Near-collisions in air worry Congressman

DALLAS (AP)—A lawmaker and some air safety groups say an increase in the number of near-misses over Texas, as well as the rest of the country, should be a cause of concern for airlines and passengers.
 The Federal Aviation Administration says 72 near-misses between aircraft were reported over Texas last year, up from 67 in 1985. California had 202 reported near-misses, while Florida posted 79.
 "These new figures alarm me," said U.S. Rep. Guy V. Molinari, R-N.Y., a member of the House Public Works and Transportation subcommittee on oversight and investigations.
 But FAA spokesman John Leyden called the increase "misleading," saying it represents more stringent reporting requirements the agency started in 1984.
 Three collisions occurred in January, including one between two Air Force jets near Brownwood.
 Molinari said, "You have to be an idiot not to see that (the figures) have some significance. It bothers me that the FAA says they don't have any significance."
 Pilots, air safety experts and some air traffic controllers say an overworked and understaffed air control system contributed to increases in near-misses.
 U.S. pilots in 1986 reported 828 near-collisions to the FAA, as compared to 758 in 1985. The agency defines a near-collision as when aircraft come within 500 feet of each other.

Houston, Atlanta continue battle over convention site

HOUSTON (AP)—Mayor Kathy Whitmire says she is concerned that Atlanta may have inflated the value of its bid to lure the 1988 Democratic National Convention to Georgia instead of Houston.
 But she says she'll keep details of Houston's offer a secret — a move Atlanta officials say they'll match.
 "That's exactly what I don't want — (Houston's offer) lying down on the sheet with Atlanta's estimate, because I think they may have inflated theirs," Whitmire said Wednesday.
 Houston's bid included $8 million or more in public and private contributions, officials said.
 The 56-member site selection committee is expected to make its decision on the July 1988 convention at a meeting Tuesday in Washington.
