Pope visits war-torn area to preach reconciliation

BULAWAYO, Zimbabwe (AP) — Pope John Paul II preached peace and reconciliation Monday during an open-air Mass in Matabeleland, a province where tribal warfare ended only four months ago.

"No more training for war," the 68-year-old pontiff told 50,000 people at Ascot horse track in Bulawayo, the provincial capital.

"Hammer swords into plowshares, spears into sickles and nation will not lift sword against nation," he said.

John Paul, who is on the first leg of a five-nation, 10-day pilgrimage to southern Africa, flew to Bulawayo from Harare.

He was welcomed at the track by bishops in cassocks and African drummers, dancers and singers dressed in animal skins. The pope was met at Bulawayo's heavily guarded airport by Joshua Nkomo, former rival of President Robert Mugabe and now a senior minister in the socialist government.

In December, Nkomo and Mugabe signed an accord that merged their feuding political parties. As a result, nearly eight years of fighting between armed dissidents loyal to Nkomo and government troops in Matabeleland ended in May.

John Paul — speaking in English, Latin and the two main African languages of the Shona and Ndebele tribes — lamented that the minority Ndebele people of Matabeleland did not find peace after independence from Britain April 18, 1980.

But he prayed that their newfound peace and reconciliation would hold.

"It is only eight years since your struggle for independence was brought to an end," the pope said from a red-carpeted rostrum festooned with flowers. "Even after that, many people in Matabeleland find true peace . . . the civilian population often suffer from guerrilla warfare and other violence."

Before the Mass, John Paul was introduced to a group of Matabeleland Bishop Henry Karlen who accused troops of committing atrocities against the Ndebele, traditional foes of Mugabe's dominant Zulu tribe. Mugabe denounced Karlen at the time, accusing the charge and siding with terrorists.

Among hundreds of civilians slain in the province were 10 Catholic missionaries, one of whom was killed on April 19 just hours after Mugabe announced a general amnesty for rebels as part of the accord.

"The people of Matabeleland have suffered during the liberation war," Karlen said, referring to the seven-year guerrilla war led by separate arms groups. Nkomo and Mugabe against white minority rule through drought and violence, he added.

"The blood of 10 missionary martyrs of the province of Bulawayo has flowed into the soil," Karlen said. "This blood bear abundant fruit."

TWA pilot testifies that Arab terrorist enjoyed hijacking

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — The pilot of a TWA jetliner hijacked by Arab terrorists in 1985 testified Monday that Mohammed Ali Hamadi took pleasure in torturing the passengers and fired the shot that killed an American sailor.

Capt. John Testrake, who commanded the plane during the ordeal, told the court he believed Hamadi was the more violent of two hijackers who invaded the jetliner's cabin and later killed Robert Stethem, a U.S. Navy diver.

But under questioning by defense lawyers, Testrake said he did not actually see Hamadi pull the trigger.

Mohammed Hamadi is charged with murder and air piracy. He has admitted being one of the hijackers, but has denied killing Stethem. The Athens-to-Rome flight was hijacked June 14, 1985. It was flown to Beirut, where Stethem was killed, and 39 Americans were held hostage for 17 days.

Testrake had testified earlier that either of two hijackers could have led Stethem to a cabin door where he was shot. But after a recess, Testrake told the court he had a chance to get a closer look at Hamadi.

"I want to make an important statement," Testrake said. "I did say before that one of the two (hijackers) appeared to do more of the communicating and the other more of the violence."

He said, "It appeared that one of the hijackers (Hamadi) enjoyed beating the passengers more . . . to inflict violence."

"Looking at this man now, I was struck that . . . this is the man who I recall had stood in the forward entry way and shot Stethem."

Kidnappers
free hostages
in good health

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — A Shiite Moslem kidnapper who had held 10 West German hostages in Beirut after they deduced they were ending his 20-month reign in response to Syrian and U.S. intervention.

The 55-year-old kidnapper was released in Moslem Beirut, taken by police to the home of Lebanese Interior Minister Elias Haddad and then flown to Syria for security reasons.

Cordes then was paroled and was driven to Damascus. Col. Ali Hammoud, chief of Syrian intelligence for the area.

"Mr. Cordes is now in good health," a Syrian official said. "He is in good health."
