Communist Party conference hosts ex-Gorbachev protegee

MOSCOW (AP) — Boris N. Yeltsin, the Communist Party firebrand and fallen protegee of Mikhail S. Gorbachev, has been elected to attend a party conference where he and other reformers may square off against conservatives because of Gorbachev's reforms.

Foreign Ministry spokesman Genady I. Gerasimov said Thursday that Yeltsin will attend this month's 19th Communist Party Conference.

The presence of the outspoken, acid-tongued Yeltsin, who was ousted in November as Moscow party boss, may make for lively debate at the nationwide conference, the party's first in 47 years.

The election of Yeltsin to the party conference continues the roller-coaster career of the 57-year-old Russian who was fired as Moscow party boss and stripped of his post as a non-voting member of the Politburo because of a speech he gave to the Central Committee in October.

Prominent advocates of Gorbachev's reform drive allege that middle-echelon apparatchiks in the 20-million member Communist Party have maneuvered to bar many Gorbachev allies from the meeting.

The newspaper of the Moscow city party, Moskovskaya Pravda, complained Thursday that election of the candidates has not everywhere been conducted in the atmosphere of broad openness.

The nominating procedure should be changed because some party and non-party members could not voice their opinions, it said.

The conference is considered crucial because it will consider potentially radical changes that remove vestiges of Stalinism from the Soviet political and legal system. Those changes could be in doubt if conservatives dominate the 5,000 delegates.

The conference is scheduled to convene in Moscow on June 28.

Among changes they will consider is a proposed limit on the terms of Communist Party officials, who have been virtually assured of lifetime tenure.

However, a set of proposals approved by the party's policy-making Central Committee, published May 26, advocates a limit of two-year terms for all party officials, including Gorbachev, the party's general secretary.

Such provisions, as well as Gorbachev's campaign for "perestroika" or economic and social restructuring, threaten the power and illegality of many party officials.

The contest for election to the 19th Party Conference has been no other party balloting in recent years, with disputes openly aired in the media, a petition drive on behalf of one reformist candidate in Moscow's Pushkin Square, and a street rally in Leningrad that reportedly drew 1,500 people.

Legislation limits usage of polygraphs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed and sent to President Reagan on Thursday legislation that would limit the use of lie-detector tests by private employers.

The legislation, which was approved 68-24, also would prevent employers from taking adverse actions against employees solely on the basis of the test results.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., chairman of the Senate Labor Committee, said the legislation will put an end to decades of injustice.

Kennedy said the measure carefully balances the interests of employers and employees, based on the known scientific evidence regarding lie detectors and their potential for abuse.

The House approved the bill last week on a 251-120 vote.

The Office of Technology Assessment estimated two million polygraph tests were administered in 1987, with 90 percent given by private employers.

Most of those tested were job applicants, although tests also were given to workers under investigation.

Twenty-two states prohibit the tests in the private sector, and 19 regulate private use of the tests.

The accuracy of test results has been questioned, and so has the competency of some examiners.

The compromise legislation, which followed passage of separate polygraph bills by the House and Senate, would permit private sector testing of applicants for only two types of jobs.

Those applying for security guard positions could still be tested, as could prospective employees who would have direct access to the manufacture, storage, distribution, or sale of controlled substances.

In addition, an employer could test an employee during an ongoing investigation involving economic loss or injury to the company.

Court ends Army ban of homosexuals

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal appeals court on Thursday set aside its landmark ruling that removed the Army's ban on homosexuals.

In response to the government's appeal, the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals reversed the case to an 11-member panel of the court for a new hearing and struck a 2-1 decision on Feb. 10 in favor of a discharged gay soldier.

Suzuki fires back at Samurai criticism

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A consumer group's accusation that the sporty Suzuki Samurai is prone to roll over was denounced Thursday by the Japanese automaker as "inaccurate and defamatory."

Test results announced last week by Consumers Union, the New York publisher of Consumer Reports Magazine, unfairly suggest the popular four-wheel drive vehicle is unsafe under normal driving conditions, said Doug Mazza, vice president and general manager of American Suzuki Motor Corp.

"If the magazine had acted responsibly and reviewed the available information it would have been aware that the Samurai has one of the best records on file," Mazza said.

Graduation suicide pact 'just a rumor'

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A high school senior says he told classmates their graduation would be memorable, but he just intended a practical joke, not the violence feared by administrators who canceled final exams and graduation exercises.

Neal Loeslein, 18, who witnessed a friend's suicide, denied that some students at Fairview High School, troubled by the death, had made a suicide pact.

"There wasn't one," he told the Pittsburgh Press in a story published Thursday. "That was just a rumor."

Officials in Fairview, an af-luent, suburban Erie County town, decided earlier this week to cancel Wednesday's final Thursday's baccalaureate service and Sunday's graduation for about 150 seniors because they felt they could not guarantee the safety of students and guests.

An administrator who spoke on condition he not be identified as a psychologist believed the threat of violence during graduation was real and they advised the board to cancel all events that would give the troubled student a forum to carry out their threat.

Accidental deaths and suicides suggested by the board members, including one student's suicide, were the catalyst for the decision.

The Erie County school board's decision to cancel the graduation exercises was a surprise to many students and parents.
