Reagan plans federal budget with Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan proposed Thursday his sharply higher spending for AIDS research and airline safety in a $1.1 trillion fiscal 1989 budget that was largely pre-ordained in a deal with Congress.

"This budget does not fully reflect my priorities," the president said in his message accompanying the last spending plan he'll see through to completion. "But... abandoning the deficit reduction compromise would threaten our economic progress and burden future generations."

The spending plan only hints of the "Reagan revolution" years as it strives to comply with the administration's agreement with congressional leaders to reduce the deficit.

The agreement set overall spending limits for domestic, military and foreign aid spending. Reagan has already signed the tax increase required under the agreement, adding $14 billion to the Treasury's receipts for next year.

The president's plan envisions overall spending of $1.094 trillion, offset by $965 billion in receipts. That would leave a deficit of about $129.5 billion in the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, within the guidelines of the Gramm-Rudman, budget-balancing law and down from $150.4 billion last year and an estimated $146 billion this year.

Because of the agreement with congressional leaders, Reagan was forced for the first time to submit a military budget that would not keep pace with inflation.

Restrained to $294 billion in outlays, up from $285.4 billion this year, the president proposed reducing the nation's active-duty forces and abandoning the goal of a 600-ship Navy.

On the domestic side of the ledger, the president requested new spending authority that he has resisted in the past but which Congress would likely favor anyway in an election year, including:

—$1.3 billion for AIDS research, a 38 percent increase.

—An increase of $1.5 billion, or 8 percent, on education.

—A 13 percent boost, to $3.9 billion, for drug law enforcement and treatment programs.

—$363 million to begin construction of the Superconducting Super Collider, a huge new atomic research facility.

—Full funding for a $2.5 billion, five-year program to combat acid rain, and an increase in spending on hazardous waste cleanup.

—A 44 percent increase, to $1.6 billion, for the Federal Aviation Administration to modernize its air traffic control system.

—$11.5 billion for space programs.

Health insurers screen for AIDS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Screening of health insurance applicants to detect the AIDS virus is a common practice among insurance companies and health maintenance organizations, according to a congressional study released Wednesday.

The Congressional Office of Technology Assessment said its survey of commercial insurers, Blue Cross and Blue Shield plans and HMOs found that most insurers ask AIDS-related questions on applications and require health histories from an applicant's physician.

The report said 51, or 86 percent, of the 62 commercial insurers who responded to the survey either screen or plan to screen individual applicants for the HIV infection. Testing for the AIDS virus is common among commercial insurers but is rarely required by Blue Cross-Blue Shield plans or HMOs, the OTA report said.

Thirty-one of the 62 commercial carriers said they routinely test applicants for HIV antibodies, while one of the 15 Blue Cross-Blue Shield plans did and two of the HMOs did.

The congressional study found that most insurers treat AIDS like other serious illnesses, most of which are uninsurable. Individual health insurance usually is denied not only to AIDS sufferers but also to anyone with emphysema, cancer, coronary artery disease, significant mental disorders, severe obesity, some types of diabetes, multiple sclerosis and many other conditions.

The survey found that there is a difference, however, in how insurers judge someone to be at risk of AIDS as opposed to at risk of contracting other diseases. In addition to evaluating medical criteria, 18 of the 62 commercial insurers said they consider sexual orientation in determining risk of contracting AIDS, as did four of the 16 HMOs surveyed.

The National Association of Insurance Commissioners advises states to prohibit that practice and at least eight states have adopted the commissioners' guidelines.

Guardsman dies in accident with jet intake

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — An Air National Guard ground crew chief who was sucked into an engine intake of an F-4D Phantom jet died from massive internal injuries, authorities said Wednesday.

Sgt. Martin Gaither, 28, of Williamsville died Tuesday during surgery at Memorial Medical Center, Sangamon County Deputy Coroner Bruce Martin said.

Gaither was inspecting engines on the flight line, where aircraft are prepared for takeoff, when the accident happened, Capt. Bob Lael, spokesman for the Illinois Air National Guard, said.

He walked in front of an engine that was running and was drawn into the intake chute, Lael said.

