Wazobia brings rasta reggae

By Shane Hall

Reggae band Wazobia will bring their Caribbean "riddims" to Texas A&M Friday night. The Houston quintet will perform at 9 p.m. in DeWare Field House in a concert presented by MSC Town Hall.

Wazobia's members are Terry, vocals and guitar; Coles, synthesizers and Drumulator; Darryl, drums; Lee, saxophone; and Kofi, bass. Kofi is also the band's manager.

In addition to reggae, Wazobia performs various upbeat styles of African music, including Soca, Juju and Makossa. The band's Afro/Caribbean sound is often described as "exclusive tropical music designed to move the feet in the most happy fashion."

Wazobia has toured the state extensively, both on their own and as an opening act for other reggae groups. In 1986, they opened for the now-defunct Jamaican reggae band Burning Spear in Houston. They also have opened shows for Alpha Blonde and Solar System.

As a headlining act, Wazobia has performed at the Houston International Festival and at the Annual Bob Marley Day Celebration. They also performed at the annual Halloween on Market Square festival in downtown Houston. The band performs at clubs and universities throughout the state.

In 1987, a poll of Houston music fans voted Wazobia as Best Reggae Band. Quite an accomplishment after being called "the best kept musical secret in Houston in 1986."

Tickets are available for Wazobia's A&M performance and cost $4 each. The show will run from 9 p.m. until 11:15 p.m.
