

SONGFEST

1988

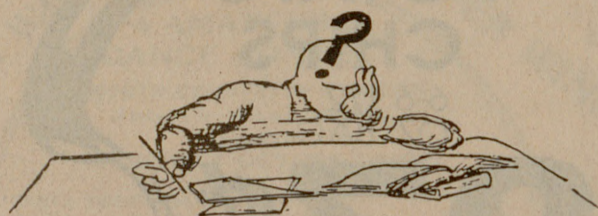

October 21, 1988 8:00 p.m.

Bryan Civic Auditorium

$4.00 Presale $5.00 At the Door

Notes-N-Quotes

846-2255
112 Nagle St.
FREE PARKING

LECTURE NOTES
AVAILABLE

- | | |
|---------------------|--------------------|
| ANSC 107 Edwards | HIST 106 Pisani |
| ANSC 107 Hesby | JOJR 102 Schafer |
| ARTS 149 Hutchinson | JOJR 301 Tomlinson |
| BIOL 113 Thomas | POLS 206 West |
| ECON 311 James | PSYC 107 Woehr |
| GEOL 101 Harder | RENR 205 Archer |
| GEOL 101 Koenig | SCOM 105 Street |
| HIST 105 Kime | WFSC 302 Bickham |

Taylor

(Continued from page 9)

with a 2-yard burst off left tackle. He added the extra-point, but A&M still trailed 12-7 and had to kickoff to the Owls, who knew very well that an on-side kick was coming.

"The only thing they can do after that first touchdown is an onside kick," a dejected Neely said following the game. "We called all our first crowd together and told them just before the kickoff to be ready for it. And then we just let them get the ball."

Indeed, the Owls stood around while Stallings recovered Jack Powell's kick on the Owl 43.

"I remember that very well," Stallings said. "My job was to block the man in front of the kicker, but there wasn't anyone there, so I just fell on the ball."

"Coach Bryant had instilled in us an attitude that we could beat any other team if we put our minds to it."

Wasting no time, the Aggies went for the touchdown on first down. Wright dropped back and hurled a pass along the left sideline where a wide-open Taylor caught the ball at the Rice 2 and rambled into the end zone.

"Most people catch a pass for a touchdown, but I was running for my life," Taylor said.

Ironically it was A&M's second — and final — completion of the game and wasn't even originally meant for him.

"All week when we practiced that play Bobby Conrad had been the receiver, but Bryant couldn't get him into the game because of the substitution rules," Taylor said. "So he decided to have me catch it which I did."

"I knew I could beat Zipperlen because all day he had waited until I got right up to him before turning around to run with me. I had pretty good speed and got behind him for the score."

Taylor kicked his second straight extra point, giving A&M a startling 14-12 lead before leaving the game.

"It was muddy, which had caused us some problems," Taylor said. "Coach Bryant wanted a fresh back out there, so he took me out."

Nothing could have kept the Aggies' from their date with destiny, as the omnipresent Pardee intercepted Owl quarterback King Hill's long pass on the first play after the ensuing kickoff.

Pardee returned to the Owl 8 yard line and Watson completed the scoring with a 2-yard run with 1:09 still on the clock.

A&M got the ball back again after another Rice turnover but chose to run the clock out rather than seek more points.

Goehring noted that following the game the Aggies could see the shock and frustration on the Owls' faces, but that the Aggies didn't really celebrate until they reached the dressing room.

"It was exuberant in there because we realized what we had done," Goehring said. "I had a gash down the top of my helmet and never knew how it had happened."

Several of the Aggies had tried to carry Bryant off the field without much success. Bryant was gracious to the stunned Neely when they met at midfield, but had high praise for his players once he joined them in the dressing room.

"In fairness to Rice, I'll have to admit that we were lucky," he said. "But I'm the luckiest guy alive to be able to coach kids like these Aggies. I can't single out anyone for an outstanding performance because for 56 minutes we were completely outplayed."

"We played as well as any crowd we had for 56 minutes, then we just let it get away," Neely said. "It is hard to understand."

Fresh off their stirring comeback the Aggies proceeded to lose to the University of Texas 21-6. Taylor said that the Longhorns had a lot of talent, even if they hadn't had a good season.

Taylor continued to be a force for A&M during their unbeaten 1956 season, especially when the going got tough.

"There were about eight starters in the training room the Wednesday before we played Baylor when Coach Bryant came into the room," Taylor said. "He looked around then said, 'Anyone who wants to play Saturday had better be in uniform and scrimmage tomorrow.' And everyone of us got up and got dressed."

