Secret Service finds $16 million in bogus bills

HOUSTON (AP) — More than $16 million in counterfeit money was seized here in the largest haul of bogus cash in U.S. Secret Service history, officials said Tuesday.

The fake money, along with three printing presses, was seized Friday from the garage of a Houston home after two men were arrested in Philadelphia during an alleged attempt to distribute the fake money, said Neal Findley, special agent in charge of the Secret Service's field office in Houston.

"We think we got most of the money before it got out," Findley said.

The two suspects, Sterling E. Layman, 47, and Angelo J. Rossetti, 33, were arrested in Philadelphia on Jan. 14, Findley said.

"The arrests followed good police work and good surveillance by our Philadelphia office," Findley said, declining to elaborate on the circumstances of the arrests.

Using information gained during questioning of the two men, Secret Service agents visited Rossetti's Houston home, where the counterfeit money and presses were found.

The wives of the two men were at the house at the time, but were not arrested, Findley said.

The money and presses, used for printing $20, $50 and $100 bills, were taken to the Secret Service's offices, where they were stored for use as evidence, Findley said.

Findley said a total of $16.66 million was seized during the raid.

"It is the largest single seizure in the history of the Secret Service, which goes back 122 years," he said.

Findley said he believes a few thousand dollars worth of the bogus cash was distributed in Austin and Houston, and a smaller amount in Philadelphia.

The men were charged with one count apiece of possession of counterfeit currency, which can carry a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

Lawsuit claims death of man in jail was racially motivated

HEMPHILL (AP) — A federal lawsuit filed by the family of a black man who died two days after he allegedly was beaten unconscious while in the Sabine County jail claims the incident was racially motivated.

The suit was filed against the city of Hemphill, its police chief and two sheriff's deputies and seeks actual and punitive damages for the death of Loyal Garner Jr. The amounts were not specified.

Garner and two companions were jailed Christmas night on a traffic violation, and the two companions have said that Garner was pulled from his jail cell and beaten unconscious after he asked to use a telephone to call his wife.

Garner died Dec. 27, a day after being hospitalized for his injuries. An autopsy concluded he died of head injuries.

Hemphill Police Chief Thomas Ladner, 40, and Sabine County deputies Bill Horton, 58, and James "Bo" Hyden, 34, later were indicted by a county grand jury on charges they violated Garner's civil rights by beating him and denying him needed medical treatment.

On Tuesday, the Southern Poverty Law Center in Montgomery, Ala., filed the civil suit in Tyler on behalf of Garner's parents, Sarah and Loyal Garner Sr., his widow, Corrine, and her six children, all of Florien, La.

The suit alleges Garner was "returned to his cell and left to suffer through the night of Dec. 25 and the morning of Dec. 26," and that officers "knew he needed medical attention." It also alleges that the defendants caused Garner's death and violated his civil rights.

Ladner has been placed on leave by the Hemphill City Council and the two deputies have been suspended by Sabine County Sheriff Blane Greer. Telephone calls to Ladner's and Horton's residences Wednesday were not answered, and there is no residential listing in Hemphill for Hyden.

The three men indicted in the case are white, and Garner was black.

County judges sue for right to back political candidates

AUSTIN (AP) — County judges who sponsored a South Texas presidential debate filed a lawsuit Tuesday for the right to endorse one or more candidates for the Democratic nomination for president, according to the judges' lawyer.

The suit against the State Commission on Judicial Conduct listed as plaintiffs judges in the Southwest Texas region.

The judges met in Laredo on Sunday to decide which Democratic presidential candidate to endorse, but instead they became concerned about whether they were allowed to make an endorsement.

"The fear of the judges was that even if we made a decision and didn't publicize it, it could still be considered an endorsement," Hidalgo County Judge J. Edgar Ruiz said.

"Not as a county judge, but just as a voter, it restricts me from doing anything," Ruiz said.

The judges' petition said, "Texas election history is replete with the accounts of the political activities of county judges."

But it said the Commission on Judicial Conduct had informed the judges that endorsement of a presidential candidate, or other candidates, could subject the judges to discipline because the canons of the Code of Judicial Conduct prohibit such political activities.

The judges argued that nothing in the canons prohibit them from endorsing candidates.

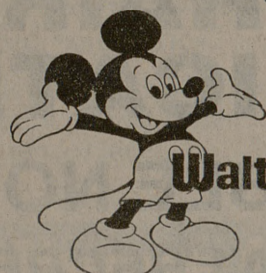

The petition, prepared for state district court by lawyer Randall "Buck" Wood, also alleges that the canons are unconstitutionally vague and overbroad.
