Honduran troops chase Nicaraguan stragglers

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — Honduran troops, flown by U.S. helicopters, hunted for stragglers Monday of a Nicaraguan force that Honduran officers say crossed the border during the weekend and burned three deserted villages.

A military intelligence source said the troops also were acting as a guard against further incursions.

The source, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said about 20 Honduran air force planes had bombed and strafed retreating Nicaraguans, who he said were pursued by three Honduran infantry battalions.

Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista government denied that an incursion took place and claimed that warplanes from the Honduran side of the border bombed two villages inside Nicaragua, killing seven soldiers and wounding 11 people.

Honduras said that 18 of its soldiers were wounded in intense fighting in the border area over the weekend and that its troops inflicted undisclosed "heavy" casualties on a force of 700 Sandinista raiders.

U.S. Embassy and Honduran military sources, who spoke on condition that they not be identified for security reasons, said 14 U.S. helicopters ferried hundreds of Honduran troops to the border site on Sunday after the Nicaraguan force crossed into Honduras the day before.

The helicopters, all unarmed, provided transport from Palmarola, an air base where U.S. forces are headquartered 30 miles northeast of Tegucigalpa, to an air strip called Jamastran, about 90 miles east of the capital, they said.

The Jamastran air strip is 30 miles from the border, in line with standing instructions to American troops to avoid possible clashes with the Nicaraguans.

Honduran officials said residents of about 40 villages fled to safety elsewhere when the Nicaraguan force penetrated three miles inside Honduras on Saturday and set fire to three deserted villages near the town of Cifuentes, about 70 miles east of Tegucigalpa. The villages, Mitingale, Buena Vista and La Esperanza, all were in El Paraiso province.

Capt. Carlos Quezada Aguirre, spokesman for Honduran forces, said heavy fighting resumed Sunday around Cifuentes but Sandinistas began withdrawing to the caraguan side of the border.

Independent confirmation of battle accounts was not possible since reporters were barred from the area.

Last weekend marked the first time this year that President Alfonso Hoyo asked President Reagan for military help to fend off reported Nicaraguan incursions on the border, where U.S.-backed contra rebels maintain base camps their fight against the Sandinista government.

The United States also provided military helicopter transport for the Honduran army in the area when Honduras complained the force of about 1,500 Sandinista troops crossed the border in pursuit of a Contra force.

South Africa reports 256 children under 16 jailed on no charges

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The government said Monday that 256 children under 16 were in jail without charge, including one only 11 years old. Anti-apartheid groups reported a huge troop buildup in black townships.

Police Commissioner J.P. Coetzee made the announcement about children detained under the nationwide state of emergency imposed June 12.

Monitoring groups estimate the number of black children under 18 being held at 1,300-4,000 and have demanded they be freed before Christmas.

Coetzee gave no indication of how many people aged 16-18 were being held.

One monitoring group, the Detainees' Parents Support Committee, called that omission "the most cynical sleight of hand."

"It is clear that the 16-, 17- and 18-year-old group are the prime target of state repression," it said. "Whatever the exact number may be, even one child in detention is too many."

The End Conscription Campaign, an anti-draft group that opposes the use of white army draftees in black townships, said Monday there had been a "massive concentration of troops" in townships over the past week.

Soldiers were setting up roadblocks at the entrances to townships around Johannesburg area and conducting house-to-house searches for suspected activists, the organization said. It added that the army had mobilized thousands of conscripts in the past two weeks and was not granting leaves during December.

When asked for a response, the army issued a statement saying it "does not comment on troop strength and deployment."

Anti-apartheid groups have predicted a major crackdown on activists and tighter press restrictions. Under current emergency rules, reporters may not describe security force actions or publish the names of detainees without permission, or publish "subversive statements."

An estimated 20,000 people have been detained at some point under the emergency, and monitoring groups believe about half remain in jail.

Cab driver injures 13 in Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — A taxi ran a red light and plowed into a crowd of pedestrians on a downtown street at lunchtime Monday, injuring at least 13 people, two of them critically, police said.

"I was walking across the street with the rest of the people who heard screams," said Carmen Martinovich, 26, a downtown office worker. "I heard thump, thump, thump. I turned around. There were bodies all over the place."

The taxicab ran a red light struck the pedestrians at the corner of State and Monroe streets in the Loop and hit an unmarked police car parked in front of the Palmer House hotel, said Paulman James Miller and witness.

The impact of the crash left an unmarked squad car partially crushed.

The injured were transported to four hospitals.

The cab driver was taken to the police from the scene to Methodist Hospital, where spokeswoman Julie O'Heir said he was unconscious.

Student protests prompt premier to pull university modification bill

PARIS (AP) — Premier Jacques Chirac on Monday withdrew a bill to modify the state-run university system, giving in to a three-week campaign of sometimes violent protests by high school and college students.

In the Latin Quarter, the capital's student district, about 30,000 demonstrators marched peacefully through the streets to mourn the death of a 22-year-old student. According to the autopsy, the student died of a heart attack after he was beaten by police.

Throughout the country, people paused for a moment of silence.

Opposition to Chirac's government has been snowballing since the protests began. Teachers, unions, leftist politicians and even government officials have spoken out against the university bill.

The government has said the measure would make higher education more competitive, but critics claim it is elitist and diminishes students' freedom of choice.

"No modification of the universities, as necessary as it may be, can be carried through without wide support from all of the interested parties, notably students and teachers," Chirac said in a televised announcement.

"It can only be done in calm," he said. "It clearly appears that that is not the case today. Demonstrations process, with all of the risks of violence and the damage they entail for all, are the proof."

Chirac said he asked Education Minister René Herry to draw up a new proposal to reform the country's 78 universities. He said he hoped the new plan would meet "the legitimate aspirations of the young."

The office of President Francois Mitterrand announced that the government accepted the resignation of Higher Education Minister Alain Devaquet, author of the original bill. Devaquet submitted his resignation Saturday.
