in stabbing death

By Carolyn Garcia

Murder suspect Terry Washngton was indicted Thursday on apital murder charges by the Brazos County grand jury for the Jan. 15 murder of Beatrice Huling. If convicted, Washin could face the death penalty. If convicted, Washington

Washington has been held without bond in the Brazos County Jail since his Feb. 25 arrest in connection with the murder of the night manager of Julie's Place Restaurant.

Bail was denied March 6 during a hearing sought by Washing-ton's attorney, Tyler Moore, to have his client released.

During the March 6 hearing, wo of Washington's cousins testified that Washington bragged about killing Huling.

Mary Sandles told District Attorney Bill Turner during that hearing that Washington told her and four others in her home that he had killed Huling.

Sandles testified that Washington said, "Yeah, I killed the

"He said that he hated white folks," she said. "For enough money, he said he would kill any

Sandles' brother, Billy Sandles, told Turner he saw Washington a few days after the murder at a convenience store with a $100 bill in the front pocket of his shirt and what he said appeared to be several hundred dollars in his

Moore said that Washington has made no confession.

Washington, 23, was employed as a dishwasher at the restaurant. Huling, the mother of two, was found stabbed to death in the restaurant. She had been stabbed 85 times and disemboweled. There was more than $600 missing from

At the time of his arrest, Washington was on parole from the Texas Department of Corrections after serving part of a seven-year sentence for the unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

War memorial honoring fallen Ags to be relocated for better visibility

By Tami Tate Reporter

The Texas A&M War Memorial is being elocated, partly to increase its visibility and partly because of Duncan Dining Hall reno-

The 10-by-5-foot stone memorial is currently in the Meditation Garden between he east and west wings of Duncan Dining Hall. The memorial's new location will be on the west side of the plaza in front of the Quadrangle at the intersection of Nagle nd Lubbock streets

The memorial is dedicated to Texas

eak.

A&M students who died in military service since World War II.

"The new location will create better visibility for the monument," said Col. Donald R. Henderson, deputy assistant commandant of the Corps of Cadets. "In its pre-vious location, parents and students could not easily view the monument."

Architects and engineers from Emmett Trant and Associates are designing and constructing a new look for the memorial.

"The new memorial will have buff-colored concrete instead of gray, with steps leading up to it," Emmett Trant said. "It will be sandblasted with a rough surface that will make the memorial more decorative than the previous one. The architects also will clean, recondition and modify the memorial's bronze plaques listing the names, ranks and classes of each A&M student killed in military service since World War II, Trant said. Trant said the memorial should be completed within two to three weeks.

Henderson and Corps Cmdr. Garland Wilkinson head a committee in charge of planning the rededication of the memorial. The rededication is planned for April 21, the same day as Muster, Wilkinson said. 'Muster is a reflection on our past," he said. "We want to tie the two together.

The committee plans to have Dr. Robert Walker, A&M's vice president for development, speak at the rededication ceremony and at Muster, Wilkinson said.

The Drum and Bugle Corps and the Ross Volunteers will participate in the ceremony, with the Drum and Bugle Corps performing Echo Taps, he said.

Financed by the classes of 1969 through 1973, the original memorial was dedicated Nov. 8, 1969, Henderson said.

An article in First Call, a Corps of Cadets' newsletter, said the original idea for the Meditation Garden and memorial was conceived by Landis S. Cervenka, a 1969 A&M

"We have plans to invite representatives and class agents from the classes of 1969 through 1973 to the rededication because they sponsored the original memorial," Henderson said.
