FOR RENT

HERE'S ONE COLLEGE MEMORY WE'LL HELP YOU FORGET.

If you're like a lot of people, your longest-lasting memory of college is the student loan you're still paying back. The Army has a solution, though: qualify, sign up with us, and we'll sign off on your loan.

Each year you serve as a soldier, the Army will reduce your college debt by 1/3 or $1,500, whichever amount is greater. So after serving just 3 years, your government loan could be completely paid off.

You're eligible for this program if you have a National Direct Student Loan, or a Guaranteed Student Loan, or a Federal Insured Student Loan after October 1, 1975. The loan must not be in default.

Get a clean slate, by erasing your college debt. Take advantage of the Army's Loan Repayment Program. Your local Recruiter can tell you if you qualify.

Unhurried rafting draws city-bound explorers to river

RIO GRANDE VILLAGE (AP) — For city slickers bent on communing with the wild, rafting on the Rio Grande in remote west Texas is just the ticket.

You won't experience hair-raising, heart-stopping, white water as the river winds its way through the desert. That kind of excitement is farther north in Texas, N.M., and southern Colorado, where the Rio Grande begins.

Here, where the river marks the boundary between Texas and Mexico, the agenda consists of leisurely floats between sheer cliff walls 1,800 feet high, gourmet meals cooked over coals under stary Southwestern skies and vintage wines sipped out of tin cups while squatting in the brush.

Any raft trip, though, is sure to offer some degree of excitement.

On one three-day, two-night trip that ended at this camping village at Big Bend National Park, one incident broke the gentle pace punctuated by bird-watching and friendly water fights.

A band of rampaging burros, angry at finding their stomping grounds occupied by overnight humans, terrorized some of the novices of the outdoors, who were sure the donkeys had murderous intent.

While river veterans slept soundly, tenderfoot campers were kept awake by an all-night serenade of hee-hawing, cringing as the burros staged lively jousting matches and kicked up clouds of dust.

Several companies offer guided rafting trips on the Rio Grande through five canyons in the Big Bend area. Colorado Canyon is 25 miles upstream from the park's west boundary, while Mesa de Anguila is 10 miles downstream inside the park. Santa Elena and Mariscal canyons are probably the most popular in the park. Santa Elena is eight miles of sometimes overhanging cliffs and the well-known Rockslide rapid.

"No accidents, but there's been upsets at the Rockslide," said Steve Harris, president of Terlingua-based Far Flung Adventures. "It's where the canyon wall came off and it's 300 yards of rocks. You have to scout it and know where you're going and not enter blind alleys. It may be impossible to get out."

New shuttle design stalled pending tests

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — A rocket-powered system designed to pull astronauts to safety from the space shuttle will not be installed until further tests are conducted, a space agency official announced Tuesday.

Rear Adm. Richard Truly, the NASA associate administrator for space flight, said the agency does not "feel comfortable" yet in committing to a proposed rocket escape system.

Truly added that the agency will fly the shuttle even if such a system is not installed.

However, Truly said that the agency is going to proceed with the design and installation of a system that should be used to blow away a space shuttle hatch.

This would permit the crew to jump to safety in the event of an emergency.

Truly said that in an emergency on the ground or in a low-speed controlled flight, the crew members could blow the hatch away and then leave the craft.

Parachutes and other personal safety equipment are being developed, he said.

Truly made the comments during a news conference in which he and two other NASA officials reported on the status of the agency's recovery from the explosion on Jan. 28, 1986, of Challenger.

The accident killed seven crewmembers and caused the shuttle

The Tight Squeeze at Manzanito Canyon can get rather in a spot. Two boulders, each about the size of a van, block the river, leaving a space in between just wide enough for a raft to pass through.

WASH — makes it tricky is that the opening is at an angle, the water flows help maneuver quickly and expertly avoid getting smashed against the rocks.

White or as long as a week. Many rafters are wet behind the ears when they come to rafting, said Beth Garcia of Big Bend River Tours, which has headquarters in Lajitas. For the she recommends the half-day trip.

"Some people are afraid of water, or it's their first time," she said. "We get mostly novices, but real experienced people go on their own."

Rafting season starts in May of when the cactus blooms and weather turns warmer. September is a slack month, but business picks up in October and November and companies have a Christmas season. For overnight trips, customers need only bring light clothing in the summer months, sun block and a own sleeping bag. The companies provide the rest, including first-aid kits, life jackets and aing water.

Reservations are needed for trips, which can cost as little as $500 per person for a seven-day trip.

Those who think a trip to the doors means eating roots and insects will find a new meaning in the concept of "roughing it."

10-year-old assault trial postponed

FORT WORTH (AP) — A trial for a 10-year-old boy accused of assaulting a 101-year-old woman was postponed for a week at the request of the defense prosecutor said.

Jury selection was to have begun Tuesday morning, but was delayed until Jan. 27, said Judge Ball, a Tarrant County assistant district attorney.

Ball said defense attorney Layne Harwell requested the postponement because some defense witnesses were not available.

The boy is accused of stabbing and beating Laura Bell Young, her Fort Worth home Dec. 28, 1986, of Challenger.
