Man poses as doctor, fondles two patients

DALLAS (AP) — Authorities suspect that the man who posed as a doctor and fondled two patients in a Dallas hospital may have been involved in similar incidents at hospitals in Fort Worth and Grand Prairie.

A man dressed in a hospital scrub shirt and jogging shorts walked into the private rooms of two maternity patients at Baylor University Medical Center on Sunday and asked to examine the women's breasts for abnormalities, police said.

The man told the patients he had been jogging and had been asked to come to the hospital to examine them. Both women became suspicious and called for help after the man left, police said.

Officers said the man fondled the two women after entering their room and introducing himself as "Dr. Stephens." They said the same man entered another room, but left after saying he had entered the wrong room.

Earlier incidents were reported Saturday at Fort Worth Osteopathic Medical Center and May 25 at Dallas-Fort Worth Medical Center in Grand Prairie, officers said. Each victim identified the man as about 5-foot-10, 165-180 pounds, with sandy brown hair.

Fort Worth detective J.J. Yale said a man posing as a physician fondled a pregnant patient at the Fort Worth hospital. The same man may have exposed himself to a patient there May 22, police said.

"You just don't have this many of these type incidents in the whole state, much less at two cities 30 miles apart," Yale said.

Mayor hopes son's birthday will raise money for charity

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Mayor Henry Cisneros' son celebrates his first birthday this week despite life-threatening birth defects, and family members hope the event will help raise money for the March of Dimes.

John Paul Anthony Cisneros, named after the city and Pope John Paul II, will celebrate his first birthday Friday.

Rather than gifts, the family is asking for contributions to the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation.

"We are looking ahead 10 to 15 years so that he can say, 'Even as a baby, I helped raise money for good causes,'" George Cisneros, the baby's grandfather, said.

The mayor says he and his wife will probably give their child a gift—a puppy.

"He has learned his first word, 'Dog,'" the mayor said Monday. "When I get home the first thing he says to me is 'Dah,' which is for dog."

The Cisneroses have been surprised by the baby's healthy condition, given that he was born with no spleen, a malformed stomach and a heart that has only two chambers.

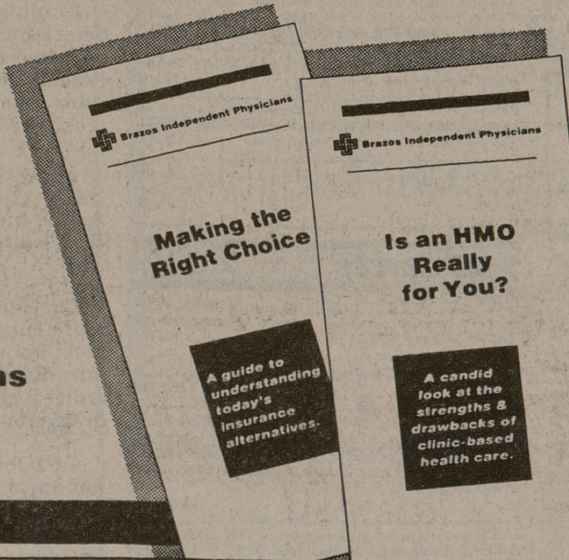

But the child, with the help of medication and medical attention, has grown from 5 pounds, 14 ounces at birth to 18 pounds today.

What if somebody told you you could no longer visit most local doctors.

Somebody has.

Join some health care plans, and most local doctors will suddenly be off limits to you and your family. Regardless of preference. Regardless of need. Some plans require that you see only doctors on the plan payroll. Others limit your access to health care facilities. Some even lack dental coverage. In many cases the list of trade-offs easily outweighs the promised benefit of "greater convenience." Don't compromise your family's health care choices. Make sure the insurance plan you choose guarantees your freedom of choice.
