aggies face Owls tonight in Houston

The Texas A&M volleyball team hopes to get back on the winning track tonight when it travels to Houston to face the Rice Owls at 7:30 p.m. in Autry Court.

The Aggies, 20-8 overall and 5-2 in the Southwest Conference, are coming off a loss Monday to the University of Texas at Arlington.

Tonight's match could determine the second-place team behind Texas in the SWC because Rice also holds a 5-2 SWC record. The Owls are 17-12 overall.

A&M returns home for two tough matches this weekend. The Aggies host 16th-ranked Pepperdine Friday and 19th-ranked Arizona Saturday. Both matches begin at 7:30 p.m.

NCAA Volleyball Poll
Division I
The following are the standings of this week's NCAA volleyball poll, with team ranking and record.
	Record
1. Pacific	23-3
2. Brigham Young	29-2
3. San Diego State	33-5
4. San Jose State	20-4
5. Texas	16-4
6. UCLA	24-7
7. Cal-Santa Barbara	20-8
8. Hawaii	20-5
9. Nebraska	19-4
10. Cal-Polytechnic	19-9
11. Stanford	14-7
12. Arizona State	18-5
13. Illinois	24-2
14. Oregon	17-9
15. Penn State	27-2
16. Pepperdine	16-11
17. Colorado State	24-5
18. Texas A&M	20-8
19. Arizona	12-8
20. Georgia	24-6

McNamara gets AL manager award

Rangers' Valentine second

BOSTON (AP) — This time, John McNamara won a close contest.

Eight days after his Boston Red Sox were edged by the New York Mets in the seventh game of the World Series, McNamara scored a narrow victory Tuesday to become American League Manager of the Year.

"That was the furthest thing from my mind," he said of the award. "I would have rather had a win and let somebody else be manager of the year."

But the win didn't come in the sixth or seventh games of the World Series, even though Boston led both, and some of McNamara's decisions were questioned.

"You're going to be subject to second-guessers, but you stay with what got you there," he said at a news conference. "That's what we did."

McNamara, 54, is the man who got the Red Sox to within one strike of the 1986 world championship after they finished in fifth place in the American League East in 1985. That accomplishment brought him the first manager of the year award in his 13 seasons at the helm of a major league team.

The self-effacing leader of the surprising Red Sox beat Bobby Valentine of the Texas Rangers by a single first-place vote in the balloting conducted by the Baseball Writers Association of America before the postseason games.

Each got eight second-place votes and six third-place votes from a panel of 28 sports writers, two from each AL city. But McNamara received 13 first-place votes, one more than Valentine.

McNamara had 95 points based on a system awarding five points for a first-place vote, three points for second and one point for third. Valentine had 90 points.

Gene Mauch of the California Angels, who were beaten by the Red Sox in the AL playoffs, received two first-place votes and 44 points. Pat Corrales of the Cleveland Indians got the other first-place vote and 18 points.

The only other manager to receive votes was Lou Piniella of the New York Yankees. One voter had him in second place and two others in third for a total of five points.

What separated McNamara from his peers in the managing business? "Roger Clemens," he said.

Clemens, who was 24-4, was the ace of the Red Sox' staff and is expected to win the American League's Cy Young Award, to be announced next Wednesday.

The last two Series games were a depressing conclusion to a season in which the Red Sox overcame adversity to reach their first World Series in 11 years.

Few forecasters had predicted Boston would win its division. Serious injuries to starting pitchers Bruce Hurst and Al Nipper, Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd's mid-season suspension by the club, and a weak bench tested McNamara's ability.

But the Red Sox took over first place in the AL East on May 15 and never gave it up. Despite losing the last four games of the regular season to the New York Yankees, Boston won its division title by 5½ games with a 95-66 record.

In 1985, Boston was 81-81 and finished 18½ games behind the first-place Toronto Blue Jays.

Decision favors media in SWC case

AUSTIN (AP) — A federal judge ruled Tuesday that certain information on Southwest Conference recruiting violations sought by the news media is of "substantial public concern" and should be made public.

U.S. District Judge James Nowlin's ruling would protect the privacy of students and their families but would open up NCAA and SWC files on completed investigations of coaches, "boosters" and "informers."

