Peres to report on Iran arms shipment

Israeli government attempts to ease pressure from critics

JERUSALEM (AP) — Foreign Minister Shimon Peres tried Monday to defuse pressure on the Israeli government to disclose its role in shipping U.S. arms to Iran...

He flatly refused, however, to give information about any Iranian arms deal when he appeared before the Foreign Affairs and Security Committee...

He promised instead to brief the six-member Subcommittee on Armed Services. The development came amid concern that an angry U.S. Congress could make Israel a scapegoat for the U.S. administration's sales.

The political uproar in the United States over the arms shipments has just begun to spread to Israel, where many Israelis accept that arms deals are not a subject for public debate.

The full 120-member Knesset, or parliament, scheduled a debate for Tuesday on the issue. "There has never arisen a more bitter enemy of the Jewish people and, in my opinion, of human civilization, than the Khomeini regime," said Abba Eban...

He referred to Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, Iran's revolutionary patriarch.

President Reagan has said he authorized a third country, reportedly Israel, to ship arms to Iran to try to form links with Iranian moderates.

The Jerusalem Post quoted unidentified Israeli defense officials as expressing concern that Congress could act against Israel for its role.

"We can expect to see almost all bilateral military negotiations grind to a standstill for a while and a hostile climate developing toward Israel in Congress," one unidentified source was quoted as saying.

Congressional wrath could disrupt such projects as financing and building the Lavi jet fighter; permission to sell to Honduras Kfir jets which contain U.S.-built components...

nents, and granting Israel the status of NATO countries in bidding for defense contracts, the Post quoted the officials as saying.

Morris Draper, U.S. consul in Jerusalem, sounded surprised, however, when asked if the controversy had affected U.S.-Israeli relations.

The relationship "is very good. I don't expect it to be damaged," Draper said in remarks broadcast on Israel army radio.

Man climbing Berlin Wall shot down

BERLIN (AP) — East German border guards fired dozens of shots Monday at a young man trying to climb over the Berlin Wall to the West and he fell to the ground covered with blood, Western authorities said.

Another East German succeeded Monday in escaping to the West by setting out on a raft into the Baltic Sea, where he was picked up by a passing ship, West German police said.

The 36-year-old man on the raft identified himself as a nephew of Karl-Eduard von Schnitzler, Communist East Germany's propaganda chief and the leading commentator on state-run television, sources told The Associated Press.

A West Berlin witness to the wall shooting reported hearing shouts of "Halt, stand still," followed by 30 to 50 shots on the eastern side of the wall at about 1:30 a.m., West Berlin police said.

Flooding, mudslides cause problems

SNOQUALMIE, Wash. (AP) — Flooding caused by heavy rain and melting snow forced dozens of families from their homes Monday and blocked the only highway to a mountain resort where about 1,000 weekend skiers were stranded.

Flooding and mudslides cut off railroads east and west of Seattle, one by a mudslide that cut a 300-foot-deep gap through 60 feet of track.

Interstate 90, the state's major east-west highway, for part of the day.

Officials declared emergencies in King County, around Seattle, and in Lewis County south of Tacoma.

Several towns also declared emergencies.

One firefighter was killed Sunday when he was hit by a train while helping evacuate a nursing home threatened by flooding.

Alaskan plain to open for development

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Interior Department study recommended Monday that Alaska's energy-rich Coastal Plain be opened to full-scale petroleum development so long as its fragile ecology and teeming wildlife are protected.

"The area is clearly the most outstanding oil and gas frontier remaining in the United States and could contribute substantially to our domestic energy supplies," according to the study.

warned that "oil and gas development will result in widespread, long-term changes in wildlife habitat."

Environmental groups, saying development and protection are not compatible at the Coastal Plain, said they would work to persuade Congress to bar oil and gas drilling in the frozen tundra.

The study said that as many as 9.2 billion barrels of oil could be recovered from the 1.5 million-acre tract along the Arctic Ocean.

Study says stress won't make students vulnerable to illness

BOSTON (AP) — College students may find exams nauseating, but a new study suggests that the stress of these grueling rituals isn't likely to make them more vulnerable to infections.

The idea has long been accepted by many that college students are more likely than usual to get sick during exam time, because the stress of studying for tests and taking them weakens their natural immunity to disease.

"I think there really is a connection between stress and illness," but not where students and exams are concerned, says Dr. Harris Faigel, director of health services at Brandeis University.

tor less, not more, during exams, probably because they felt they were too busy to get medical help.

He said the notion that students were more likely to be sick during tests may have arisen because there is more talk about stress and illness at exam time.

A variety of animal studies suggest that stress is far more damaging if it's inescapable.

For humans, this could mean that stress is apt to make people sick if it results from some hopeless calamity. It might explain, for example, why people often fall seriously ill in the months after the death of a spouse.

But students can do something about exams, Faigel says. The exams "probably constitute an escapable stress," he says.

"When you are studying, you can get up and take a break," Faigel says. "There's a sense of having some control."

Faigel reviewed nearly 40,000 student visits over four years for treatment of strep throat, mononucleosis and urinary tract infections. Students actually went to the doctor less, not more, during exams...
