 Don't.

At least, not before you carefully weigh all the pros and cons of joining a clinic-based Health Maintenance Organization.

In return for the single premium advantage a clinic-based HMO offers, you will be required to accept some significant restrictions. Your access to all physicians in the community will be significantly restricted. Your choice of hospitals will be limited to those participating in the plan. Psychiatric benefits are very limited, and dental coverage is excluded entirely.

Before you decide to abandon your proven medical insurance, be sure you know all the facts.

AUSTIN (AP) — A rancher's daughter billed as a woman who can ride and rope promised Wednesday to be a straight-shooter in setting Texans' utility rates.

Marta Greytok, former mayor of the small Harris County city of Taylor Lake Village, took the oath of office Wednesday from Secretary of State Jack Rains. Greytok, a Gov. Bill Clements appointee, replaced Peggy Rosson on three-member panel that sets electric and telephone rates.

"I come to the Public Utility Commission as a representative of the grassroots Texas," Greytok said. "I have no ax to grind."

"I have no preconceived notions about the commission or any of its activities."

"I have no secret agenda. I have no set advocacy either for one side or the other."

In replacing Rosson, Greytok takes over for a commissioner who frequently sided with consumers in rate fights with utility companies.

"I pledge to shoot straight and call them as I see them," Greytok said.

Rains said he has known Greytok for many years and has been impressed with her "low tolerance for nonsense." He said the new commissioner is a "rancher's daughter who can ride and rope with the best of them."

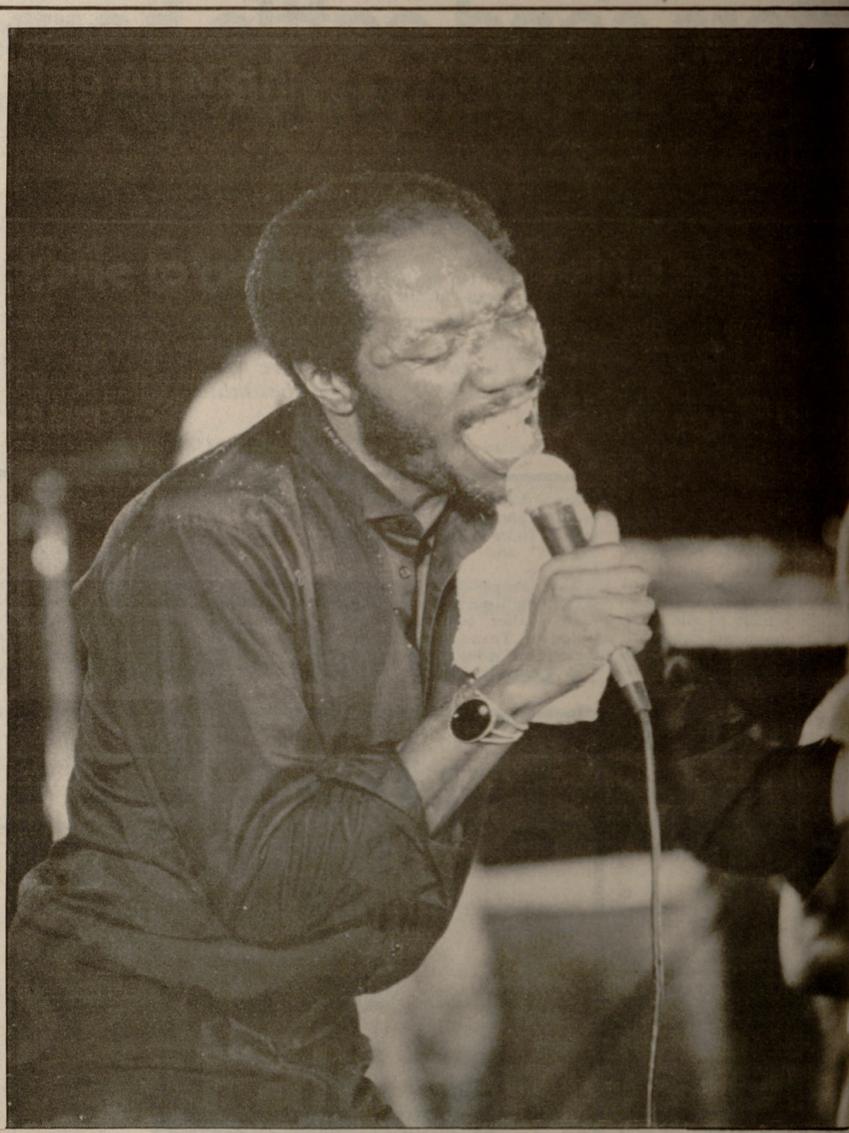

Greytok grew up in South Texas. She said her training as a surgical nurse in Houston has proven invaluable to her.

"I worked under Dr. Michael De Bakey and I don't think there's anyone in this room who does not understand his pursuit of excellence," she said. "It's impossible to serve with him without it having a major influence on the way you perceive life."

Greytok also served as chairman of the Harris County Appraisal Board. She pledged to always maintain an open ear for Texans' ideas on utility matters.

"The more input you have from the citizens, the better the government is going to be," she said. "It is extremely important to that process. In that spirit today I want to indicate that we will have a Marta Greytok open-door policy at the PUC. I want to hear from the citizens of Texas."

Greytok joins Chairman Dennis Thomas and Commissioner Jo Campbell on the commission. Thomas and Campbell were appointed by Gov. Mark White, Clements' Democratic predecessor.

Officer uses airplane to help capture fleeing suspect

TULIA (AP) — A reserve policeman used his single-engine airplane to help nab a man fleeing police in a sports car allegedly taken from a car lot, authorities said Wednesday.

After officers from the Department of Public Safety, Swisher County and Tulia police chased the Datsun 280-Z reported as stolen for about 25 miles Tuesday, Jim L. Cox used his Cessna 172 to stop the car just outside Palo Duro Canyon.

Cox stopped the car, which police said reached speeds as high as 140 mph, when his landing gear snagged its roof, Slaton Police Chief Barbara Fowler said.

The Datsun was stolen about 1:30 p.m. Tuesday from the Ford dealership in the town southeast of Lubbock, Fowler said.

A DPS trooper spotted the car going through Tulia, more than 60 miles to the north, about 5 p.m. as it ran two red lights.

Cox, who is also manager of the city's airport, said he heard the pursuit on a police radio at the airport and decided his help was needed.

Arrested in connection with the incident were David S. Scott, 17, of Indianapolis, Ind., and Michael L. Miller, 22, of Lore City, Ohio.

Justice of the Peace Earl Cox of Tulia set bonds Wednesday $15,000 on Scott and $5,000 Miller. Scott was charged with counts of aggravated assault on a peace officer and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. Miller was charged with unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

Scott and Miller remained at Swisher County Jail Wednesday night.
