Santa Claus is coming to town

by Connie Johnson

Santa Claus is coming to town a little differently this year. Penny Zent, chairman of the 1987 Bryan-College Station Holiday Parade, said a sky-diving Santa Claus is one of the main attractions for the Dec. 6 parade.

The parade, which carries the theme of "Holiday Miracles 1987," will begin at 3 p.m., with Santa Claus landing at the Texas A&M polo field shortly before its start.

After Santa Claus lands he will join the Chamber of Commerce float, which is the last float in the parade, Mary Branner from the Convention and Visitor Bureau said. He will be the only Santa Claus in the parade.

"We only have one Santa Claus so the children will not get confused," Branner said.

The parade will start at the main entrance to Texas A&M and continue down Texas Avenue, disbanding at Villa Maria Road.

Patty Sears, information specialist for the Convention and Visitor Bureau, said approximately 50,000 people are expected to line the sides of Texas Avenue to view this annual event.

"This is probably one of the largest projects the Convention and Visitor Bureau does," Sears said.

Zent said the parade will last approximately one and a half hours but its length will depend on the amount of time it takes for representatives from the 126 clubs, organizations, businesses and bands from the community and surrounding areas to move down Texas Avenue.

Each participant will be judged by a committee of community leaders before the parade begins and awards will be given in 23 categories ranging from the best band to the best youth-community organization represented, she said.

Sears said the parade is "definitely not a money maker, but a community service." To help finance the parade, different local businesses donate money and each entrant pays $10 to participate, Sears said.

"It takes a lot of people to make it successful," Sears said.

Zent, who has worked with the parade for nine years, was not sure how many years this annual event has occurred but she said it has most likely been around for over 20 years.

Monique Verse, a senior industrial distribution major, was one of the parade viewers last year and she said she enjoyed it and will watch the parade again this year.

"I enjoyed the parade; it really put me in the spirit of Christmas," Verse said.

The parade will be broadcast at 8 p.m. on KAMU-TV, Channel 15, which is Channel 4 for the cable stations.
