Lady Aggie Cheri Steensma spikes the ball for a point against Texas Tech Friday. A&M won the match in three games.

Lady Aggies beat Tech in 3 games

The Lady Aggies volleyball team opened Southwest Conference play Friday night with a three-game sweep with 19-17, 19-17, 15-12 wins over the Lady Red Raiders.

Texas Tech came out strong leading 7-3 to start in the first game.

Lady Aggie Head Coach Al Givens then called a time out to let his players relax and regroup.

From there, behind the kills of senior Cheri Steensma, the Lady Aggies outscored Tech 8-2 and finally tied the game at 14.

With A&M serving, Lady Aggie sophomore Amy Cumings then tipped the ball over the net to fool the Tech defense and put the Lady Ags ahead by one.

But Tech didn't give up, as they tied the score at 15-15, 16-16, and 17-17 until the Lady Aggies finished the game with the 19-17 win.

The Red Raiders again surged to a 3-0 lead in the second game, but the Lady Ags came back with rallies of their own behind the kills of Cummings and Vivian Viera to make the score 6-4 Tech.

A&M eventually tied the score at 7-7, and on the next point Kelli Kellen slammed the ball through the arms of the Red Raiders to put the Lady Aggies in the lead 8-7.

Tech again came back, tying the score at 11-11, 13-13, and 14-14 to extend the second set to extra games.

It appeared that Tech had the momentum in their favor when they went ahead 16-15, but again the Lady Aggies came back for another 19-17 win after two long shots by the Red Raiders.

Givens said, "We have the potential to play and stay in rallies inside and out, and our team is maturing and not getting rattled if we get behind. They showed their composure tonight."

The third game began with Tech again jumping out in front with a 2-0 lead before the Lady Ags scored.

Behind the leadership of Steensma and the serves of Sheri Hermesmeyer, the Lady Aggies tied the Red Raiders at 6 and 7.

"They all played well," Givens said. "They all had their different points of glory, and it was definitely a team effort."

"Sheri's a freshman, and at one time we even had two freshmen on the court, and I was real pleased with the way they worked together tonight."

The crowd at G. Rollie White Coliseum came alive, as A&M never lost the lead again, posting a 15-11 win and improving their season record at 8-5 and 1-0 in the SWC.

"I think the crowd definitely made a big difference, and the fact that we were so vocal and supportive, made a tremendous difference."

"That's what playing at home should do. The 12th Man should come into effect, and that made a difference."

"This will give us some momentum. The fact that we came from behind in the first two games is very pivotal and will show us that we know that we can do it."

ter with their first points coming on Wilson's 2-yard run with just 31 seconds left in the opening quarter.

The drive was set up by an Alex Morris fumble recovery at Tech's 41 yard line. Red Raider quarterback Billy Joe Tolliver tossed a 24-yard completion to Anthony McDowell and A&M's William Thomas forced the fumble.

Tolliver had one touchdown pass late in the third quarter to give him a career high of eight for the season.

In the second quarter the Aggie defense put the pressure on Tech with linebackers John Roper and Aaron Wallace each getting a sack and working together for another.

Running back Larry Horton, playing off of left end on A&M's punt defense, charged in and blocked a Tech punt and Morris recovered it for the Aggies third TD of the half.

Richardson took the snap on the "swinging gate" and took it in for two points to give A&M a 22-0 lead.

"We practised all week because Tech's center has a little hitch right before he hikes the ball," Horton said. "I took off when he hitched and was fortunate enough to get to the ball."

Horton had also scored on a 2-yard run up the middle earlier in the quarter that gave the Aggies a 14-0 advantage.

Scott Slater missed a 33-yard field goal attempt that turned the ball back over to Tech before the blocked punt.

The Red Raiders began a drive at their own 36-yard line with just over two minutes left in the half and ran without a huddle.

They could only make it to the Aggie 19 where Scott Segrist hit the left goal post on a 36-yard field goal attempt, leaving Tech scoreless.

A&M wasted no time getting back on the scoreboard in the second half. After stopping Tech's first possession, Lewis went to work, gaining 48 yards on four consecutive runs.

Wilson took over for the final play of the drive as he carried two defenders into the end zone on a 9-yard run up the middle.

After Leon Cole halted Tolliver's attack with an 11-yard sack, the Aggies got the ball back on the Tech 40.

Osgood bobbled the snap for the third time of the game, and Richardson came in and worked the offense to the 2-yard line before swinging around the right end for the score.

The Red Raiders finally put a drive together with Tolliver connecting with Tyrone Thurman on two long completions.

The drive ended with a 27-yard screen to Thurman as he avoided and outran several Aggie defenders down the right sideline to make the score 36-7.

Thurman had been carried off at halftime with a foot injury but came back for four catches and 64 yards in the second half.

The fourth quarter started with the continuation of an Aggie third-quarter drive. It was all Richardson and Lewis as they ate up 65 yards in just 1:46 to make it 43-7.

Richardson was back in on the next A&M possession and took the ball in on a 10-yard run off the right tackle to finish A&M's scoring.

The defense continued to shut down Tech with the exception of a 66-yard drive led by quarterback Jamie Gill. The drive was highlighted by a 32-yard reception by McDowell.
