A&M freshman receiver Gary Oliver celebrates his fourth quarter touchdown reception from quarterback Craig Stump in the Aggies' 14-0 shutout of the Arkansas Razorbacks Saturday before a Kyle Field crowd of 73,511.

Aggie defense, Stump crush powerless Hogs

By Doug Hall
Assistant Sports Editor

Granted, few people expected Saturday's Texas A&M - Arkansas matchup to be an offensive showcase, but who would have thought:

Analysis

• The 20th-ranked Razorbacks would gain only 125 total yards in four quarters of play, with 65 of those coming in the final quarter?

• In a winning effort, the A&M offense could only muster 211 yards?

• A modern-day Razorback offensive attack would only attempt six passes against an Aggie defense that has been hurt by well-balanced attacks all year?

• That senior quarterback Craig Stump, relegated to sideline signal service for most of the year, would come in and lead the Aggies to an impressive 78-yard, 16-play touchdown drive that effectively extended Arkansas' non-Cotton Bowl streak to 13 disappointing years?

A&M's starting strong safety Chet Brooks, for one, wasn't at all surprised by the Ags' 14-0 victory.

"The 125 yards, the goose eggs on the scoreboard, speaks for itself," Brooks said.

"I think they got frustrated, definitely frustrated after the first couple of series," he said.

And well the Hogs should have been frustrated. With a Southwest Conference championship looming in their future, the Razorbacks one-dimensional wishbone attack produced all of 45 yards through the first 44 minutes of the game.

Although the Aggies' offensive attack was less than spectacular, it provided all the points A&M needed to improve its overall record to 7-2, 4-1 in the SWC. The Hogs ended their SWC schedule with 5-2 mark, 7-3 overall.

The Aggie defense dominated Arkansas from the first series of the game. After taking the opening kickoff and moving 10 yards in five plays, Arkansas punted from its own 30-yard line.

Punt returner Rod Harris fielded the short punt on the A&M 44-yard line, picked up a wall of blockers on the Arkansas sideline and scampered virtually untouched in to the end zone for a touchdown.

As it turned out, it was all the points A&M needed.

Led by defensive end John Roper and nose tackle Sammy O'Brien, who led the Aggies with 12 tackles each, the Aggie defense held Arkansas to 11 first downs.