Acting on a suit filed by The Dallas Morning News, Dallas Times Herald and A.H. Belo Corp., Nowlin said the Texas Open Records Act requires the deletion of the "names of students, student-athletes, prospective student athletes and their family members, as well as all transcripts, phone numbers, bank account numbers, social security numbers, and geographical and biographical information about these individuals."

Nowlin said the name and location of the student's school also would be exempt from public disclosure.

NCAA extends Tech's time to respond to allegations

LUBBOCK (AP) — The NCAA has given Texas Tech three more months to respond to allegations of illegal recruiting, school officials announced Tuesday.

"We have been notified that due to the NCAA's heavy schedule, our reply has been delayed until Feb. 1," Athletic Director T. Jones said.

The original deadline was Nov. 3. Jones said Texas Tech has completed its own inquiry into the allegations, none of which involves either the current coaching staff or academic irregularities, he added.

The inquiry concerns the recruiting of blue chip running back Chris Pryor of San Antonio two seasons ago. Pryor — considered by many to be the state's top running back — signed with the Red Raiders but was ineligible and never enrolled in college because he failed to graduate with his high school class.

"The court can perceive no legitimate public interest in disclosure of the identity or personal data of students or their families," Nowlin said. However, he said in granting the media's request in part, "There is no question that the public has a legitimate and vital concern about education, the role of athletics in education, and specifically the nationwide scandal involving recruiting violations."

Nowlin said the public's "legitimate interest" in information about others' "involvement in recruiting violations is much more apparent." He again mentioned high school and college coaches, alumni, "boosters" and "informers."

"The public has a legitimate interest in knowing who recruits illegally, how these unscrupulous individuals operate, which institutions tolerate or encourage such activity, and what, if any, sanctions are imposed upon these individuals or institutions when discovered," Nowlin said.

In his conclusion, Nowlin said certain documents, which were identified by number, would be exempt from disclosure by the attorney-client privilege.

The judge ordered the SWC and NCAA to edit out the personal information about students involved in investigations and make it available to Belo and the Dallas newspapers within 60 days.

Ag golfers finish 4th in Austin tournament

The Texas A&M men's golf team finished fourth in the Harvey Penick Intercollegiate Golf Tournament Tuesday at the Morris Williams Golf Course in Austin.

The tourney was cut short to 45 holes from the scheduled 54 due to the weather, but the University of Texas won with an 881.

Oklahoma State was second with an 894, Oklahoma fired an 898 for third and A&M shot a 906.

Medalist honors went to Bob Estes of Texas with an 8-under-par 172. A&M's scores were as follows: Randy Lee, 179; Randy Wylie, 181; Randy Lee, 182; Neil Hickerson, 185; Andy Cooper, 187; and Scott Lee, 188.

The top five scores from each day of the two-day event were tabulated to determine team scores.

Aggie men's tennis team finish tourney finals today

The final round of the Sun Bowl Invitational was rained out Sunday, but play will resume today with the singles final beginning at 1:30 p.m. at the Omar Smith Tennis Center.

An all-Texas A&M final round will feature Dean Johnson and Dean Goldfine in the singles final and the team of Goldfine and Marcel Vos going against Johnson and Brent Haygarth in the doubles final at 3 p.m.

Freshmen & Sophomores

LAST CHANCE

Freshmen and sophomore photos for the 1987 Aggieland have been extended until November 7. Photos will be taken at AR Photography, 707 Texas Ave., across from the A&M Polo Field.

Super seats to see the SuperStar!

November 6

Rudder Auditorium/8 p.m.

Jesus Christ Superstar, the sensational opera that rocked the seventies, will open the 1986-87 MSC Town Hall/Broadway Season.

Don't miss this powerful production of the greatest story ever told. A few good seats are still available. This "Superstar" combines spellbinding scenes with Broadway's most dazzling visual effects and unforgettable musical scores.

This season MSC Town Hall/Broadway will present "Romeo and Juliet" February 14, 1987, Cole Porter's "Can-Can" March 1, 1987 and William Windom as "Thurber" April 23, 1987.

Tickets for "Jesus Christ Superstar" are on sale at the MSC Box Office, 845-1234. VISA and MasterCard accepted. Catch this Superstar!

MSC Town Hall Broadway