Daniels hits 2 homers, Reds beat Astros 10-3

HOUSTON (AP) — Kal Daniels hit two home runs to drive in four runs and Tom Browning won his seventh game as the Cincinnati Reds beat the Houston Astros 10-3 Tuesday night.

Browning, 15-5, has a 13-2 record since June 1, and the Reds have won six of their last seven games to move within 6½ games of first-place Los Angeles in the National League West.

Browning, who allowed eight hits, lost his shutout when Glenn Davis hit his 27th home run with one out in the ninth.

Jim Deshaies, 9-12, lost for the fourth time in his last five decisions and has lost three times to the Reds this season — all to Browning.

Dave Collins hit the first pitch of the game into the right-center field gap for a triple and Chris Sabo followed with a sacrifice fly to deep left that Billy Hatcher caught while slamming into the fence. Daniels, who scored five runs, and Nick Esasky each walked and Daniels went to third on a flyout. Daniels scored on Herm Winningham's single.

The Reds went up 3-0 when Daniels hit his 15th homer in the third inning. Daniels hit a three-run homer in the ninth to make it 10-0.

Cincinnati made it 5-0 in the seventh on a two-out, two-run double by Luis Quinones. In the eighth, Sabo and Daniels scored again when catcher Alex Trevino's attempted tag on Sabo popped out of his glove.

Lewis tired of wait; relay team a mystery

HOUSTON (AP) — Four-time Olympic gold medalist Carl Lewis is getting antsy over which sprinters will run the U.S. men's 400-meter relay team at the Seoul Olympics later this month.

U.S. Olympic track and field coaches have not named members of that team even with the summer Olympics less than two weeks away.

"At this point, people should not be wondering who is and who is not on the team. There are other things to worry about," Lewis said during a Monday news conference.

For Lewis' coach, Tom Tellez of the University of Houston, the delay presents a problem in planning and training for Lewis, who also will compete in three individual events — the long jump, 100-meter and 200-meter races.

Lewis and Tellez have been at odds with Russ Rogers, the assistant U.S. Olympic coach, since the Olympic Track and Field Trials in Indianapolis in July.

"Usually, the head coach lets the sprint coach take care of this. But they went through the whole summer with no team selection. We're right back to square one," Tellez said.

Stan Huntsman, the U.S. head coach, delegated the relay selection process to Rogers.

Rogers has said Lewis and sprinter Joe DeLoach of Baylor have avoided training with other U.S. sprinters at a training camp in Europe. By missing out, Rogers said, Lewis and DeLoach would not make the relay team. DeLoach, who attends the University of Houston, is the 200-meter champion at the Olympic Trials.

But Lewis, who apparently is in a realistic danger of not being on the relay team, still contends the process of selecting the relay team is subjective and unfair — unlike before the 1984 Olympics. In 1984, the relay team was made up of the four fastest finishers at the Olympic Trials 100 meters.

"Now no one seems to know what's going on — and it's getting late. In July, Stan Huntsman told me he would evaluate the relay team members, your past, and how you ran in August. They said that the finalists would be considered."

The 100-meter finalists in Indianapolis were Lewis, DeLoach, Dennis Mitchell, Calvin Smith, Alberto Robinson, Mike Marsh, Emmitt Keneedy and Lee McNeill.

Lewis plans to leave Wednesday for Japan, where he will meet Canadian 100-meter world record holder Ben Johnson in a highly publicized matchup.

Astrodome won't be same with scoreboard removed

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros' home runs and Oilers' touchdowns in the Astrodome just won't be the same after Tuesday when the electronic scoreboard is retired.

Monday night was designated as the official night for saying goodbye to the centerfield scoreboard although it was to have been used for Tuesday's game between the Astros and Cincinnati Reds before it is shut down permanently.

Fans were not happy to see the scoreboard with its trademark snorting bull, bucking broncos and fireworks go, but it is being torn down as part of a Harris County-funded $60 million renovation designed to keep the Oilers from moving to Jacksonville, Fla.

The Astrodome is home to the Astros, the Oilers and the University of Houston football team.

"Please don't get rid of it," said D.B. George, who saw the scoreboard light up for the first time. "It was the most fascinating thing I had ever seen. It'll be a shame without it."

Monday night, the old scoreboard allowed to perform in all its glory whenever the Astros made a play. The complete display is usually reserved for Astro homers.
