Mass-goers should prepare for trip to attend papal Mass

By Elisa Hutchins

Staff Writer
By now, most people are probably getting tired of being bombarded with stories and the pope has not yet arrived in San Antonio.

Stories about the popemobile, what he will be wearing, how children are reacting to the upcoming visit and vast speculation as to what and how issues are plaguing the Catholic church are interesting. But what can a person expect who is making the trip to San Antonio or the viewer who will be watching the Mass at home?

Pope John Paul II will arrive Sept. 13 at Kelly Air Force Base around 10 a.m. and lead a bilingual Mass at 11 a.m. at a 150-acre site on the west end of the city. After a two-hour rest he will depart in the popemobile for a parade in the downtown area.

There will be about 15 buses going from the Bryan-College Station area to the pope's Mass this weekend, said the Rev. Leon Strieder of St. Mary's Catholic Church in College Station. As of Thursday afternoon, there were still some seats available at a round-trip cost of $20. Call 846-5717 for details.

Strieder helped put together the liturgy or music and readings for the Mass along with the message priests would like the pope to read.

"Reconciliation will be the theme, for obvious reasons," Strieder said.

Strieder said the pope will speak for 30-45 minutes in each of the cities he will be visiting.

"Different subjects will be discussed," he said. "In San Antonio, Catholic charities will be the topic. He will talk about social reform and care for the poor."

Strieder, who met the pope briefly in 1980, said he thinks the pope also will address moral issues such as women in the priesthood and homosexuals in the Church.

"He will probably only speak for a few minutes and address a single issue in each city," he said. "I only hope that people can put aside the issues and enjoy the visit."

The San Antonio Catholic Chancery is handling most of the details for the visit at an estimated cost of $2.5 million, administrative assistant Sister Charlene Wedelich said. She estimated attendance for the Mass at 500,000.

The Mass will be broadcast on various channels. The major networks aren't carrying the event, but are leaving the decision up to individual stations, said a spokesman for KBTX-TV, a CBS affiliate in Bryan-College Station.

The program is being offered at no cost.

As of Thursday, KBTX had not determined if it will televise the Mass, but the spokesman said Channel 13 in Houston is scheduled to carry it.

Chancery officials said the corps already has started to arrive in San Antonio. About 400 national press people who are following the pope and 2,200 state and local reporters are expected.

Travelers to San Antonio expect heavy traffic along the highway as people will be making their way to the city from all over the state.

Ernest Loeffler, a public relations spokesman for the San Antonio Convention Center, said the center will spend an estimated $36 million on security, transportation, food and hotel costs.

Of the 17,000 hotel rooms in the area, the Menger, Holiday Inn, La Quinta hotels have rooms in the outer regions of San Antonio, also has rooms.

To keep traffic out of the area, Via Transit, the city's transit authority, will have 15 park-and-ride locations set up around the city starting running at 5 a.m. Round-trip tokens are on sale at all H.E.B. grocery stores in San Antonio and maps of the park-and-ride stops also are available.

The Chancery medical center suggests that those attending service wear light clothing, an umbrella and plenty of non-alcoholic beverages. Information will be on sale, and there information booths and medications.

Quadriplegic man faces murder charge after shooting incident claims wife's life

HOUSTON (AP)—A quadriplegic accused of killing his wife with a gun mounted on a wheelchair and triggered by a piece of string in his mouth was charged with murder Thursday, officials said.

James B. Burns was charged Thursday morning in the death of his wife, Berta Mae, and State District Judge George Walker set bond at $10,000, said court coordinator Mary McClinton.

Mrs. Burns, 37, was shot while at a bar where she and her husband of two weeks were talking. Witnesses told police that the shooting occurred after Mrs. Burns had placed a string triggering the mounted gun in the year-old husband's mouth.

Police described the apparatus as a 9mm mounted on a board that the man had across his chest. The string ran around two screws in the board with one running to the trigger and the other to his mouth.

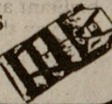

Police Sgt. J.C. Mosier said Burns has given a statement in which he said he wanted his wife dead, but that "she talked me into killing her."

Mosier said Burns claims his neck jerked back and he fired the gun. Three shots were fired. Burns allegedly suspected his wife of infidelity.
