Plane crashes trying to land in dense fog

HOUSTON (AP) — A pilot whose plane crashed in a heavily wooded area north of Intercontinental Airport Wednesday had been diverted from his intended destination in nearby Conroe because of dense, early-morning fog, authorities said.

The crash killed pilot Gregory Gemmill, 31, of Conroe.

He was the only person aboard the twin-engine Piper Aerostar.

Gemmill was returning early Wednesday morning after delivering a load of newspaper to Louisiana, airport officials said.

Although weather was considered a contributing factor in the crash, authorities have not yet determined a cause.

A team of investigators from the National Transportation Safety Board arrived at the crash site Wednesday.

Federal Aviation Administration officials also arrived with the investigators.

Gemmill's Piper Aerostar crashed about two miles north of the airport shortly after 3 a.m., Bill Ainsworth, airport spokesman, said.

Visibility at that time was about one-tenth of a mile, Ainsworth said.

Gemmill, who was thrown from the plane on impact, was pronounced dead at the scene.

The wreckage was found by Houston Airport Police about an hour after it went down within the city limits in the privately owned pasture, about 300 yards from the nearest house.

The plane, owned by Conroe Aviation Service, was returning from Baton Rouge, La., but was diverted to the north Houston airport because of the fog, Ainsworth said.

Defense lawyer brings twist to murder case

HOUSTON (AP) — The attorney representing John Charles Zimmerman in his third capital murder trial brings unique insight to the case — he was foreman of the jury that convicted Zimmerman and sentenced him to death nearly 10 years ago.

"At first blush, I said he can't do that," Wes Hocker, who served on the jury in Zimmerman's second trial for the kidnapping, rape and fatal stabbing of his 10-year-old niece, said.

"But after I thought about it and asked some legal scholars about it, I found I really don't have a conflict of interest," Hocker said. "I've never heard of such a thing, but there's no impropriety."

The verdicts in the first and second trials were overturned.

Zimmerman, 41, had written a letter asking the court to name Hocker to represent him, and the lawyer was appointed Tuesday by State District Judge Woody Densen.

"A defense attorney's function is to protect every one of his client's rights regardless of guilt or innocence," Hocker said. "It's not the judge's or the lawyers' place to judge. It's the jury's."

Hocker said Zimmerman approached him through his current law partner, Robert Morrow, who worked with one of Zimmerman's principal attorneys in the second trial in 1979.

During that trial, prosecutors presented letters Zimmerman wrote to his wife, Sherry, in July 1977 while he was held on charges of killing Ramona Ann Abner of Jacinto City on March 24, 1977.

Zimmerman's mother-in-law found the letters, in which he described committing the crime, and secretly sent them to the slain girl's mother, who gave them to investigators.

In April, the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals threw out Zimmerman's conviction and ordered a new trial, ruling that the letters were confidential communication between husband and wife and should not have been admitted as evidence.
