Barnes, Kerr highlight College Station Relays

By Hal L. Hammons
Sports Writer

Outstanding efforts by Texas A&M's Randy Barnes and Stanley Kerr highlighted the College Station Relays held Saturday at the Frank G. Anderson Track and Field Complex.

Kerr ran a wind-aided 100-meter dash in 10.0 seconds. The automatic timer was inoperative during Kerr's race, so a hand timer, which had him timed at 9.98, was rounded up.

Kerr, who has been out with a pull of his left hamstring since the Southwest Conference Indoor Championships Feb. 21, said the race was probably his personal best in the event.

"I was just disappointed the automatic timer didn't work," Kerr said. "I just wish it was a legal time."

Although the record did not stand because of the wind, it was the fastest time ever by an Aggie. The previous best was a wind-aided 10.04 by Ray Brooks in 1978.

The race was especially impressive considering Kerr is suffering from a slight groin pull in his right leg. Kerr said the injury, which he thinks occurred from overcompensating for his injured left leg, bothered him during the race.

Barnes, normally a shot put specialist, tossed the discus 203 feet 11 inches to win the event easily and qualify for the NCAA Championships in the event.

Barnes, suffering from a hand injury that has kept him from putting the shot so far this year, said he is only now beginning to enjoy the discus.

"It should have been a low-key meet for me," Barnes said, "but I was really psyched when I took my first throw (195-5). I had horrible technique on that one."

Floyd Heard, the top 200 meter runner in the world last year, won his specialty with a time of 20.31.

Heard said, "The 20.31 shows me that I'm more than ready to run against anybody in the world."

The A&M 4x100 relay team of Kerr, Heard, Lawrence Felton and Greg Lewis was plagued with bad handoffs in a second-place finish, as they were edged by one-tenth of a second. The Baylor team of Darnell Chase, Raymond Pierre, Michael Johnson and Keith Stanford won with a time of 39.6 seconds.

Matt Dunn won the 800-meter run with a time of 1:48.7. His 1:48.6 clock in the preliminaries set a meet record.

Craig Calk also set a meet record as he won the 400-meter hurdles with a time of 50.88.

The women's division was dominated by Texas Southern, which took six first-place finishes in the 16 events. The lone winner for Texas A&M was Brandy Stubblefield, who won the high jump with a leap of 5-7.

Five other A&M women took second place finishes — Lisa Langston took second place in the 100-meter hurdles with a time of 14.04 seconds; Tanya Woodside had a 1-01.08 time that earned her second place honors in the 400-meter hurdles; Terri Argubright placed second with a 146-10 discus throw; and Cheryl Henderson took second place in the long jump with an effort of 19-5.

Texas A&M pole vaulter Robby Hall clears the bar in the College Station Relays Saturday at the Frank G. Anderson Track and Field Complex. Hall placed fourth in the event with a vault of 15-6. Greg West of Southern Methodist won the event with a vault of 17-0.

Syracuse, Indiana to shoot for title

Hoosiers more dependent on bench than Orangemen

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — On Monday night, Hollywood's Hoosiers go for the Oscars while Indiana's version reaches for the NCAA basketball championship.

Syracuse is the last hurdle for Coach Bob Knight's team after Indiana defeated Nevada-Las Vegas 97-93 and the Orangemen downed Providence 77-63 in Saturday's semifinals.

"I think Syracuse is as good a team as there is in the country," Knight said. "Considering the regional they came out of and the way they've played, they're probably right where they ought to be."

Syracuse was seeded No. 2 in the East and reached the Final Four by beating Georgia Southern, Western Kentucky, Florida and the region's No. 1 seed, North Carolina.

Indiana carried the No. 1 seed in the Midwest Region and beat Fairfield, Auburn, Duke and LSU on the road to New Orleans and the Final Four.

Syracuse is basically a seven-man team, depending heavily on their five starters — guards Sherman Douglas and Greg Monroe, forwards Howard Triche and Derrick Coleman and center Rony Seikaly.

Boeheim will substitute Stephen Thompson in the backcourt and Derk Brower up front but rarely goes deeper than that.

Douglas' defensive job on Billy Donovan was a key element of the Providence victory and he could draw the assignment on Indiana All-American Steve Alford, who scored 33 against UNLV.

Monroe is Syracuse's 3-point specialist. He hit three of the home run shots against Providence and had to be watching when UNLV's Freddie Banks lit it up with 10 against Indiana.

Triche is a good ball handler and, at 6-5, can help off the boards. Like the other Syracuse starters, he averaged in double figures this season.

Coleman, a 6-foot-9 freshman, and Seikaly, a 6-10 junior, give the Orangemen a twin tower look underneath.

Both have played well throughout the tournament, asserting themselves and improving what had been a spotty rebounding game for Syracuse.

Indiana's bench plays a more significant role for the Hoosiers behind starters Alford and Keith Smart at guard, Rick Calloway and Daryl Thomas at forward and Dean Garrett at center. The Hoosiers got important contributions from reserves Joe Hillman and Steve Eyl, who hit a combined 6-for-7 from the floor against UNLV.

"Our bench has helped in tough situations all year," Alford said. "They do an excellent job coming in like that."

Smart and Garrett are junior college transfers, a departure for Knight who previously has de-ended on traditional four-year recruits.

Calloway will probably draw Triche with Thomas working underneath with Garrett against Coleman and Seikaly.

Syracuse comes into the title game at 31-6 with five of their losses to Big East Conference rivals, three of them to Georgetown. Indiana is 29-4, including two victories over Big Ten rival Michigan, the only non-Big East team to beat Syracuse.

The Orangemen will be playing for the national championship for the first time, although Boeheim came into the season with a .749 winning percentage, fifth highest among all active coaches. Reaching the Final Four improved that percentage to .758.

Knight previously won NCAA titles in 1976 and 1981 and has a career head coaching record of 467-169 for 22 years, 365-119 in 16 years at Indiana.
