NFL Players Association submit counter proposal to owners' offer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The NFL Players Association, which last week rejected the club owners' proposal as "garbage," on Tuesday presented management with its ideas on what the contract should look like.

The union said its proposal "addresses all of the crucial points needed to reach a settlement."

Details of the document, presented a week before the union's Sept. 22 strike deadline, were expected to be made available later Tuesday.

"We have adapted our contract to some of their thoughts," NFLPA spokesman Frank Woschitz said, referring to management's proposal. "There are considerable changes from our original contract proposal."

Both sides submitted proposed contracts to each other in late April when the talks formally got underway.

Woschitz said the counterproposal was almost completely prepared early Monday. He said the union decided to delay presenting it to management so it could incorporate some of the findings derived from Monday's meeting between pension technicians from both sides.

"We wanted to wait to check the numbers," Woschitz said. "We spent much of (Tuesday) morning going over those numbers and the rest of the contract to be sure everything was just right."

Management officials had expressed surprise that NFLPA Executive Director Gene Upshaw had spent the latter part of Monday in Redwood City, Calif., the training facility of the San Francisco 49ers, when he union was to spend the night working on its counterproposal.

"That means either Gene has no input on their counterproposal or they've been sitting on the thing," said Management Council spokesman John Jones.

Upshaw spoke to the 49ers for 2½ hours to inform the players about the talks. Woschitz said Upshaw had already provided his input toward the counterproposal and returned in plenty of time Tuesday morning to go over the final draft.

"He had planned that meeting with the 49ers awhile back," Woschitz said. "Everything was all set before he left except for the pension clauses, and there was nothing he could do until we got the results of that meeting."

Last weekend the sides met for 11½ hours in the first round of negotiations since Sept. 2.

A&M spike face SHSU in rematch

The Texas A&M team will take on Sam Houston State tonight at 7:30 p.m. in a rematch of the Lady Aggies' victory over A&M in Huntsville.

The LadyKats are 10-1 in the Sun Belt Conference, having won the match after losing the first game in Huntsville.

A&M, 3-7, is coming off a performance in the Sun Belt Collegiate Preview at Fullerton, Calif. The LadyKats defeated Santa Clara and but lost to 16th-ranked Beach State, Eastern Washington and Southwest Texas State.

"We found the answers to questions this weekend (tournament)," A&M Coach Givens said. "Our players out about themselves and teammates. We're close to on the right track."

Oklahoma holds on to top spot in AP poll

From The Associated Press
Alabama football coach Bill Curry would like to keep a damper on poll fever. At Penn State, UCLA and Michigan, that will be no problem now.

On Tuesday, the first-year Crimson coach saw Alabama jump from 19th in The Associated Press college football poll one week ago to 11th with a 24-13 victory over defending national champion Penn State last Saturday.

Penn State fell from 11th to 20th. At the same time, UCLA, a 43-33 loser to Nebraska, fell from third to 13th, and Michigan, which lost 26-7 to Notre Dame, dropped from ninth to 19th.

The Alabama victory stopped the nation's longest major college winning streak at 13 games.

Oklahoma and Nebraska kept the top two spots in the poll, while Auburn moved up to third. Notre Dame, meanwhile, moved to No. 9 from 16th a week ago.

In a nationwide vote of sports writers and broadcasters, Oklahoma received 54 of 60 first-place votes and 1,193 points. Nebraska got the other six first-place votes and 1,127 points. Auburn had 1,027 points.

Louisiana State, No. 6 a week ago, jumped over Ohio State and moved into fourth place with 926 points. Ohio State remained at No. 5 with 908 points.

Rounding out the Top 10 were Miami, moving up from seventh to sixth; No. 7 Florida State, up from eighth place; No. 8 Clemson, up from 10th; Notre Dame and No. 10 Washington, jumping two spots from No. 12.

The Second Ten, in order, after Alabama were Arkansas, UCLA, Tennessee, Arizona State, Pittsburgh, Michigan State, Georgia, Michigan and Penn State.

