Young boy, 13, gets probation after shooting

EL PASO (AP) — A 13-year-old boy who shot his sister in the head last month was sentenced to probation for a year in the non-fatal incident.
Roy Chumley Jr. pleaded guilty Sept. 23 to a charge of reckless conduct in the shooting of his 16-year-old sister, Angela, during an argument, according to court records. She recovered after an 11-day hospital stay.
The boy was sentenced Monday by District Judge Enrique Pena. Pena appointed the state Department of Human Services as temporary conservator. Under conservatorship, Roy will live at home and the department is to monitor his progress and counsel the family.
County Attorney Joe Lucas criticized Human Services during the hearing for not doing something earlier to prevent the shooting.
According to testimony, child welfare workers were told at least twice about two years ago that the boy had no parental supervision.
Human Services caseworkers Rosa Masilang and Leslie Thompson testified they checked reports in December 1985 and May 1986 that the child often was left alone and had to feed himself. They said they checked with the boy's mother, Linda Chumley, who denied the allegations. The cases were closed.
Ernest Gonzales, a Human Services supervisor, testified that the department is so understaffed that it can handle only the most serious cases.
Lucas said the department "ought to be in the prevention business."
"It seems like a little prevention would help all of us," Lucas said.
He added that he thought the sentence was fair.
"He has a learning disability," Lucas said, "but everyone who has come in contact with him agrees that he is a good kid."
Mrs. Chumley was not home at the time of the shooting.
Angela Chumley testified she holds no ill will toward her brother.

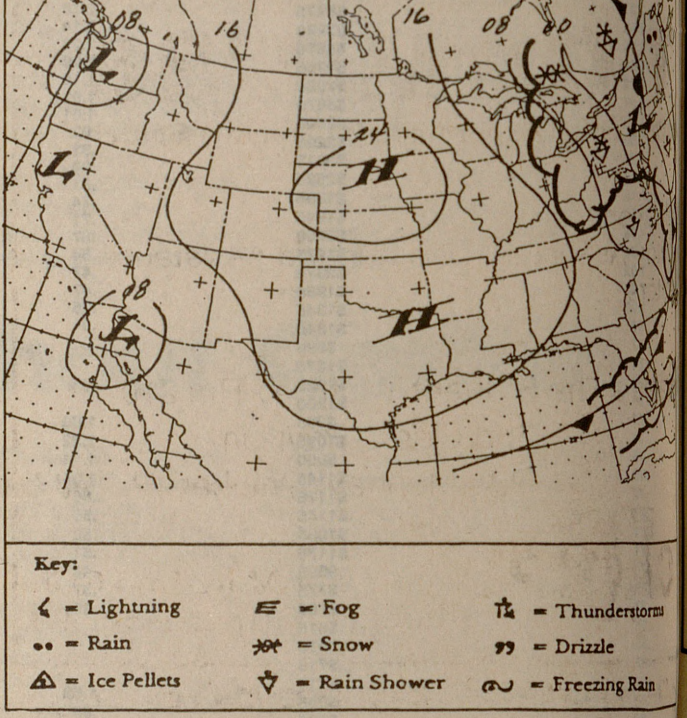

Couple gets prison term for child abuse

HOUSTON (AP) — The mother and stepfather of a 2-year-old boy who police said died after being beaten and force-fed pizza were sentenced to prison terms after pleading guilty to injuring the child.
Thomas Lynn Warren, 43, was sentenced to 37 years in prison, while his wife, Jacqueline Annette Warren, was given a 20-year term after they entered the guilty pleas as part of a plea-bargain agreement.
The two were sentenced Monday by State District Judge John Hughes. Both could have been sent to prison for life.
"I'm sorry for what happened," Warren said before his sentencing, "I live my life now to serve God."
Jesse Warren, who had been returned to his mother after being taken away by child welfare authorities, died of head injuries May 8.
He was hospitalized after his stepfather shoved pizza in his mouth, forced his head against the floor and stepped on his stomach because he refused to eat, Harris County sheriff's investigators said.
Authorities said the child's mother watched the beating, then carried him to another room where she took the food out of his throat and gave him mouth-to-mouth resuscitation before calling an ambulance.
Harris County Children's Protective Services spokesman Judy Hay said Jesse, his sister and three brothers had been removed from the home in August 1985.

Weather Watch

Valid: Noon today
Sunset Today: 7:02 p.m.
Sunrise Thursday: 7:22 a.m.
Map Discussion: High pressure remains as the dominant influence except for the eastern Great Lakes and New England where cloudy, cold and humid conditions persist, along with scattered snow flurries and rain. Cold air will penetrate well into the southeastern states as the high in the midwest advances.
Forecast:
Today, tonight and Thursday: Continued fair with mild days and cool nights. High temperature today of 79 degrees with northerly winds to 16 mph. Low temperature Thursday morning in the low to mid-40s and a high on Thursday of 83 degrees. Winds will be northeasterly to 10 mph tonight and 7 to 14 mph Thursday.
Weather Fact: The Bergeron air mass classification system classifies air masses first according to the thermal properties of their source regions: tropical, polar and less frequently, arctic or antarctic. For characterization, the moisture distribution, air masses are distinguished as to continental and maritime source regions. Further classification according to whether the air is cold or warm relative to the surface over which it is moving indicates the low-level stability conditions of the air, the type of modification from below and also is related to the weather occurring within the air mass.
