12th Man Scoreboard

5 A&M fighters make All-America

After a strong showing in last weekend's national championship, five A&M pugilists were named to the All-America boxing team by National Collegiate Boxing Association coaches.

A&M garnered four medals during the competition at the Virginia Military Institute in Lexington, Va. Freshman Kelly Shatzer, graduate student Andrew Wells and junior Scott Armstrong picked up bronze medals in the 119-pound, 156-pound and 172-pound classes respectively. Jackie Whitley, a sophomore, cruised to a silver medal in the 132-pound class. Chris Watson was unable to finish his bout after injuring a hand.

Boxing club members who did not participate in the regional competition will be representing the team in Fight Night this weekend at the Brazos County Pavilion. The club has won the open-division the past six years.

Lady Ags send Baylor packing again

After being chopped down to size by the Stephen F. Austin Lumberjacks, the A&M women's soccer team avenged the loss by sneaking past the Baylor Bears 1-0 on Parents' Weekend.

Despite a two-goal effort by Elena Olivé, the Lady Aggies lost 3-2 to SFA April 9. But the next day, A&M bounced back from the loss and sent Baylor back to Waco with a loss for the second-time this season. Once again Olivé accounted for A&M's offense with one goal, while the defense shut the Bears down behind strong performances by fullback Kelly Benner and goalie Jeanne Chicovsky.

The Lady Aggies conclude their spring season this week with two games in the College Station men's city league.

Aggies lose heartbreaker to SMU

The A&M men's soccer team was running neck-and-neck with the SMU Mustangs, ranked No. 4 in the nation, for almost an entire game Sunday, but lost in the final 36 seconds.

A&M was among 12 teams playing in the SMU Intercollegiate Indoor Soccer Tournament last weekend. The Aggies were the only club team in the tournament, while the other 11 teams were varsity squads.

Barry Chubb scored all three of A&M's goals to force a 3-3 deadlock with SMU before the Mustangs scored in the final minute to win. Goalie Jeff Nardiello and

Men's Soccer

John Baldwin also had good games for the Aggies.

A&M finished with a 1-2 record in the tournament. A&M beat Eastfield Junior College 7-2 and lost to a second SMU team 7-1.

One A&M player said that making men's soccer a varsity sport would greatly improve the team's chances of beating other collegiate teams.

"If we had a varsity program, we could have won the tournament," Adrian Angove-Rogers said.

Frosh bags bronze

Vicki Oliver, a freshman on the Texas A&M extramural racquetball team, brought home the bronze medal from the 1st Intercollegiate World Racquetball Championship held in Sacramento, Ca. earlier this month.

Although the team went to the world championship with aspirations of a first place, third was satisfying, Oliver said.

"I did not know what to expect since sometimes competitions don't get tough until the last couple of games (after the weak players are weeded out), but the competition was very stiff the entire time," she said. "After the semifinals we were all equally matched."

"Since everyone was college-aged, quite different from other big tournaments where you find people anywhere from 12 years old to 70 years old, the atmosphere was more competitive."

Oliver's win helped give the team a ranking among the 20 best teams in the world, club president Ed Schipul said.

Racquetball

"We were among the nation's top 20 last year, but this is our first time in the world ranks," Schipul said.

Although the official rankings have not been confirmed, Sacramento State University finished first with Memphis Junior University and Michigan State University taking second and third places, respectively, Schipul said.

"All the international teams that competed were completely blown out in the first couple of rounds... they were pretty much unknown throughout the tournament," Schipul said.

The other members of A&M's team were eliminated in the quarter- or semi-final rounds.

"Bruce Vicknell and Phil Theimer lost in the quarter-finals of the Men's Division I Doubles and Curtis Acheson won the Division III consolation bracket but neither place gets much recognition," Schipul said.
