Seized aircraft papers link U.S. intelligence to Contras

House, Senate include documents in probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The telephone number of a secret U.S. intelligence operation in Honduras was discovered in papers confiscated by federal drug agents from a plane they seized in Florida last month, the Associated Press has learned.

A knowledgeable U.S. government source indicated this week that the intelligence operation was aiding the U.S.-backed Nicaraguan Contras. The papers, apparently belonging to the plane's pilot, also contain the names and telephone numbers of top Contra leaders.

Lawrence E. Walsh, the independent counsel investigating the Iran-Contra affair, has expressed interest in the papers found aboard the aircraft, it was learned. The AP has obtained copies of some of the documents.

House and Senate investigators are examining the papers as part of a wider inquiry into allegations that crews who ferried supplies to the Nicaraguan rebels brought plane loads of drugs into the United States while U.S. intelligence officials looked the other way.

In one document, a calendar, the names of two Contra officials are handwritten on a page dated March 7, 1987, just weeks before the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration seized the plane March 24 in Charlotte County, Fla., because it was wanted in connection with an illegal drug operation.

Authorities say they found no drugs on the plane.

Another entry for March 7 says, "Called Tom Wire..." A separate page of what appeared to be the same calendar book lists a telephone number for Wire.

Reached at the Honduras telephone number by the AP, a man with an American accent who answered to the name of Wire said he was "connected with the military. We are the local military group."

The man said he had no military rank and referred all calls to the U.S. Embassy in Tegucigalpa. He then gave a reporter the correct embassy telephone number. "Wire" said he could not recall anyone named Frank Moss, the pilot of the plane.

The embassy had no comment.

The U.S. source, speaking only on condition he not be named, said the Honduran operation "has intelligence connotations" linked to a civilian agency he would not name. He would not discuss whether it was the Central Intelligence Agency.

He indicated the phone number was that of a U.S. civilian intelligence agency in Honduras, the staging area for the rebels fighting the Sandinista government in Nicaragua. The CIA has aided the rebels since a congressional ban on U.S. aid to the Contras ended last October.

Jack Hook, a Drug Enforcement Administration spokesman in Miami, said authorities believe the U.S. sought since 18 people were indicted in a drug-smuggling ring with years ago — was "purchased with drug money for the intent of smuggling drugs."

The Contras and the CIA have denied any involvement in drug trafficking.

"CIA does not engage in or done drug smuggling. Drug trafficking is against the law and CIA does not violate U.S. laws," a spokesman Sharon Foster said. The CIA cooperates with other U.S. government enforcement agencies to eliminate drug smuggling where she said.

Moss said he bought the DC-4 more than two years ago, but he has been unable to prove ownership. He said Moss has not been arrested since the case.

On the plane, agents found manifests and manifests, the calendar and other documents relating to the air cargo company, Honduras Cargo Inc. of Georgetown, Guyana.

27-year-old American buried in Nicaragua; U.S. blamed by family

MATAGALPA, Nicaragua (AP) — Benjamin Linder, an American volunteer killed in an attack by U.S.-backed Contra rebels, was buried with honors Thursday in this provincial city among the people he was trying to help.

The 27-year-old mechanical engineer from Portland, Ore., and two Nicaraguan militiamen were killed Tuesday near the hamlet of La Camaleona in northern Nicaragua, where Linder worked as an unpaid volunteer in a rural electrification project.

"He believed that through work he could make life better for (the Nicaraguan) people and help strengthen democracy," Linder's father, David, said during the funeral ceremony.

"It is clear to me that people here understand what he did," he said. "My family and I are very proud to have Benjamin interred in your city."

The elder Linder spoke in English at the cemetery and his wife, Elisabeth, translated his words into Spanish.

President Daniel Ortega, who escorted the family from Managua and was present at the funeral, compared Linder's death to the John Donne poem and the title of Ernest Hemingway's novel, "For Whom The Bell Tolls."

"For whom the bells tolls, Hemingway would ask," Ortega said. It tolled for Linder and seven European volunteers killed by Contra attacks in Nicaragua since 1983, he said.

Linder's family, including his brother John and sister Miriam, flew to Managua from the United States earlier in the day for the funeral, which was attended by many American volunteer workers and top officials of the leftist Sandinista government.

When Linder's parents arrived at a hotel in the capital Thursday morning, Ortega embraced Mrs. Linder and was heard to say: "It is a blow to every one of us."

State radio said the leftist Sandinista government had awarded the Order of Commander Jose Benito Escobar to the dead volunteer. It is the highest citation for workers and had never been given to a foreigner.

Shortly after arrival, David Linder said of his son: "He worked here and he gave his life here, and he must be buried here. He belongs here. He wanted to make this a better place for people to live."

At the airport, the Linder party received an emotional welcome from Foreign Minister Miguel d'Escoto, his deputy Victor Hugo Tinoco and Ortega's wife, Rosario Murillo.

When asked who killed his son, Linder said: "Who killed Ben? Someone who paid someone who paid someone who paid someone and so on down the line to the president of the United States." His voice broke and he wept.

U.S. Lutherans unite to elect head bishop

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Most of the nation's Lutheran united Thursday, ending two centuries of separation, and immediately plunged into a drawn-out election of their new presiding bishop.

Delegates of three merging denominations, themselves largely products of a long succession of the gradual interweaving of about 50 strains of Lutheran, unanimously approved founding documents of their merged denomination.

The Evangelical Lutheran Church in America combines a membership of 5.3 million people, fourth-largest in American Protestantism. Its constitution pledged ecumenical cooperation with other churches to "foster Christian unity."

Promptly after the historic action, which followed a service of prayers and hymns, the convention went into a prolonged voting process for the new top officer.

Leading on the first four ballots were Bishop David W. Preus, head of one merged body, the American Lutheran Church, and Bishop Herbert W. Chilstrom, head of the Minnesota regional synod of another, the Lutheran Church in America.

Close behind was the Rev. William H. Lazareth, an internationally influential theologian and a New York City pastor.
