

Glanville pleased with play of subs

HOUSTON (AP) — The performances of Houston's Cody Carlson and Allen Pinkett on Sunday were surprising only outside the Oiler organization. Coach Jerry Glanville said Monday.

Carlson subbed for injured quarterback Warren Moon and completed two touchdown passes.

Pinkett, filling in for Mike Rozier, scored his third touchdown with 31 seconds left to play, rallying the Oilers to a 38-35 victory over the Los Angeles Raiders.

Glanville said, "Before the game, others may have wondered if Cody Carlson could play well, but no one with the Oilers was surprised. No one was surprised the Allen Pinkett played well."

The Oilers also managed to win without starting cornerback Steve Brown, sidelined by a hamstring injury.

"We've been able to develop some depth, and that's a plus for us," Glanville said.

The Oilers came from behind twice to win, starting their game-winning drive with 2:50 left in the game.

The Oilers also have developed some confidence, Glanville said.

"When we got the ball with under three minutes to play, everyone on the sidelines felt we had them just where we wanted them," Glanville said.

The Oilers' defensive line also was a collective star in the game, sacking Raiders quarterback Steve Beuerlein five times, including 2½ by defensive end William Fuller.

"Our defensive line sets the tone with a lot of hard work," Glanville said. "It's fashionable to say that we've got great talent and great athletes but the fact is, we work very hard."

Glanville also was kind to rookie cornerback Cris Dishman, who started for Brown and was penalized twice in the first three plays of the game.

Told that Dishman had been ejected following the game, Glanville said, "He shouldn't be down, because he made some great plays. Everything that he did wrong can be corrected."

"It has nothing to do with athletic ability."

The Oilers, among the most heavily penalized teams last season, were flagged 15 times for 186 yards in penalties against the Raiders.

A 28-yard pass interference penalty against cornerback Patrick Allen in the end zone, gave the Raiders the ball at the Oiler 1-yard line and set up their final score.

But the Oilers overcame penalties and injury to remain unbeaten through four preseason games and two regular-season contests.

"This is about as much fun as it gets," Glanville said.

12th Man served injustice at LSU

EDITOR:

There has been a great injustice done against the 12th Man. Saturday night, shortly after halftime of the LSU game, my roommate, his girlfriend and I were escorted out of Tiger Stadium by four police officers for standing up.

When I tried to tell the officers that it was a tradition here to stand up during football games, he told us to follow him below the stands. Once down, the officer told us that we were causing a disturbance and being discourteous to the fans behind us.

I tried to point out that there were approximately twenty rows of Aggie and LSU fans standing in front of us. After this, the officer grabbed my hands, forced them behind my back, pushed my face into a chain-link fence, and asked me if I wanted to go to jail.

While this was going on, my roommate and his girlfriend were also being harrassed by another officer. The two officers then grabbed our arms and escorted us out of the gate. After being kicked out of Tiger Stadium, we tried to talk to a man with the LSU Athletic Department about the incident and he told us there was nothing he could do.

To say the least, we were very angry and decided that the Texas A&M student body should know what happened. I have been to many out-of-town games and have never had anything like this happen to me.

I think that after the near-riot that LSU fans caused last year at Kyle Field and the discourteous treatment that Aggies received this year, the Texas A&M Athletic Department should consider not giving any tickets to LSU fans next year.

Editor's note: A&M is contracted to supply a certain number of tickets to LSU, as well as any other school that sends its team to Kyle Field to play the Aggies.

Have some spirit, football players!

EDITOR:

Recently, my roommate and I attended a Texas A&M women's volleyball game. We were deeply offended to see a football player sitting below us (obviously a football player) did not stand and participate in the yells led by our yell leaders.

Yes, those same yell leaders who work diligently to lead the entire A&M student body in support of the Aggie football team even through four quarters of a game when our team is down feel that it is an insult to the volleyball team, the yell leaders to fellow Aggies when a member of our football team does not have the decency to support other athletics in the same way we support the football team.

Part of being an Aggie is being able to support all Aggie situations. We are proud of Texas A&M and proud to be Aggie and we would like to see everyone able to express their Aggie Spirit with as much enthusiasm as we do.

Don't get us wrong, we still love our football team. We want to encourage them to participate as part of our highly thought-of student body.

We would also like to congratulate the women's volleyball team in their victory over Northwestern and we would like to think that we share in that victory through our support.

128 formulas at the speed of light.

The Casio FX-5000F Formula Calculator. To save you the time and trouble of looking up or memorizing many of the most important mathematical and scientific formulas, we put 128 of them in our FX-5000F Formula Calculator. And you can call them up in a flash.

The formulas are numbered and cover the fields of math, statistics, physics, electronics and mechanics. Plus you can input 12 of your own. Just key-in the appropriate number and the formula you need appears instantly. The alpha numeric display with 10 digit mantissa plus 2 digit exponent is easy to read and scrolls to over 70 characters. Its two-line display shows both the formula and the answer simultaneously. And it doesn't stop there.

Once you've recalled the formula, the calculator prompts you to input the values of the variables and automatically calculates the result.

The FX-5000F's 675 steps of program memory allow you to create some pretty sizeable programs and store them until needed. While an instant replay feature lets you review and edit formulas at the touch of a button.

Adding to its usefulness are an additional 160 powerful scientific functions, for a combined total of 288 functions and formulas.

Get your hands on a Casio FX-5000F and flash through a few formulas. You'll find it very illuminating.
