NATO leadership demands reduction of Soviet weapons

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — NATO leaders on Wednesday demanded huge cutbacks in Warsaw Pact tanks and artillery, and endorsed President Reagan's efforts to negotiate strategic arms reductions with the Soviet Union.

Defining strategy for a new set of East-West negotiations, NATO leaders said Soviet conventional forces pose the threat of a surprise attack and must be slashed to rectify an imbalance in military strength.

The Soviet cutbacks would entail, for example, "the elimination from Europe of tens of thousands of Warsaw Pact weapons relevant to surprise attack, among them tanks and artillery pieces," a NATO communiqué said.

Meeting behind closed doors at the alliance's heavily guarded headquarters, the leaders of the 16 alliance countries attempted to accrete agreement. They did not want to highlight differences about the pace of modernizing short-range nuclear missiles left in Europe after the elimination of longer-range weapons covered by a new U.S.-Soviet arms treaty.

According to his spokesman, Reagan quoted Benjamin Franklin, telling the NATO leaders, "If we do not all hang together, we will assuredly hang separately."

Security was so strict that a NATO guard attempted to eject a reporter who asked Reagan a question as the leaders posed for a "family photo."

Emphasizing alliance unity, Reagan said, "There are no great fundamental differences there. I have never seen such harmony and togetherness as we have."

Reagan mixed NATO summitry with Middle East peace efforts. He ordered Secretary of State George P. Shultz to make a whirlwind return to the Middle East after the summit windup tonight to continue his ef-orts to set up Arab-Israeli peace talks.

First, Shultz will stop in London to see Jordan's King Hussein, and on Friday will visit Israel, Egypt and Syria, returning to Washington early Saturday morning.

The NATO meeting is the alliance's first summit since 1982.

Accompanied by their foreign ministers, the leaders gathered at a long, walnut-brown oval table in a conference room shortly after noon to hear an opening statement by Lord Carrington, NATO's secretary general.

He said Reagan's effort to secure a 50 percent cut in U.S. and Soviet long-range missiles "has the alliance's full support."

He spoke of Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev as a man "who is ready to reduce some tensions" but expressed concern about the Kremlin's military might and "the denial of basic human rights and freedom to the peoples of Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union."

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said most of the leaders, in their private remarks, touched on the issue of modernizing the short-range weapons. "Everybody has some feelings about that issue, some more supportive than others," he said.

A White House official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl spoke most directly on the issue, but that even his remarks were muted.

On the question of conventional forces, there is no dispute in NATO that the Warsaw Pact has an advantage: about 3-to-1 in tanks and artillery and nearly 2-to-1 in combat aircraft and troops, including reserves in the Soviet Union. Moscow contends that East-West conventional forces are roughly equivalent.

U.S.: Cuba owns no nuclear warheads

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cuban military has some surface-to-surface missiles in its inventory, but none has a nuclear warhead and none could reach the United States even if they did, U.S. officials said Tuesday.

The defense and administration officials commented under questioning prompted by Republican presidential candidate Pat Robertson's continued insistence, in the face of denials, that Cuba may have Soviet-made nuclear missiles aimed at the United States.

The officials said Cuba has about five dozen Frog-4 and Frog-7 battlefield missiles, dating to the 1960s.

The Frog-7, when originally introduced by the Soviets, could carry either a conventional or nuclear warhead, "but we're confident no nuclear warheads ever went to Cuba for that missile and it doesn't have any range anyway," said one source who requested anonymity.

According to the reference book "Jane's Weapon Systems," the Frog-7 has a range of only about 43 miles — or half the distance between Cuba and Florida. Moreover, the rocket has no guidance system to direct it to a specific target.

Troops continue commotion in Israel

RAMALLAH, Occupied West Bank (AP) — Israeli troops fired tear gas inside an Arab hospital Wednesday, forcing doctors to don gas masks and sending dozens of choking patients fleeing with their faces covered by Arab headscarves.

Soldiers clubbed a Palestinian teen-ager suspected of throwing rocks at troops from a barricade erected about 10 yards from the hospital's emergency room.

An Associated Press photographer saw soldiers throw the youth head first down a flight of stairs, then sit on his stomach while beating him with a wooden truncheon.

Mecham defended as 'mutiny' victim

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Gov. Evan Mecham, denounced as a lawbreaker and defended as the victim of a "mutiny" in opening statements, tried to contact the first prosecution witness at his impeachment trial Tuesday, the witness said.

Frank Martinez, a state Department of Public Safety officer who testified Tuesday, told the Senate he hung up the phone before the governor could talk to him. Mecham, absent from the impeachment trial for a second day, Troops detained 20 Arabs suspected of participating in demonstrations in Ramallah, Israel radio said.

President Reagan, meanwhile, ordered Secretary of State George P. Shultz to return to the Middle East on Thursday for further talks with Arab and Israeli leaders.

In Jerusalem, police detained 27 Israeli students from the Bezalel art school after their parade for the Jewish holiday of Purim turned into a protest against the Israeli handling of unrest in the territories.

The army does not release exact figures on troop deployment.

issued a statement denying the story.

Also Tuesday, the Arizona Supreme Court on Tuesday again refused to order that the impeachment trial be halted until Mecham's criminal trial is held.

And a judge dismissed a lawsuit filed by Mecham supporters seeking to halt a recall election.

The governor's lawyers had contended that his constitutional right to a fair trial in criminal court would be jeopardized by allowing the impeachment to proceed now.

The Dillard's College Advisory Board has been formed with the intention of developing a direct communication link with the Texas A&M University student body. Our goal is to better serve the student populous and relate merchandise trends to their specific needs. Participants serve on a rotating semester basis, attending monthly roundtable discussion luncheons, working in the store and initiating special projects on campus.

Dillard's recognizes these outstanding students as they were chosen from many qualified applicants. They excel in academia and are active in honorary and service organizations.

We look forward to their insights and ideas in this mutually beneficial relationship.
