Aggie Players present musical comedy

By Richard Tijerina
Reporter

The Aggie Players are presenting the musical comedy, "The Robber Bridegroom," in a five-day run in Rudder Theater at 8 p.m. today through Sunday. The show is adapted from the novella by Eudora Welty, and features A&M students in its cast.

Based on a folktale of the American South, the play's combination of improvisational theater and folk music is complete with romantic pursuits, magic spells, misunderstandings and mistaken identities that provide an evening of musical adventure.

The show takes place in a Mississippi area called the Natchez Trace. In a story of love and misadventure during a rough-and-ready period in American history, outlaws roam the Trace in pursuit of gold and beauty.

Heading the cast of students in the play is sophomore Rudy Cordova in the title role of Jamie, the robber bridegroom, and junior Suzanne Martin as Rosamund.

Tickets for "The Robber Bridegroom" are $7.50 for the general public and $5.50 for students. To purchase or reserve tickets, contact the MSC Box Office in Rudder Tower at 845-1234.

Amnesty centers reach busy peak as deadline nears

DALLAS (AP) — Amnesty applicants are jamming legalization centers across the state as the program's deadline looms a week away amid immigration officials' warning not to count on a proposed extension of the cutoff date.

"It would be sending the wrong signal that would encourage people not now in the country to enter the

INS will grant legal status to centenarian

QUEMADO (AP) — A 102-year-old woman who once served as an informant for Mexican forces fighting Pancho Villa is unable to get to a legalization center to apply for amnesty, so immigration officials said Monday they'll go to her.

Francisca Rivera de Chavez, who will turn 103 May 8, is the state's oldest amnesty applicant, said John Armistad, spokesman for the Immigration and Naturalization Office in Dallas.

The INS in February restored legal status to Clara Escobedo Martinez, 98, whose green card was canceled by immigration officials in 1962. Since then, Escobedo has been making television commercials for the INS to urge other aliens who qualify to apply for amnesty.

Armistad said San Antonio immigration officials will be in this border city about 90 miles north of Laredo Tuesday to present Chavez with legal status at 1:30 p.m.

"She's still very alert, but she can't get to a legalization office," Armistad said.

Under new immigration laws, aliens who have lived continuously in the United States since 1982 are eligible for amnesty and later citizenship.

country," John Roark, an Immigration and Naturalization Service spokesman in Dallas said Tuesday of an extension of the May 4 deadline that has passed the U.S. House of Representatives.

"INS is concerned that this misguided legislation (the proposed extension) will create confusion among potential applicants and cause them to delay filing beyond the May 4 cutoff date," immigration officials said in a statement.

The INS is opposed to the proposal extending the amnesty deadline to Nov. 30 despite a stepped up number of applicants for amnesty as the deadline approaches.

"These applicants are just like anyone else when it comes to procrastinating, just like you and I on tax day," Roark said.

In Arlington, 739 people applied at a local legalization center Saturday, and 913 applied the day before, Roark said. "That's maybe half the people who were there," Roark said.

The center in Houston, the state's busiest, accepted 1,143 applications and perhaps twice as many customers last Saturday, Roark said.

Others not counted as applicants in the figures picked up forms and cards to apply, he said.

The Arlington center, which expected to receive 60,000 to 80,000 applications, had received 60,878 through Saturday, 10,000 of which were submitted in the last three weeks, officials said.

Nationwide, officials originally projected up to 4 million undocumented aliens would apply. That estimate fell to 2 million. So far, the INS has received 1.2 million general amnesty applications and 400,000 applications under the more liberal seasonal agricultural worker program.

Local offices have been given authority to remain open past regular hours, and the INS has ordered its offices across the South to remain open all next weekend and until the Wednesday deadline.
