Pepperdine overpowers Lady Aggies

By Tammy Hedgpeth Sports Writer

Sometimes luck runs out. It did for the Texas A&M volley-ball team as it fell to No. 14 Pepper-dine Friday night in G. Rollie White

The Waves overpowered the Lady Aggies in four games 15-3, 10-15, 15-11, 15-6. But the Lady Aggies went down with a fight.

"I'm real pleased that they came back and did not quit," A&M Coach Al Givens said. "In the second game, (quitting) would have been easy to do after we were down 10-3.

"Every now and then we're making mistakes by just not knowing where we're at on the court. But it was a better effort than we've had in a while. That's what we're capable of doing every time we go onto the court, and we can improve upon Sophomore middle blocker Kelli Kellen led the Lady Aggie offense with 13 kills out of 29 attempts. She also made a big impact on the de-fense with two solo blocks and five block assists.

"We stayed in it and fought really tough," Kellen said. "We wanted to win really bad when we first came out. I think we were overly anxious. We kept fighting and that's what is really good. We needed that. "We had a lot of missed serves. At crucial times we had a lot of missed ones in a row. But the defense was better than the last game. We've im-

The defense was led by sophomore setter Yvonne Van Brandt who recorded 17 digs. Van Brandt said the excitement from the crowd boosted the Lady Aggies.

"We lost but we went down with a fight," Van Brandt said. "The crowd was behind us the whole time and that really helps. It was exciting.

"Overall as a team we really played good. We've improved each game from the beginning of the "I was pretty pleased with the way we played tonight," Pepperdine Coach Nina Matthies said. "I think

Dallas squeezes by Giants 16-14 leave Super Bowl champs winles

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) - Forget that a refugee from the USFL kicked three field goals. Forget that Tom Landry made a questionable coaching decision. Forget that the Dallas Cowboys finally got a break and ended their longest regular-season losing streak since 1963 with a 16-14 victory over the New York Cienter. York Giants.

The important question on the eve of a threatened NFL players strike is: What's wrong with the Super Bowl champion Giants?

New York dropped its second straight regular-season game for the first time since the 1985 season on Sunday as Roger Ruzek kicked three field goals, including a 28-yard game winner with 5:12 to play, to end Dallas' six-game regular-season losing

"I think they (the Giants) are going to find out after you win the Super Bowl, the next year everyone is out there looking for you," said Dallas veteran tackle Randy White. 'Every week you play it's going to be tough."

Dallas was no exception. The Cowboys forced five New York turnovers, twice rallied to take the lead and then withstood a frantic lastminute New York drive that ended when Raul Allegre's 46-yard field goal attempt with six seconds to play sailed wide to the left.

"This is the greatest feeling in sports," said Dallas safety Bill Bates, whose second-quarter interception set up Dallas' only touchdown. "To beat the Super Bowl champions is a great feeling. Hopefully, no matter what happens Tuesday (the strike deadline), we can carry this into the regular season. For the Giants, the prospects for 1987 suddenly are questionable. They were embarrassed in losing to Chicago last Monday and their offense looked miserable against Dallas, putting together just one scoring drive and holding the ball just 18:18

'This is not a nice feeling," said Giants center Bart Oates. "There is a bitter taste in my mouth. We knew if we didn't play well we were going to be 0-2 at the start of the season. There is anger here. There is disappointment. We didn't put enough pressure on them offensively."

The only pressure the Giants mounted came in the final minute after they stopped a fourth-down at-tempted touchdown dive by Herschel Walker and took over inside their 5-yard line with no timeouts. It was a coaching decision the Cowboy players said they favored, but one that would have been see guessed had Dallas lost.

"When you lose six straight do crazy things," said Land suppose that was crazy."

For a while it looked very Phil Simms connected on nine passes to move the Giants Dallas 29 before Allegre misse attempt at a game winner.

"I was just trying to reach!! Allegre. "Everything was pring just missed it. I'm not going of any excuses.

Trailing 14-10 midway the third quarter after a 69-72 terception return by Terry set up a 1-yard touchdown past Simms to Mark Bavaro, Dallaso the gap to one point when Run a 43-yard field goal.

With the New York offense tering at every opportunity, took the lead by driving 65 y 11 plays to set up Ruzek's h field goal. The key play in the minute march was a 35-yard down pass to Walker that got Cowboys a first down at the !? Ruzek, who played here in USFL's New Jersey Generals
