Reagan asks for millions in aid to ensure peace in Nicaragua

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, warning he won't be fooled by Sandinista "facades of freedom," asked Congress on Wednesday to approve $270 million in Contra aid as an insurance policy for peace in Nicaragua.

Reagan, in a toughly worded address to the Organization of American States, lauded recent steps taken toward peace under a regional accord.

But he also said the pact is "only a beginning" and described a series of steps the leftist Sandinista government in Managua must take in order to assure that U.S. military aid to the Contra rebels ends.

"Full, free and fair elections and the open society that alone can make them possible, including full human rights and expulsion of all Soviet and Cuban forces — these must be the bedrock of conditions upon which any further agreement with the Sandinistas is built," Reagan said.

Although House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, has said Reagan has little chance of obtaining renewed military aid, the president lectured Congress against abandoning the Contras after supporting them in the past.

"It cannot just walk away," he said. "I have made a personal commitment to them — and I will not walk away."

Reagan termed the aid package "the essential guarantee that the Sandinistas will live up to the democratic conditions of the Guatemala Accord," the peace pact signed in August by five Central American nations, including Nicaragua.

The president said he would "quest and fight for" the $270 million 18-month aid package, which administration officials have said would go forward before the Nov. 10 cease-fire date called for under the regional peace accord.

"Once a cease-fire is fully in effect, only that support necessary to maintain the freedom fighters (Contras) as a viable force will be needed," Reagan pledged. "Then and then, they will be watching to see if genuine the democratic reforms Nicaragua are."

Crews have gone to sleep at controls, British pilots say

LONDON (AP) — British airline pilots on long-haul flights say their entire crews have fallen asleep at the controls because of strenuous work schedules, researchers report.

Under a 5-year-old confidential reporting program, one-third of almost 800 British pilots who disclosed problems affecting their performance mentioned a demanding work schedule and the fatigue it caused, said Roger Green and Roy Skinner of the Royal Air Force Institute of Aviation Medicine.

The researchers quoted a range of pilots — either flying alone or with a large crew, in helicopters, freight or passenger aircraft — who said they had nodded off while the automatic pilot did the flying.

Green, an aviation psychologist, and Skinner, a retired military pilot, said pilots on long-distance night flights complained most often about difficulty in staying awake.

Some specified being unable to sleep in noisy hotels between night flights; enduring long stopovers at congested airports; or becoming complacent in cockpits that are highly automated and where key chores become "unavoidably soporific."

Banks raise lending rates to new high

NEW YORK (AP) — Major U.S. banks raised their prime lending rates a half-percentage point Wednesday to 9.25 percent, the highest level since early 1986 and a reflection of the broad pressure toward higher interest rates nationwide.

Citibank and Chase Manhattan — the nation's two biggest banks — were the first to announce an increase in the key rate. Other major banks followed suit.

The prime is the benchmark used by banks to set interest rates on a variety of corporate and consumer loans.

The latest increase, the fourth so far this year, will likely mean higher interest payments on mortgages, home equity loans, credit cards and other consumer debts. It also could slow future economic growth.

"It basically comes as no surprise," said Elizabeth G. Renner, a money market analyst with the investment firm Dean Witter Reynolds Inc. "Banks have been under pressure to maintain profit margins following huge writeoffs for loan-loss reserves for shaky Third World loans, she said.

The financial markets showed little reaction to the increase.

Study: Day-care children may give dangerous infections to mothers

NEW YORK (AP) — Children in day-care centers may be giving their mothers an invisible infection that can cause pregnant women to bear mentally retarded children, a study reported Wednesday.

The infection thus poses a risk to women with children who become pregnant again and is probably to blame for 1,000 to 2,000 cases of retardation and other birth defects a year, said the author of the new study, Dr. Stuart Adler of the Medical College of Richmond in Virginia.

In a two-year study of 104 children in a day-care center in Richmond, Adler found that 38 of them, mostly under the age of 3, got the infection caused by a virus called cytomegalovirus.

Of the mothers of those 38 children, 18 had not become immune to the virus through a previous infection, and six of them, or one-third, got the infection from their children, an infection rate that Adler said was "extremely high."

In the general population, only 1 percent to 5 percent of people are infected each year, he said.

Adler reported the findings of his study at the Interscience Conference on Antimicrobial Agents and Chemotherapy.

In general, day-care centers are known to be places where infections spread easily because of the number of small children in the same place.
