Johnson admits taking some theraputic drugs

octor in the doping control office said Wednesday.

Dr. Lee In-joon added, however, that use of these rugs for therapeutic purposes is permitted, and Johnon "never told me he had taken any anabolic steroids." "If used properly, as a therapeutic, that's fire with s," Lee, doping control coordinator for track and field a the Seoul Games, said in an interview with the Asso-jated Press. "Larger amounts than what we consider a erapeutic level could be suspicious.

After urinalysis revealed the presence of muscleuilding anabolic steroids, Johnson lost his gold medal nd his 9.79-second world record and rushed back to anada. He told The Boston Globe, during the flight m Seoul, that he was innocent, but he has not pubdy elaborated on the case.

Lee said he "had a hunch" from talking to Johnson but 30 minutes after Saturday's race that he might positive.

"You get a feeling when you see an athlete. Some ave no idea what's going on in doping control, and me are very defensive," Lee said. "I would say Mr. hnson was more defensive, but maybe he's just that nd of guy. I don't know.'

Johnson's agents have contended someone must are spiked a bottle of sarsaparilla that Johnson carried othe stadium, but officials have said the drug tests did tbear out that defense.

Sports Illustrated and The New York Daily News reted that Dr. George M. "Jamie" Astaphan, a memof Johnson's Olympic entourage, has administered oids to Johnson in the past and is a firm believer in ing athletes performance-enhancing drugs. "I never gave him any," Astaphan told reporters at "Toronto airport. "He never told me he took any." After suffering a hamstring pull, Johnson sought out taphan in May in the island nation of St. Kitts, near hnson's native Jamaica. SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Ben Johnson acknowl-diged taking three different types of medication, in-huding some containing partially restricted drugs, be-mer his now-disgraced Olympic 100-meter race, a lutely no" to questions about possible drug use in connection with Johnson's phenomenal improvements in recent years.

Lee said that while waiting to be tested, Johnson dis-played none of the usual happy emotions of gold medal inners.

He said he asked Johnson if he had taken any medi-cation in the three days before Saturday's race, and Johnson replied that he had taken three different types, one of them an injection.

Some of the medication included "partially banned" substances known as corticosteroids, Lee said, but Johnson said the medication was for therapeutic purposes

The International Olympic Committee announced only the finding of anabolic steroids. IOC spokeswo-man Michele Verdier said the presence of one banned drug is enough for disqualification, without analysis for any other substances.

Lee said Johnson never even mentioned the gold medal. He said Johnson had to spend about 11/2 hours in the waiting room where athletes go if they are unable produce a urine sample immediately.

Lee said athletes are observed during urination to ensure that no other sample is substituted. The athletes then divide the sample into "A" and "B" bottles and seal the bottles, which are coded so that the laboratory has In raising the possibility of a spiked drink, Johnson's agents said Johnson found a smelly, sticky substance at the bottom of his sarsaparilla bottle, but it later was Lyle Makosky, the top sports official of the Canadian government, said that based on the laboratory results for Johnson, "the tampering option is no defense." "This particular result, which is technically and scien-tifically colid, chours automated an expected tifically solid, shows extended or repeated use over time" of anabolic steroids, Makosky added.

The chemical found in the test already had been broken down by natural processes in the body, which would not have been the case if it had been in a drink taken only hours before the doping test, he said.

DeLoach triumphs over idol Lewis; wo Houston runners stay friends

BAY CITY (AP) — Joe DeLoach, the new Olympic champion in the 00 meters, said he hopes his victory the Carl Lewis — his roommate, ing partner and idol - imves his stead in the track and eld world.

"Everyone was picking Carl to in I would have picked him, too. at now I feel I'll be respected as ne of the great sprinters of the orld," DeLoach told the Bay City bune in a telephone interview m Seoul.

"I don't think I can follow in arl's footsteps," DeLoach said, a w hours after breaking Lewis' Nympic and American records. "I mean, as far as times, I think e're the same but I'm not trying to the next Carl Lewis. That's not hat I want. I want to establish omething for myself. I'm the next or DeLoach."

became the first person in two years to beat Lewis in the 200 meters. But skeptics weren't convinced. Network Olympics.

DeLoach and Lewis trained to-gether at the University of Houston, fish together at Bay City and — according to DeLoach's father, Joe Sr. — are as close as brothers.

Lewis took a two-meter lead coming out of the curve in Seoul on in an Olympic record time of 19.75 seconds. Lewis was clocked in 19.79 for the silver medal.

'I knew I would run well after my freshman year at UH.

In the Olympic Trials, DeLoach ecame the first person in two years beat Lewis in the 200 meters. But semifinal heat," DeLoach said. His time of 20.06 in the prelims was the fastest of all semifinalists.

Lewis told reporters after the television coverage of the race fo-cused on Lewis and his bid to repeat as a quadruple gold medalist in the himself.

DeLoach says Lewis has provided inspiration and motivation for him. In earlier years, a young DeLoach used to plead with his parents to take him to Houston to watch his hero run at meets.

Lewis, who ran for the University Wednesday, but DeLoach caught him with 20 meters to go. As Lewis turned his head to look, DeLoach surged ahead at the 10-meter mark and leaned forward at the line to win tent with UH, but was ruled ineligible for a year. As a result, DeLoach competed as an individual or for the Houston Track Club during his ppearing to be willing to settle for a possible tie, but changed his mind nd went for the touchdown.

Tech rushed only three lineman, owing Hargett to scan the field for m open receiver. Finding none, he inted to his left, then veered harply to the right and headed to e end zone.

No fewer than five Red Raiders hased him, but only defensive end George Cox appeared to have the gle on Hargett.

Near the five yard line Cox suddenly disappeared, having been trunched by running back Larry tegent's block. Stegent had been in he end zone but came out once he aw that Hargett was in trouble.

Hargett ran into the end zone bout one yard from the corner flag, ing off a wild celebration on the ield involving Aggie players and ns alike

The referees cleared the field so that Riggs could kick the final point, then the celebrating began in ear- fellow junior Tommy Maxwell) and nest. "After those three rushers got past me, there was a clear field to the goal line," Hargett said. "I guess I cleared the flag by about three yards.

Hargett thanked Stallings for letting the Aggies go for the win, and Stallings replied, "You know that I wouldn't have gone for the tie." Following the game several Tech fans and players were enraged, say-ing that Stegent had clipped Cox (who had to have knee surgery the following day).

"I'm not buying that clipping busi-ness," the somber King told the assembled press about two hours later. A&M won fair and square.

The victory gave new life to Hargett and company, as A&M pro-ceeded to astound the sports world by winning its remaining six games.

Included in the streak were the Aggies' first win in nine tries against their first victory after 10 consecutive losses to Texas' Coach Darrell Royal (10-7, with the winning touchdown coming on an 80-yard pass from Hargett to Long). Then A&M took on Stallings' old coach, Bear Bryant, and whipped the Bear 20-16 in the Cotton Bowl. As had become customary, the touchdown that put the Aggies' ahead for good was a pass from Hargett, this time a short one to Maxwell.

Curiously enough, A&M's games with Tech in 1966 and 1968 mir-rored Hargett's college career. He passed for two touchdowns and ran or one in the Aggies' 35-14 win in 1966, the first time A&M had scored at least 30 points in 49 games (the last coming against Tech in 1961,

Two games later, Hargett again Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles (33-21, with the winning touchdown ran for another, leading the Aggies coming on a pass from Hargett to to a 35-7 win over TCU.
