Health professionals launch new program urging mammograms

By Adrienne D. Dunbar Reporter

One in 10 women in the United States will be diagnosed with breast cancer in her lifetime.

To combat this disease, doctors and health professionals are launching a 1987 Texas Breast Screening Project, devised to provide low-cost mammograms and promote early detection as the best weapon against

A mammogram is a low-dose Xray of the breast that can detect cancerous tumors too small to be felt by

Many women, however, are hesitant to get a mammogram, said Tim Elsner, public information director of the American Cancer Society. Major deterrents include fear of radiation, lack of information and high cost, Elsner said.

In an effort to reduce the high cost and inform women of the mammogram screening benefits, KBTX-TV of Bryan and Dean Witter Reynolds Inc. will sponsor an informational series on the Channel 3 news March 2-6, while local hospitals and clinics are working to offer mammograms at $50 or less.

Screening mammograms are very useful and sometimes lifesaving, but aren't covered by most insurance plans, the ACS said.

A local insurance agent said, "We don't cover preventative care. Anytime you go to a physician with a problem, then that's covered."

A Dallas representative of a national insurance company added, "If it's not medically necessary, we don't cover it. But how do you determine that? If it's through a doctor's care, then we cover it.

The ACS suggests screening mammograms for women at about age 35. This provides a "baseline" to which future mammograms can be compared. Annual mammograms are encouraged for women over 50.

"The American Cancer Society hopes to create an awareness so women will become conscious con-sumers," Elsner said. "We hope to do for the mammogram what the Society was able to accomplish in the 1960s by alerting women to the Pap

Clements' budget plans knocked by state officials

AUSTIN (AP) — Lt. Gov. Bill to stand firm on his promise to veto bbby and House Speaker Gib Le- any budget above $36.9 billion. Hobby and House Speaker Gib Lewis said Tuesday that Gov. Bill Clements' proposed budget could hurt the poor while failing to solve the state's fiscal dilemma.

"It's a little short on adding up," Lewis said before meeting with Asked if Clements' numbers add up to a solution, Hobby said, "No, they certainly don't. You've seen the (Legislative) Budget Board analysis,

The LBB analysis released Monday said Clements' budget includes cuts in several programs, including Department of Human Services programs for the needy. The governor's proposed $36.9 billion 1988-89 state budget gives the department $577.2 million less than the amount needed to maintain current services, the LBB analysis reported.

At his Tuesday news conference, Clements said there is room for adjustments in the budget, but vowed

The Clements plan includes continuation of the current temporary increases in the state sales and gasoline taxes. Hobby and Lewis are talking about more sweeping changes in

It adds up to the sort of legislative deadlock that some lawmakers have predicted will mean several summer special sessions to write the budget.
