A&M cadet assists Navy in Caribbean drug busts

By Andrea Halbert
Reporter

Instead of spending the summer on vacation or in school, one Texas A&M cadet was busting drug smugglers in the Caribbean.

Joe Garry, a senior history major, was a member of a Navy crew that seized $8 million worth of cocaine this summer.

Garry was stationed aboard a Navy frigate for 35 days as part of the Navy ROTC summer cruise program.

He said the cruise was a valuable experience because the daily routine of shipboard life can't be taught in the classroom.

"Since I was on board as a midshipman, my role was that of a professional observer," Garry said. "I wasn't actually allowed to participate in the bust, but I was able to watch everything from the deck."

"We had two assists and one full-fledged bust while I was there. We also stopped all north-bound vessels in our assigned area so they could be boarded and searched by Coast Guard personnel."

This cruise was Garry's first-class cruise, which Navy scholarship students and students in the advanced phase of the Navy ROTC program take between their junior and senior years.

Navy scholarship students also take a third-class cruise after their freshman year and an orientation cruise after their sophomore year.

"Summer cruises are the most intense dose of professional training that cadets get," Lt. Bruce Johnson, the

Police arrest man they think struck senator

AMARILLO (AP) — Police have arrested a man they allege was paid to assault Sen. Bill Sarpalius on a crowded nightclub dance floor in January, officials said.

A.B. Towery, Jr., 28, was free Tuesday on a personal recognizance bond after being arrested Saturday and charged with aggravated assault, Lt. Robert Francis, coordinator of the Panhandle Regional Organized Crime Unit, said.

Police on Monday also arrested a second man on charges related to the attack on Sarpalius, D-Amarillo, Francis said.

A third man wanted in connection with the case remained free on Tuesday, but Francis said he expected him to turn himself in later in the week.

Complaints filed against the suspects allege Towery was promised $100 by a nightclub co-owner to assault Sarpalius.

Towery did not know who he hit until after the attack, Francis said.

Sarpalius was assaulted during the early hours of Jan. 9 at the Caravan nightclub and suffered a broken jaw in the attack.

He spent most of his successful campaign for the Democratic nomination for the 13th Congressional District seat with his jaw wired shut.

Francis said Towery will not be prosecuted for the felony because he has cooperated with the investigation.

Texas Instruments defense contracts tops in Southwest

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Instruments of Dallas leads the list, but many Southwest contractors are enjoying a hefty $2.6 billion increase in defense contracts.

The dollar value of defense contracts being handled by Southwest firms in Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana, New Mexico and Arizona, has soared to $23.9 billion at the end of June, according to the Defense Contract Administration Services Region, which is located in Dallas.

The state's obligated value of defense contracts, meaning work currently under way or in the hopper, rose to $16.8 billion at the end of the first half of the year from the $14.2 billion total for the same period in 1987.

Texas Instruments' $7.5 billion in contracts is far ahead of the second-place E-System Inc. Greenville Division, which holds $1.4 billion in defense contracts.

Others in the top five are Lockheed Missiles & Space Co. of Austin, with $1.3 billion in contracts, General Dynamics' East Camden, Ark., facility with $1.76 billion; and Motorola Inc. of Scottsdale, Ariz., with $1.173 billion.

"If we're doing better, that's good news for the state," Bernard Weinstein, economist and director of Southern Methodist University Center for Enterprising, said.

"Even in the face of a shrinking defense budget, our contracts should be very well-positioned because they're working on the high-tech innovations like lasers, electronic warfare and surveillance systems."

Contracts were up $3.4 billion from $20.5 billion posted a year ago for the six states that compose the Southwestern region administered by the Dallas office. The 214 prime contractors in the region had 36,086 contract awards at the end of June.

Not included in Monday's figures were projects being managed directly by military services. Those contracts would include contracts held by LTV Corp. in Dallas, General Dynamics in Fort Worth and Bell Helicopter Textron Inc. in Fort Worth.

Officials said small businesses accounted for about 18 percent of the total value of the awards and about 80 percent of the region's contractors are classified as relatively small businesses.

Lawmaker calls for resignation of state education commissioner

AUSTIN (AP) — A South Texas lawmaker called Tuesday for Higher Education Commissioner Kenneth Ashworth to resign, after Ashworth suggested that no additional doctoral programs be approved for South Texas universities until the institutions reach a sharing agreement.

Rep. Eddie Cavazos, D-Corpus Christi, said he has sent a letter to Higher Education Coordinating Board members saying Ashworth should be fired if he does not resign. Cavazos said Ashworth has demonstrated "gross neglect and total disregard of the systems of higher education in South Texas."

Ashworth was out of town and not immediately available for comment, Janis Monger, co-director of public information for the coordinating board, said. Ashworth, who has been education commissioner since 1976, serves at the pleasure of the board.

Don Brown, assistant higher education commissioner for special programs, said Ashworth's suggestion about doctoral programs was part of a presentation describing "an affirmative approach to take to try to help the institutions of South Texas reach agreement with the coordinating board on the degree programs they should offer."

Ashworth laid out a plan to work with the institutions to develop strong programs, Brown said.

Ashworth said in the report given last week to the board that he would meet with university presidents in September, and that his staff also would meet with administrators from South Texas institutions. The board approved a recommendation to the Legislature proposed by Ashworth that would give $1.8 million for six South Texas universities to start new programs in 1990-91.

In the report, Ashworth also said although expansion of education offerings is needed in South Texas, existing conditions "are not due to any discrimination based on the region or the ethnicity of citizens in that area."

"We could take other areas of the state and demonstrate that the coordinating board has been equally even more parsimonious in approving degree programs and officers than we have been in the South Texas area," Ashworth said in his report.

"Commissioner Ashworth's recommendations and conclusions are incomprehensible, especially in light of the fact that in the past year and a half there have been numerous complaints and criticisms... that he documented the inequities of financing and the inadequacies of programs unique to the institutions higher education located in South Texas," Cavazos said.

Cavazos said he is "tired of Ashworth's arrogance, obstructive views and lack of respect for the people of South Texas." He said Ashworth should apologize as well as resign.

Board Vice Chairman Cipriano Guerra Jr. of San Antonio said suggestion that Ashworth resign "ludicrous on its face."
