Gifted teens get experience with TAMUS summer camp

By Mercedes Salinas
Reporter

The Texas A&M University System sponsors a summer camp on its Galveston campus for gifted and talented teen-agers to help them gain actual experience for future careers.

Founded in 1980, Galveston Island Adventure features two two-week sessions on Pelican Island during which students entering the eighth through the 11th grades get actual experience in a variety of programs — archaeology, creative writing, marine biology, space science, veterinary medicine, photography, medicine, psychology and computer science/robotics.

All these programs are curricula in the A&M system, except creative writing.

"This all began as a crazy little idea that just took off," said Dr. William Nash, associate professor of educational psychology and director of the Gifted and Talented Institute at A&M.

"We try to give these kids a broad look at a field of study so they can develop an idea of what is involved in the different careers they are interested in pursuing," Nash said.

Of the approximate 100 students expected to arrive for each session, about 25 come from the Dallas area. More than 80 percent are from Texas. Last year's enrollment included people from Norway, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and Mexico City, Nash said.

The popularity of the program has grown so much each year that more and more students have had to be turned down, Nash said.

The $795-per-session fee covers room, meals, instructional materials, field-trip transportation and recreation. The first session began Sunday, and will run June 25; the second session will run July 17-30.

There will be "the normal things you would find in camp," Nash said, but more important will be workshops and daily experience of different careers.

"These kids generally show a great deal of independence, a high curiosity level and a propensity for investigating the complex and the difficult," Nash said.

For many of the teen-agers, the camp will be the time they have been challenged intellectually, he said.

"A lot of bright kids in some school settings are being challenged, and they breeze through making highest grades with little effort," Nash said. "They receive scholarships to outstanding universities and are forced to compete. Some of them don't handle it well and even flunk out."

"What we have been seeing happen here is that these students attending GIA are enrolling at A&M when they finish high school. Though that's not what we set out to do, it's become a good method for recognizing excellent students."

Many students become determined to follow a certain path because they are introduced to adults who have advanced in their field and they begin to think of their own careers with these role models in mind.

"I feel that we can serve as a model for other universities to develop similar programs," Nash said. "Universities have tremendous resources that during the summer are generally not as tied up as in regular semesters. A camp of this kind provides an excellent opportunity for those facilities to be put to use."

Information leak prompts probes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A massive amount of confidential information was improperly funneled from the Defense Department to McDonnell Douglas Corp. a search warrant issued in a nationwide investigation of possible corruption involving Pentagon officials and defense contractors revealed Thursday.

The search warrant said the government is investigating the bribery of public officials in connection with a scheme in which defense contractors got inside information from former government officials whom they had hired as consultants.

Attorney General Edwin Meese III declined to give a direct answer when asked if bribes had been accepted in the Pentagon.

"That will all come out in the course of the indictments and ultimately in the trials," he told reporters.

The fraud and bribery investigation, involving the alleged sale of information to some of the nation's biggest defense contractors, drew attention all over Washington.

President Reagan "is very concerned" about the revelations of the past few days, spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said after a meeting that included the president, Vice President George Bush, Meese and FBI Director William Sessions.

Reagan instructed them to move

"as rapidly as possible" to get the facts.

Meese said indictments may be handed down in 30 to 90 days.

Fitzwater said the matter "certainly poses an internal security problem." He said Reagan "feels that this is a matter that deserves his attention and that everyone should know of his feelings and the intensity which he feels about dealing with any kinds of crimes that have been committed here."

The search warrant that sheds light on the case was unsealed in federal court in St. Louis.

Mecham and brother found innocent

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Gov. Evan Mecham and his brother, Willard, were found innocent Thursday of concealing a $350,000 campaign loan, a partial vindication for the first governor in more than 50 years to be impeached and removed from office.

Mecham's supporters cheered as the clerk read the last "not guilty" finding on the six counts against him.

Outside the courtroom, prosecutor Barnett Lotstein said "we had an obligation to present the case" and that he had "no quarrel with the decision."

"We believe we presented a responsible case that had to be presented. We obviously felt we had a good case," he said. "A lot of the people in this community feel that he has suffered enough, and perhaps that was a factor."

The jury had deliberated for hours after receiving the Wednesday following seven days of testimony.

Police charge MADD member with slaying

WINDCREST (AP) — A former chapter president of Mothers Against Drunk Drivers, who was ousted after charges of sexually harassing female staffers, has been charged in the slaying of his ex-girlfriend, authorities said Thursday.

Bill Mixon, 47, was in the Bexar County Jail Thursday in lieu of bonds totaling $100,600 on charges of murder and criminal mischief.

He was charged with slaying his former girlfriend, J'Anna Tebbs, 26, who was shot to death in a woman's bathroom stall at her office building Wednesday.

Tebbs, a vice president in the San Antonio MADD chapter, had been working as an advertising salesman at KSMG radio for the past eight months.

In April, Mixon was stripped of his membership and his official duties by the MADD national executive committee after allegations of sexual harassment.

Windcrest Police Chief Cliff Grumbles said Tebbs, had her car tires slashed earlier Wednesday and had asked a co-worker to escort her to her car as she left work Wednesday.

"On the way to her auto, she saw her ex-boyfriend and she tried to get away," Grumbles said.

The woman ran back into the office building and the co-worker tried to stop the assailant, but failed, Grumbles said.

The woman was shot as she hid in a stall.

The assailant left a .22-caliber handgun in the bathroom and took an elevator to the radio station office on the fifth floor and asked that authorities be called.

erating level since March 1980 when the rate hit 83.7 percent.

Analysts had expected a modest rise in overall operating rates in May after the Federal Reserve reported Wednesday that production levels among U.S. manufacturing industries had increased 0.4 percent.

Some economists are expressing concern that the upward creep will push prices higher, forcing manufacturers with difficulty in producing enough to meet demand.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Securities and Exchange Commission lawyer will receive a promotion and back pay as part of a federal court settlement reached Thursday on her claim that she was threatened with dismissal for complaining about a sexually hostile work environment.

Also as part of the settlement with attorney Catherine Broderick, who had described her office as a "sexual playground," the SEC will hire an equal employment opportunity expert to review current commission policies on sexual harassment and make recommendations for any necessary changes.

The SEC also agreed that it will provide an impartial third party investigation of future sexual harassment complaints.

"The commission intends to send a strong message that it will not tolerate employment discrimination or harassment of any kind," an SEC spokesman said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A longtime supporter of Rep. Beau Boulter said Wednesday he is distributing a letter across the Panhandle urging the Republican congressman to resign or get back to work in Washington.

"Congressman Boulter should do the responsible thing and resign if he's no longer willing to carry out his duty to represent the 13th District in Congress," says the letter from Jerry Hodge and Jim Simms, co-chairmen of the Panhandle Republicans and Independents for the Re-Election of Sen. Lloyd Bentzen.

The letter attacks Boulter's voting record, saying he has cast more than 25 percent of votes since 1983 in favor of the administration.

Boulter, who is challenging Democratic incumbent's bid for a fourth term in the Senate, said in a statement that he does make "close votes, but the people they represent understand in order to win and represent them in the U.S. Senate, I must continue to bring my message to the people."

NEW YORK (AP) — Texaco Inc. chairman and Carl C. Icahn, the company's largest shareholder, come to their showdown Friday as the last ballots are cast in a proxy fight that could lead to the biggest corporate buyout in American history.

But the winner won't be known for weeks. It is expected to take that long to sort out the proxy ballots.
