Store roof collapses; At least 6 dead, 32 hurt

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — The roof and front wall of a department store collapsed in a torrential rainstorm Thursday, killing at least six people, injuring 32 and trapping others in the rubble, authorities said. "It looks real bad," Cameron County Sheriff Alex Perez said of the disaster at the two-story downtown Amigo Stores in this city on the Mexican border. "It's a disaster. It was just like a bomb hit that corner store there."

More than 4 hours after the accident, emergency crews were still digging through huge mounds of broken cinderblocks, glass and merchandise to pull out survivors and look for more victims.

Rescuers also were cutting through a wall inside a Woolworth's store next door to reach some of those trapped.

Witnesses said they heard screams from the wreckage.

Linens and clothing blown from the store by high winds were being used to wrap the wounds of the injured.

Ambulances and rescue personnel were dispatched from throughout the area, but were hampered in reaching the scene by floodwaters from the downpour.

Adan Narvaez, a dispatcher for the Brownsville Fire Department, said at least six people were confirmed dead, and Police Sgt. Dean Poos said 32 had been taken to hospitals.

Poos said the dead included a woman who was apparently crushed as she sat in a car with Mexican license plates in front of the building.

Two others were killed as they stood under a canopy in front of the store.

Perez said many people inside the store were probably seeking refuge from the rain.

An emergency treatment center was set up at a civic center about two blocks away.

The department store was located about one block north of the international bridge, and U.S. Border Patrol officials and other law enforcement agencies, including Mexican authorities, assisted in the operation.

"We've (also) had a number of companies volunteer equipment and we're making use of it — front-end loaders and cranes," said Steve Fitzgibbons, acting assistant Brownsville city manager.

Extension agents to meet at A&M

The more than 900 members of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service will be at Texas A&M next week to learn more about new problems facing the state.

The state conference for extension agents, specialists and administrators will begin Tuesday morning.

Speakers at the beginning of the conference will include: Dr. Chester Black, director of the North Carolina Extension Service; Dr. Charles J. Atrntzen, Deputy Chancellor and Dean of Agriculture at A&M; and Dr. Zerle L. Carpenter, director of the Texas extension service.

The participants in the conference will have a chance to attend sessions on a variety of topics.

Tuesday, workshops will address the changes taking place in Texas and in the extension service. Wednesday and Thursday the sessions will deal with a variety of more specific topics.

The topics for Wednesday include alternate crops for Texas urban 4-H, ranch management, computers, cholesterol, tourism, the global economy and biotechnology.

Thursday, the conference will focus on professional development, and participants can improve skills such as stress management and leadership.

Democratic Senator Kent G. Perton will be the featured speaker at the end of the conference Friday.

Reports: Citicorp interested in buying First Republic Bank

DALLAS (AP) — A last-minute competing proposal for the recapitalization of a financially troubled bank holding company has troubled federal regulators' decision on the institution's fate, according to reports published Thursday.

Federal regulators said Citicorp has submitted a preliminary proposal to them for acquiring and reorganizing First Republic Bank Corp.

Citicorp officials on Wednesday announced they were looking at the holding company's situation. First Republic's management last week had submitted a bid for the company to remain independent.

John S. Reed, Citicorp chairman and chief executive officer, said a Washington news conference Thursday "we are expressing an interest in First Republic Bank but that the next step is up to the FDIC." "We would be interested in looking at the next step," Reed said. Neither he nor Citicorp officials would comment further on the plan.

Such a merger, if Citicorp is successful, would be one of the largest in U.S. banking history.

AIDS in B-CS

He was quoted as saying that surprisingly, in a conservative community such as B-CS, everyone he's dealt with has been very open about him having AIDS.

One person who helps people like Blaudet is Bonnie Fails — leader and therapist of the only support group in town for patients afflicted with acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

Another group exists for people tested positive for the HIV virus and Fails says a group for families of AIDS patients will be started soon.

Most of the people Fails deals with are between the ages of 20 and 35 and are concerned with dying, along with the things everyone is concerned with.

Fails says people in the support group simply talk about "whatever is going on."

"We talk about having the disease and how to cope with it," she says. "We also talk about dating and how to have a social life."

Fails says she deals with AIDS patients about the same way a person would deal with someone dying of cancer. They are both terminal diseases, she says, but with AIDS, victims have to worry about the stigma attached to it.

"People dying of AIDS don't get the support someone dying of cancer gets," she says. "A lot of them also are having to deal with them being gay — which is coming out for the first time."

"A lot of their concerns are the same as yours and mine, except they are confounded by the fact that they have a disease. And it's a disease a lot of people are afraid of and have a lot of misinformation about."

"The fellow that I'm working with, you wouldn't even know he has AIDS."

Fails says most of the people in the support group are people that are living elsewhere and basically can't come home to die.

They come home to get close to their families, she says. "This is good time (to be close) for all of them."

Fails says the people she helps are positive and always open to new information and technology.

"The people I work with are real hopeful and have super outlook on life," she says. "They aren't looking to die, they are looking to live. They take each day one day at a time."
