Cards nip Twins to take Series lead

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Curt Ford's two-run single and a lucky bounce broke open a scoreless game in the sixth inning and the St. Louis Cardinals bounced back with a three-game sweep, beating the Minnesota Twins 4-2 Thursday night for a 3-2 lead in the World Series.

Danny Cox shut out Minnesota on three hits for seven innings and St. Louis' speed pulled the Twins apart at the seams. The Cardinals stole five bases, tying a record last accomplished in 1907, and three of those runners scored.

Game 6 is scheduled for Saturday in the Metrodome, where Minnesota romped in the first two games. St. Louis' John Tudor, who won the third game, will oppose Les Straker.

Cox, whose Game 7 shutout in the NL playoffs put the Cardinals into the World Series, outdueled Bert Blyleven, who took his first loss in six postseason decisions. It was a reversal of four days ago, when Blyleven won as the Twins shelled Cox.

This time, Cox struck out six and walked three and was removed in the eighth after allowing singles to Dan Gladden and Greg Gagne, both of whom scored.

Blyleven managed to stay out of trouble until the sixth when St. Louis manufactured three runs.

Vince Coleman led off with a grounder to first baseman Kent Hrbek that took a second hop, scooted off a seam and handcuffed Hrbek, whose shovel toss to Blyleven was late. Ozzie Smith followed with his fourth bunt single of the year as Blyleven fumbled the ball on the third-base side.

After Tom Herr fouled off two bunt attempts and fouled out, Coleman and Smith executed a double steal with Dan Driessen at the plate. Twins catcher Tim Laudner dropped the pitch and did not make a throw. Coleman later got his sixth steal of the Series, one short of the Lou Brock's Series record.

Driessen was intentionally walked and Willie McGee was called out on strikes on three pitches before Ford lined a sharp single to center. Jose Oquendo then hit a chopper that shortstop Greg Gagne misplayed for an error that allowed Driessen to score.

The Cardinals made it 4-0 in the seventh when Coleman drew a one-out walk from Keith Atherton, was balked to second, and stole third. Jeff Reardon relieved and Coleman scored on Smith's single off second baseman Steve Lombardozzi's glove. Smith followed with his second steal, giving the Cardinals four in the game and an 8-3 edge in the Series.

The Twins scored their two runs in the eighth as Gladden and Cox got Kirby Puckett on a flyball to center. Ken Dayley came on and got Hrbek on a flyball to center and was replaced by Todd Worrell.

Gary Gaetti hit a flyball to deep center field that Willie McGee bled for a split second as he crashed into the wall. Gaetti was credited with triple and Tom Brunansky ended the inning by flying out center.

The save was the second in the Series for Worrell, who walked in the ninth but got pinch-hitter Dan Baylor on a popout to end the game.

Dayley helps Cardinals win the bullpen battle

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ozzie Smith makes great plays. John Tudor and Danny Cox win big games. Willie McGee gets clutch hits.

So who is consistently the St. Louis Cardinals' best postseason player? Ken Dayley, by a lot. He is almost perfect, part of the reason the Cardinals were winning the battle of the bullpens against Minnesota.

In 20 playoff and World Series innings, Dayley has not allowed a run. He has given up only five hits.

This fall, Dayley got two saves with four scoreless innings against San Francisco in the National League playoffs. He had one save with four more shutout innings versus the Twins.

"Dayley has got to be his man," Minnesota's Gary Gaetti said after Cardinals Manager Whitey Herzog went to Dayley in a key spot in Game 4 Wednesday night.

Dayley relieved with the bases loaded and one out in the seventh inning with St. Louis ahead 7-2. Dayley struck out Gaetti, the Twins' cleanup batter, got Tom Brunansky on a foul pop and finished for a save that tied the Series at 2-2.

Game 5 was Thursday night in a rematch of second-game starters. Bert Blyleven, who won for the Twins, went against Cox.

For Dayley, the opportunity to pitch again in the World Series was an unexpected treat. He missed most of the 1986 season with left bow trouble and was not sure he would ever play again.

"When you have major surgery on your pitching arm and that's your livelihood, you have to have serious thoughts and look at other options," Dayley said. "Deep in my mind I always thought that I'd pitch again."

"You just take one day at a time. All of a sudden here I am in the World Series. It's like a miracle."

Lindeman finds good time to get on track, as Cardinal rookie gets hot in postseason

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The hits Jim Lindeman has been searching for since April are finally arriving for the St. Louis Cardinals rookie. He could not have picked a better time.

Lindeman, a .208 buster during an injury-troubled regular season, has batted at a .381 pace in postseason play. Half of his eight hits and two of his five RBI have been in the first four games of the World Series.

"I need my confidence to play the game, and if I don't play I don't have the confidence," Lindeman said of his turnaround.

"I'm not going to be out there hitting 900-foot home runs like Jack Clark. I'm a line-drive hitter and a doubles hitter. My job is to drive in runs."

Producing runs is what St. Louis hoped for from Lindeman when it gave up three players to obtain catcher Tony Pena from the Pittsburgh Pirates last April 1.

Lindeman, a 25-year-old former Bradley University star, started the season in Andy Van Slyke's old right-field spot — Van Slyke went to Pittsburgh in the big deal. He batted .283 with 11 RBI and three home runs his first 10 games but soon encountered problems.

Back spasms put Lindeman on the 15-day disabled list twice in just over three weeks. Following medical rehabilitation, he returned to the Cardinals roster on July 4 but did not homer again until Aug. 2.

"He lost so much confidence that he almost gave up on himself," Manager Whitey Herzog said of Lindeman, who wound up hitting eight homers and totaling only 28 RBI.

Lindeman's chance to restore belief in himself came during the regular season's final four weeks when he and 36-year-old Dan Driessen split duties at first base in place of the injured Clark.

The platooning carried over into the National League's playoffs, during which Lindeman hit .308 with three RBI and a home run against the San Francisco Giants. Wednesday night, his second Series start, he singled twice off Minnesota Twins left-hander Frank Viola.

"I'm trying to take advantage of it," Lindeman said of his opportunity in the middle of the Cardinals' batting order against left-handed Minnesota pitchers.

"Everybody wants to play in the World Series and show people what you can do," he said.

Lindeman's resurgence will probably keep him in lineup against right-handed and left-handed pitchers once the Series returns to Minnesota.

"He's got power, he's a fly-ball hitter and they've got a short right fielder there," Herzog said of the Metrodome. "I'll probably play him in the right field."