Orioles' Ripkin doesn't mind streak ending

TORONTO (AP) — During his string of 8,243 consecutive innings played, the Baltimore Orioles' Cal Ripken, Jr. said he did not sit around hotel rooms thinking about his ironman streak.

But on a cloudy Tuesday, the day after his streak came to an end in the eighth inning of an 18-3 American League loss to Toronto, he may have given it some reflection.

"How many consecutive innings has he played?" Cal Ripken Sr., the Orioles' manager and the shortstop's father, asked reporters rhetorically after the game.

"Whatever it was, I wanted to get everybody to stop writing about the consecutive innings streak, because every place we go, everybody has to write an article on the consecutive inning streak.

"And I want to lift that burden off his back. Playing the innings and playing the ball games wasn't wearing him. The guy is big and strong. I decided to break the inning streak to eliminate all the articles."

Ripken, replaced by Ron Washington in the bottom of the eighth inning, sat in his locker area sipping a beer and receiving handshakes from his teammates Monday night.

"I never envisioned how it would end, I just considered myself lucky enough to stay away from injuries and go out there," he said. "I always knew from a purely practical standpoint the manager is in control and he makes the decisions."

In the dugout before the Orioles hit in the eighth, Ripken Sr. approached his son and said: "If you hit, you're going to come out."

The shortstop answered simply, "All right."

Ripken, 27, hit into a fielder's choice and the streak, stretching over 908 games since June 5, 1982, ended.

Ripken began the streak at third base he switched to shortstop in 1982 and he had played ever since.

"Everyone painted a picture of the fact the streak would end by my own admission, or I needed some time off," Ripken said. "But I never deemed it just come to the ball park, lineup and if my name's on it, I'm playing."

"I play until I'm told no just so happens that the manager decided, and in this case that just happens to be my dad. I do the best interests of the Orioles personally that this happened

UTEP player suspended following brawl in club

EL PASO (AP) — Texas-El Paso basketball forward Chris Sandle has been suspended for at least seven games because of a barroom brawl, Coach Don Haskins said Tuesday.

Sandle will not be allowed to play this semester, Haskins said.

The coach added that another Miner basketball player involved in the brawl, guard-forward Chris Blocker, is being disciplined, but declined to be more specific.

The fight early Sunday morning at an El Paso nightclub resulted in Sandle's second arrest in less than a year. Last Nov. 16, he was charged with shoplifting $16.66 worth of groceries. He did not contest the charge and was fined $85.

A witness to Sunday's fight, Phil White of El Paso, said Sandle was arguing with two women at the nightclub when one of the women "hauled off and hit him with a champagne bottle or a wine cooler bottle."

El Paso police said the argument started when the women refused to dance with Sandle.

One of the arresting officers, Enrique Rivera, said Sandle was provoked by the women but refused to cooperate with police.

In a statement released by the school's sports information department Monday, Sandle said the bottle cut his nose and knocked him to the floor.

According to the police report,

Blocker broke into the club's office where Sandle was being interviewed by police officers. Blocker and Sandle started fighting with police officers, according to the report, and both were charged with resisting arrest.

Athletic Director Brad Hovious said he supported Haskins' decision.

"We also realize there are many who think we have erred in not taking a more drastic approach," he said. "We have considered public opinion to some degree in this decision, but ultimately it has come down to giving Chris one last chance."

If Sandle were reinstated at the beginning of the spring semester, he would not miss any games against Western Athletic Conference opponents. But he would miss the game against arch-rival New Mexico State.

In a statement released Tuesday, Sandle said: "I am sorry I was involved in a situation that certainly appreciate being given more chance by Coach Haskins and Dr. Hovious. I have told them they will have no more trouble from Chris Sandle."

Sandle's words Tuesday are similar to what he said following last year's shoplifting arrest. "It was an unfortunate incident and I'm very sorry for what I did. I was wrong, and I will do my best to get into a situation again."