Babbitt and du Pont drop out of race

Democrat Bruce Babbitt and Republican Pete du Pont dropped out of the presidential race today, both declaring their futile campaigns the opportunity of a lifetime, while most of the surviving contenders marched south for a campaign blitz leading up to Super Tuesday's primary trophy.

Meanwhile, Republican party regulars in Nevada were bracing for Pat Robertson's "invisible army" as they geared up for a non-binding straw poll tonight.

And Democrats were set for to-back debates, starting tonight in Texas, the biggest Super Tuesday state.

Babbitt and du Pont became the first post-New Hampshire casualties.

"Today our campaign loses its flag, but our crusade continues to march," du Pont said in a letter to his constituents in his hometown of Wilmington, Del.

"In America we do not promise that everyone wins, only that everyone has the opportunity to try."

Wright readies Contra aid package

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker Jim Wright said Wednesday he is readying a new package of "humanitarian" aid for the Nicaraguan Contras that will continue supplying the rebels at current rates of about $1.8 million per month.

But Wright said other crucial questions, such as how the aid will be delivered, its duration and what kinds of incentives might be offered to Nicaragua's government to encourage compliance with a regional peace accord, remain unanswered.

The proposal is scheduled for a vote on the House floor next week. A group of House members has been working out details of the bill, which was promised as an alternative to the $36.2 million aid package defeated Feb. 4.

Texaco to sell refining operations

LONDON (AP) — Texaco Inc. plans to sell a stake of about 50 percent in its U.S. gulf coast refining operations to Saudi Arabia for more than $1 billion, according to the International Herald Tribune.

A final agreement between Petrotrin, the Saudi Arabian oil holding arm, and Texaco is expected to be reached within a month, the Herald Tribune reported Thursday, quoting an unidentified Texaco executive and unidentified Arab oil executives attending a conference of the Institute of Petroleum in London.

In White Plains, N.Y., a Texaco spokesman at the company's headquarters refused to confirm or deny the accuracy of the report.

"On Jan. 8, Texaco announced as part of its restructuring plan that it would aggressively move forward to get partners in joint ventures based on its downstream operations," K. Peter Mamer, Texaco's vice president, said. "At this stage, it would be inappropriate to issue public statements regarding those discussions."

Salvadoran rebels launch major attack

USULUTAN, El Salvador (AP) — More than 600 rebels using mortars, grenades and automatic weapons attacked an infantry base and cotton cooperative early Wednesday in the biggest guerrilla operation since early 1987.

Officials said at least 18 people were killed and 14 wounded. The battle raged in and around this provincial capital of 70,000 people 70 miles southeast of San Salvador, the nation's capital.

Military officers said two detachments of about 300 leftist insurgents each took part in the coordinated attacks, which included blowing up two bridges linking the capital and Usulután, El Salvador's eastern province.

Seven members of a civilian family — a couple and five children aged 7 months to nine years — were killed when a mortar shell hit their one-room brick and adobe home in a poor neighborhood just outside the 6th Infantry Brigade headquarters.

Col. Inocencio Montano, brigade commander, said five soldiers were killed.

Beech-Nut violates food and drug laws

NEW YORK (AP) — Two former Beech-Nut Nutritional Corp. executives were found guilty Wednesday of selling flavored sugar water labeled pure apple juice for babies.

"I think it's an important victory for consumers," Assistant U.S. Attorney Thomas Roche said.

Former Beech-Nut president Neils L. Hoyvald was convicted of 351 violations of federal food and drug law, Roche said.

John F. Lavery, a former Beech-Nut vice president, was convicted on 448 counts, the prosecutor said.

On Nov. 13, Beech-Nut, which was indicted along with the employees in 1986, pleaded guilty to 215 violations and agreed to pay a $2 million fine.

Israeli tourism bureau cancels ad

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) — The Israeli National Tourist Bureau has canceled an advertisement it was running in Dutch newspapers that said Tel Aviv and Jerusalem were only "a stone's throw" apart, a bureau spokesman said Wednesday.

The bureau withdrew the ad because of the ongoing unrest in the Israeli-occupied territories, where Palestinian youths frequently hurl rocks and other objects at troops, spokesman Albert Kooistra said.

The ad, which ran last week in two newspapers and in three TV program guides, was meant to emphasize the short distances between Israel's cities and other tourist sites, Kooistra said.

The ad had been written in August.
