A&M softball squad whips Huskers 4-1

By Hal Hammons
 Assistant Sports Editor

LAPORTE — The Texas A&M softball team capped a busy week by beating the Kansas 4-1 Sunday, raising its record to 15-9.

"It's good to be winning again," A&M Coach Bob Brock said. "We're beginning to look like the old Aggies again."

Rhonda Halbert looked strong in the leadoff position, going 3-for-3 in the game. Julie Smith, the regular leadoff batter, is still out with a broken leg. Smith and Renee Blaha may be healthy for this weekend's Pony Invitational in Fullerton, Calif.

Earlier last week the Lady Aggies placed fifth in the Houston Classic, going 6-1 in the tournament and avenging several earlier losses in the process.

The lone blemish in the tournament came against Bowling Green in the second game of bracket play for A&M. The Lady Aggies lost 9-3, as Julie Carpenter was shelled for 14 hits and A&M had committed four errors in the field.

Catherine Stedman reinjured her knee in the second game with UTA March 8. She could be back as early as Tuesday, but Brock says she probably will be limited to pitching and playing designated hitter for the rest of the season.

Tuesday the Lady Aggies play host to Bowling Green, starting at 4 p.m. at Penberthy Intramural Complex. Wednesday they head for California and the Pony Invitational.

A&M slugger finish 2nd in tourney

FRESNO, Calif. — The A&M baseball team took second place in the Best of the West tournament held Tuesday through Thursday, losing 4-0 in the championship game to Fresno State.

The Aggies stand at 20-10 in the year after a 4-2 finish in the 13th-ranked FSU.

Other teams in the tourney were George Washington, Washington State, Clemson and Brigham Young.

A crowd of 4,387 — the largest in FSU history — watched Bulldog pitcher John Sals hit his record to 7-0 after the A&M's Randy Pryor, 22, followed.

FSU held A&M to five hits in the final game compared to the Bulldog's 10.

The Aggies' only other tournament loss was a 7-6 loss to a 13-inning game last Tuesday.

A&M will face a tough test this weekend when it meets the Southwest Conference the road against Arkansas.

Lady Aggie tennis team knocks out No. 6 Miami, aims to be in Top 25

By Hal Hammons
 Assistant Sports Editor

The Texas A&M women's tennis team took a major step toward national prominence Friday by beating sixth-ranked Miami (Fla.) 5-4.

The win, combined with an 8-1 win over South Florida Tuesday and a 9-0 win over Rollins of Winter Park, Fla., lifted the Lady Aggies to 13-4 on the year.

A 6-3, 6-3 win by No. 3 doubles team of Cindy Crawford and Susan Williams over Gail Gibson and Jennifer Young clinched the win after Miami had taken the earlier doubles matches to even the score at four matches apiece.

Lisa Keller, moved to No. 1 singles by Coach Bobby Kleinecke, lost to Young 6-1, 6-4. Regular No. 1 player Gaye-Lynn Ginsler played No. 2 singles and beat Elizabeth Levinson 7-5, 6-4.

Cindy Churchwell continued her streak of wins by beating Kerri Reiter 6-4, 7-5; Crawford beat Rona Daniels 6-7, 6-1, 7-5; Williams defeated Jami Yonekura and Traci Nix lost to Gibson 7-5, 7-6.

Ginsler and Keller lost to Ronnie Reis and Paula Iverson 6-4, 7-5 in No. 1 doubles, while Churchwell and Derryn Haygarth lost to Erika Winston and Yonekura 6-2, 6-3.

Reis, the sixth-ranked player in the country, was unable to compete in singles action, and that may have cost Miami the match. Young and Yonekura are ranked 58th and 59th in the country, respectively.

"I think they kind of took us for granted," Kleinecke said. "We've been so close to beating South Carolina and Texas, the top 15 teams — we knew we could come sooner or later."

"Every one of those girls before Miami lineup have been higher than our girls in the past, mean, they've never been at Oklahoma. We look for this win to put us in the Top 25."

Miami has beaten Texas 13 times and beaten Southern Methodist this year.

Kleinecke said a win over Hurricanes will give his team confidence as the Southwest Conference season gets closer.

The Lady Aggies return to Friday at 8 a.m. when they play at the University of Georgia.

Georgia is currently ranked 10 in the nation and finished 10th in the NCAA tournament last year.

Johnson, Kennedy get consolation wins

By Anthony Wilson
 Sports Writer

HOUSTON — A&M's Dean Johnson and Steve Kennedy each won the consolation finals in their respective flights in the Rice Invitational this weekend.

The competition was for individual play, so team standings were not kept. Players were categorized by ability into flights, which are similar to seeds.

Johnson, A&M's No. 1 seed, was defeated in his first match 6-2, 6-1 by Byron Talbot of Tennessee. Johnson beat the No. 26 player in the nation, Brett Garrett of Southwest Louisiana, 6-4, 6-4 in the consolation quarterfinals.

Johnson advanced to the No. 1 flight consolation finals by defeating Rice's Don Freeman 7-5, 6-2.

Johnson battled to three sets in the finals against Mauricio Silva of Trinity before winning 4-6, 7-5, 6-2.

Drexler leads Blazers past Mavs 105-99

PORTLAND, Ore. — Clyde Drexler scored 21 points, including a pair of game-winning free throws with 13 seconds left, as the Portland Trail Blazers beat the Dallas Mavericks 105-99 Sunday in a battle of two NBA's hottest teams.

Seven players scored in double figures for the Trail Blazers, who won for the 11th time in 12 games.

Portland never trailed before a Dallas comeback from a 16-point third-quarter deficit. The Mavericks trailed 45 with 10:13 left in the quarter but rallied behind shooting of Rolando Blackman who scored 16 points in the period, including a pair of free throws that tied the score with 2:23 remaining.

It was tied again at 72-72 before the Blazers went on a run and led 87-79 with 8:20
