Texas A&M: a study

The photograph of an actual elephant was added to the top of the crowd photograph.

(Left) Candles are lit for Aggies that have passed away in the previous year during a Muster ceremony. The ceremony is held every April 21 on the A&M campus and at sites around the world.
