Baseball writers choose Lanier for manager of the year in N.L.

HOUSTON (AP) — Hal Lanier, who guided the Houston Astros to the National League West title, became Wednesday the first rookie to be named the National League's Manager of the Year by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Lanier received 19 of a possible 24 first-place votes to three for runner-up Dave Johnson, who managed the New York Mets to a victory over the Astros in the NL playoffs and on to a World Series championship.

Roger Craig of the San Francisco Giants got the two other first-place votes.

Overall, Lanier finished with 108 points to 62 for Johnson, 42 for Craig, three for John Felske of the Philadelphia Phillies and one for Jim Leyland of the Pittsburgh Pirates. Johnson was fourth in the voting last season and second in 1984.

Five points were awarded for a first-place vote, three points for second and one point for third. The voting was done before the playoffs by two baseball writers in each league city.

Lanier was not available for comment Wednesday afternoon, club spokesman Cinda Donovan said.

"We can't get hold of him," she said.

The first-year major league manager was preparing to fly to Fiji on Thursday with his wife, Mary, for a belated honeymoon, she said. The couple got married last spring.

Johnson, reached in Tokyo where he is managing a U.S. All-Star team against a Japanese All-Star team, said he didn't expect to win.

"I congratulate Hal Lanier," Johnson said. "He did a great job all year and his team really battled us in the playoffs. The way the award has been going, it seems really hard for the manager of a team picked to win, to win the award. Honestly, I wouldn't trade what we won last week for any individual award."

Lanier, a former infielder, spent five years as a coach with the St. Louis Cardinals before taking the Astros' job.

He took over a Houston team that in 1985 finished tied for third in the West, 12 games behind the champion Los Angeles Dodgers with an 83-79 record, and led his team to a 96-66 mark, 10 games better than the second-place Cincinnati.

He directed an aggressive game plan, building the team around pitching and turning his players loose on the bases in the manner of the 1985 Cardinals.

The Astros pushed the Mets to tight games in the playoffs, losing 16 innings in the sixth game after holding a 3-0 lead entering the ninth inning.

Lanier earlier was named Associated Press Manager of the Year.

Allison will start in back row at TROC

Auto racing great Bobby Allison will have to start from the back of the pack Sunday for the 10th annual Texas Race of Champions at Texas World Speedway (TROC).

Allison, who will be trying to win his first Texas Race of Champions title, will miss Saturday's qualifying because he has to fulfill a rain date for a race in Nashville, Tenn.

Texas Race of Champions' rules state that non-qualifiers must start the race from the back of the starting field. More than 40 cars are entered in the Texas Race of Champions, including cars driven by two-time winners Terry Labonte and "The Beaumont Flyer" Freddy Fryar.

The Texas Race of Champions is one of seven races Sunday. Other races include showroom cars, super stock cars, Formula Ford and Vee cars and mini Can-Am-type cars.

For tickets and information, contact Texas World Speedway, P.O. Box AJ, College Station, Texas 77840, or phone (409) 690-2500.

Colts' Clinkscale disappointed by new team's apathetic attitude

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Dexter Clinkscale is appalled by what he sees as a losing attitude among some of his new Indianapolis Colts teammates.

"I don't think there's any losers on this team. But from what I could see on the sidelines, some of the guys have gotten used to it. And that's pathetic," says Clinkscale, a veteran strong safety who last week signed as a free agent with the NFL's only winless team.

Clinkscale, 28, was a starter for the Dallas Cowboys the past three years. He had a career-high 100 tackles and made three interceptions last season but held out for more money, was waived and eventually signed with Indianapolis after meeting with the Colts, Miami Dolphins, Detroit Lions, Kansas City Chiefs and Los Angeles Raiders.

He was on the sideline but did not play Sunday as the Colts were beaten 24-9 by Cleveland, their ninth straight loss.

"It takes 45 guys and the coaches to go out and win for a football team. The only thing now we can hope for as a team is maybe a molding of character these last seven games, getting that positive attitude going toward the future," says Clinkscale.

He signed a contract to play with the Colts through the 1988 season.

— Indianapolis Colt Dexter Clinkscale

"I'm going to work slowly and probably start out with the special teams, and maybe on the prevent pass defense," Clinkscale says of his breaking in with the Colts. "There's only seven games left in the season, and I'm in no rush. Right now, I think I'm basically a future player for the Colts."

"There's no way the Colts can salvage this season," he continued. "Maybe if we win some games, we can gain a little respect from the people of Indianapolis, and the teams across the league and the fans across the country."

Clinkscale was the third player signed by the Colts in the past few weeks in an effort to improve both the passing offense and defense. Wide receiver Walter Murray signed a four-year pact and has played in the past three games, and free safety Dwight Hicks got a contract through the 1987 season and has played in the past two games.

America II remains tied for 1st in Cup

FREMANTLE, Australia (AP) — America II sailed to a victory over Britain's White Crusader Wednesday, while New Zealand also won and remained tied with the United States boat for the lead in the America's Cup challenge series.

America II, captained by John Kolius, lost the start to White Crusader but took the lead after the first mark and led for the rest of the race, winning by one minute.

Chris Dickson kept New Zealand in front of French Kiss throughout their race. It was close until the final leg, when the fiberglass boat pulled away from Marc Pajot's crew to win by 2 minutes, 23 seconds.

The victories kept America II and New Zealand atop the standings with 31 points each. White Crusader remained third with 23 points. Italia was fourth with 22 points and Stars & Stripes was fifth with 21.

America II and White Crusader both flew protest flags midway through their race, while French Kiss and New Zealand raised red flags about five minutes before the start.

All four protests were dismissed. In the other races involving American yachts, USA defeated Azurra, Stars & Stripes defeated Heart of America, and Eagle whipped Challenge France.

Meanwhile, Dory Vogel of Shoreham, N.Y., was reflecting on her role as a navigator aboard Stars & Stripes during a winning race Tuesday against Challenge France.

Participation by women in the yachting series is rare, but their presence in crews dates back to 1886, when Mrs. William Henn was aboard Britain's Galatea.

Since then, six different women have been in the final round eleven times. Two were American and five were British.

The first American woman to compete in the final round was Mrs. C. Oliver Iselin, who sailed aboard the Columbia in 1899.

"I was real nervous," Vogel said Wednesday. "Joining the crew was a complete surprise."

Her husband, Scott, is a bowman on the boat skippered by Dennis Conner.

"I made a couple of mistakes because I haven't been working with the computers lately," she said.

Computers play a large role in 12-meter racing. They provide feedback on wind conditions, sail trim, navigation, time made good and other information necessary to keep the yacht sailing fast.

She did not have her husband on two months on board for moral support because he had the day off.
