Players present "Plowed Under"

by Melisa Hohlt

The Texas A&M Aggie Players opens its 1987 theatrical season at 8 p.m. on Sept. 25 in the Rudder Forum with "Triple-A Plowed Under," which was originally produced as part of the Federal Theatre Project's "living newspaper" series.

Various techniques such as vignettes, slides and films are interspersed with live action to describe the tensions, troubles and hard times experienced by both farmers and consumers during the Great Depression.

The play's writers eloquently describe an economic situation which parallels today's farm crisis. Set in 1936 and juxtaposing the farmer's problem with the consumer's problem, this theatrical form poses only the questions, not the answers.

The play is chronicled by the "voice of the living newspaper." Other characters include three farmers and their wives, six city laborers and four business people who oppose the blue collar occupations.

The production is directed by Roger Schultz, a theater professor at A&M. The scenery, costumes and lighting for the production are designed by three other A&M theater professors. "Triple-A Plowed Under" will run Sept. 25-26 and Oct. 1-3. All performances will begin at 8 p.m. Tickets are available at Rudder Box Office and are $4 for students and senior citizens. The general public may purchase tickets for $5. For reservations, call 845-1234.