Taylor rushed for a game-high 91 yards in A&M's 34-21 win over Texas in Austin that season. Though he didn't score a TD, he did set up three of them in what Stallings said was "a special moment for all of us, especially me. I have a special feeling for that weekend because two days later I got married."

Taylor was injured in A&M's 21-13 win over Maryland in the 1957 opener and later missed three straight games. However he did return for the Baylor game, kicking two extra-points in A&M's 14-0 win.

Against Arkansas Crow scored a touchdown in the second quarter, and Taylor's extra-point gave the Aggies a 7-5 comeback victory that kept them at the top of the Associated Press Poll.

Late in the game quarterback Roddy Osborne defied Bryant's orders and tossed a pass toward John Tracey that Porker Don Horton intercepted and returned 57 yards until Taylor tackled him.

Crow intercepted a pass to end that potential rally, then Arkansas place-kicker Freddy Akers missed a 22-yard field goal.

Pardee says Cougars should beat Hogs

HOUSTON (AP) — University of Houston Coach Jack Pardee doesn't think the Cougars have to play over their heads to beat 13th-ranked Arkansas in their Southwest Conference showdown Saturday.

"If the Houston Cougars play the kind of football we're capable of playing, we can beat anyone left on our schedule," Pardee said. "We don't have to play over our heads, we just have to play up to our ability."

The Cougars, 4-1 for the season and 1-1 in SWC games, must play to their capabilities against the Hogs, 6-0 this season.

"If we have a bad game, commit turnovers and have lapses, I don't see anyone we could beat," Pardee said.

"But it's comforting to know that if we play the kind of football we can play and get the breaks, we can win."

The Razorbacks rank second in the SWC in total offense, led by quarterback Quinn Grovey, the league's most efficient passer and fifth ranked in total offense.

"He's good, he's fast, he's quick and he's very deceptive," Houston defensive end Keith Jenkins said.

"He'll be in my dreams this week. Most of the time I'm hitting him and tackling him."

"I try to make my dreams as realistic as possible so I also have him making the big plays."

Grovey rushed 101 yards and passed for 111 in last week's 27-17 victory over Texas, while engineering the Hogs' wishbone offense.

Pardee is concerned about the Arkansas defense, which matches in offense with a No. 2 total defense ranking in the SWC.

The Hogs won't be the Texas A&M blitzing machine that beat the Cougars 30-16 two weeks ago, Pardee said.

"Arkansas is good at stopping people off in coverage and from bad plays downfield instead of being on the line," Pardee said.

The Razorbacks beat the Cougars 21-17 last season with a second round rally that included dropping eight or nine defenders back in coverage.

"They shut us out in the second half last year and I'm sure we'll see some of that again," Pardee said.

The Cougars are 4-1 for the season and 1-1 in SWC games. They've beaten Baylor and lost to Texas A&M. Last week, they beat Texas 82-28.

Arkansas has beaten Texas Christian, Texas Tech and Texas in SWC victories.

Pardee thinks the pressure is on the Razorbacks, playing on the road trying to erase the stigma of previous runners-up.

"If we beat them, they are back at second place again," Pardee said.

"It's a heck of a big game for them. I think it's more pressure on them."

Sweeney one hit away from 1st NFL action

IRVING (AP) — Kevin "Too Short" Sweeney's first shot in a regular season non-strike NFL game will come the next time Steve Pelluer doesn't learn how to slide.

Sweeney is just a concussion away from the controls of the Dallas Cowboys.

"Kevin may get in there pretty quick if Pelluer doesn't learn how to slide," said Dallas coach Tom Landry. "Kevin would make things interesting. The players all like him."

Pelluer suffered a concussion on the third play of a 17-7 loss to the Chicago Bears on Sunday and spent the rest of the game relearning his name on the sidelines while Danny White played.

White suffered ligament damage to his knee which will keep him out of action for at least a month. Sweeney was promoted to second string.

Pelluer has been knocked out of action in three games this year, one in preseason and two in regular season concussions.

Sweeney was the hero of the team's first game for the Cowboys last year. He started and won two games as the "rhinestone" Cowboys, hitting 14 passes for 291 yards and two touchdowns.

But Sweeney has a label of being short and hasn't worked his way into the starting lineup this year.

SUITABLE
CAREER OPTIONS

The Kasper for A.S.L. suit, an attractive addition to your resume. Classic tailoring sure to make a positive first impression. In corporate blue polyester/viscose for misses sizes 4-14. Most appropriate for your job interview or your corporate climb. One of many career options awaiting you in our misses department, 135.00

Dillard's