A&M falls short against Duke 58-51

Ags' lack of depth, experience spells defeat

By Ed Bodde

Assistant Sports Editor
The Texas A&M men's basketball team was arguably playing its best basketball of the season, having just swept through the Southwest Conference Tournament.

And with four minutes remaining, A&M had put itself in position to knock off traditional Atlantic Coast Conference power Duke in an NCAA first round game at the Hoosier Dome in Indianapolis.

But some key Aggie misses and successful free-throw shooting by the Blue Devils gave Duke a 58-51 victory Thursday before 25,562

It was A&M's first opportunity in NCAA tournament action since a third round loss to eventual national champion Louisville in 1980. "They (Duke) are a fine team," A&M Coach Shelby Metcalf said. "I think the big difference was they had been there (NCAA tourna-ment), and we hadn't. Three or four of our players were more nervous than I'd seen this year."

Duke equaled its biggest lead of the game at 36-26 when Kevin Strickland followed his own miss and made a layup at the 17:17 mark of the second half.

But A&M, behind forwards Winston Crite and John Trezvant, came right back. Crite hit a 13-footer and Trezvant sunk two free throws and an 11-foot turnaround jumper to make the score 36-32.

After Duke's Alla Abbelnaby got loose inside for a basket, A&M guard Darryl McDonald got his own rebound and scored to pull the Aggies within four at 38-34.

A&M missed two chances to cut the lead to two, but after McDonald missed a dunk, Crite got the re-bound and hit an 8-foot bank shot to make it 38-36, and Duke had to call a timeout with 11:33 remaining. After the timeout, Crite would get only one more basket.

"(Billy) King played well against Crite on defense," Duke Coach Mike Krzyzewski said. "We were able to stop him from getting the ball the last part of the game."

The presence of senior guard Tommy Amaker was also a key in son All-America, Amaker put constant pressure on the A&M guards.

"I didn't have a problem shooting the ball," Crite said. He finished 6 of 9 from the floor. "When I shot is:

After the timeout, Duke, behind the shooting of Kevin Strickland, pushed its lead back to five points at 48-43 with 6:36 left in the game. Strickland, who was the game's leading scorer with 20 points, hit two 15foot jumpers, a 3-pointer and sunk a the Aggies got the rebound.

for the win.

When it was finally over, Metcalf cited depth and lack of experience as important parts of the game.

The Aggies out-rebounded hell Devils 29-23, and A&M had 22 overs to Duke's 23.

Ohio State's Hayes dies in sleep

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Woody Hayes, who for 28 seasons ruled his Ohio State University football teams like one of the generals he so admired, died in his sleep Thursday at home. He was 74.

Anne Hayes discovered her husband's body at about 6 a.m., said Robert Murphy, Hayes' physician. Hayes apparently suffered a heart attack, he said.

Although Hayes' long career at Ohio State was marked by success on the field, he also was dogged by controversy. Outbursts against football officials and the media became commonplace, and he eventually lost his Job over such a temper tantrum.

In 1978, his team was driving down the field in the waning moments of the Gator Bowl while trailing Clemson 17-15 when linebacker Charlie Bauman intercepted Art Schlichter's pass.

On national television, Hayes punched Bauman, knocking him out of bounds at the Ohio State sideline. Buckeye players pulled their angry coach away from Bauman and later escorted him off the field.

The next day, Hayes was relieved of his coaching duties.

Hayes later was a frequent speaker at Ohio State football prac-tices, and the university named a street after him. "There've been a lot of great men fired," Hayes told an OSU commencement audience last March. 'MacArthur, Richard Nixon, a lot of them.' Former President Nixon said Thursday, "Like all great men, regardless of profession, Woody Hayes understood the great forces that moved the world. I was privileged to know him as a loyal friend and as an insightful, wise counselor."

President Reagan, in a statement issued by the White House, called Hayes a legend in college football.

'Colorful and sometimes even controversial, he cared deeply about his players, his team and his school,' Reagan said. "Nancy and I extend our deep sympathy to his family and to the Ohio State University communing percentage. He was college football's fifth-winningest coach, compiling a record of 238-72-10 overall and 205-61-10 at Ohio State. He also coached at Denison University and Miami of Ohio.

His teams won or shared 13 Big Ten Conference championships. He sent teams to seven Rose Bowls, and the Buckeyes also appeared in the Orange, Sugar and Gator Bowls under his guidance.

just remember how Coach Hayes cared for people," said Archie Griffin, the only two-time winner of the Heisman Trophy in 1974 and 1975, who played tailback for Hayes. Hayes was born in Clifton, Ohio, on Valentine's Day, 1913. He attended Denison University, where he played offensive tackle for three years. He graduated in 1935, majoring in history and English.

His office at Ohio State was stocked with books on history; his speeches were peppered with references to General George Patton and Lord Nelson, a 19th-century English match with Baylor, or the Bears might defeat the Aggies, as well. In other singles matches, Dean Johnson lost to Stefan Kruger 6-0, 4-6; Den Bishop beat Dean Goldfine 6-3, 6-2; Brent Haygarth lost the toughest match of the day to Ed Ross 7-6, 7-6; Shaun O'Donovan went three sets before losing to Brent Steven 6-3, 0-6, 6-2; and Brian Devening beat Steve Kennedy 6-3, 6-2.

The doubles action was no better for the Aggies. No. 1 team Vos and Goldfine lost to Reneberg and Bishop 6-4, 6-3. Johnson and Haygarth lost a marathon three-setter to Ross and Krueger 6-7, 6-4, 6-4. Steven and Devening defeated O'Donovan and Kennedy 6-1, 6-1.
