Women's soccer splits games in Austin

A&M's women's soccer team kicked the competition in the Austin Women's Tournament last weekend. Even though the team did not place in the single-elimination tourney, A&M performed well.

The Lady Aggies defeated Meadows Alliance of Houston in the opener of the meet by a 2-1 score thanks to excellent play by center-forward Elena Olive. Olive scored both A&M goals in the win, team spokesperson Lindsey Craig said.

In the second game of the tournament, A&M fell to Austin Arsenal by a 2-1 count as they lost in a "shoot-out" after ending regulation in a 1-1 tie.

Solid defensive play from Craig, Kim Mac Cormack, Jean Bombach and Allison Morris kept A&M in the game before the shootout.

This Saturday the team will play in a tournament hosted by the A&M Varsity soccer team in the field near the Zachry Building, Texas, Rice, Stephen F. Austin State and A&M will be represented in the tournament.

Sailing team travels to SMU meet this weekend

The A&M Sailing team missed a chance to sail this past weekend as bad weather pushed the Tulane Fall Invitational back a day.

The Aggie team couldn't stay until Sunday, when the races took place, and missed their chance to qualify for the Sugar Bowl Regatta later this year. The University of Texas and Tulane University were the teams that did qualify.

A&M will try again this weekend in the Frozen Hate Regatta hosted by Southern Methodist University. The race is the qualifier for the Timme Angsten Regatta Nov. 25-26 in Chicago.

Seven teams from Texas and Tulane will compete for the top two spots. Dave Jones of A&M said the Aggies have a good chance to qualify for the Timme Angsten because Tulane already has an automatic bid and UT doesn't want to go to Chicago.

Aggie Lacrosse resumes season this weekend

Lacrosse Club plays the Corpus Christi club in an unscheduled match Saturday at noon at the polo fields. Corpus Christi is a new club and this is A&M's first time to face them. The Aggies were off last weekend.

Sunday, A&M heads to Huntsville to play division rival Sam Houston for the second time this fall. The Aggies won the last meeting here but Sam Houston had a good showing in the Fall Invitational here two weeks ago.

Next weekend the Aggies take on the University of Texas in their annual pre-Thanksgiving match.

defenders took the ball away from the bumbling Hogs again.

Running back Michael Forrest, whose 7-yard touchdown run in the third quarter had broken the Aggies' back in 1975, was hit hard on a carry up the middle, and linebacker Jesse Hunnicutt recovered at the Hog 30.

Woodard and Dickey alternated carrying the ball to the Hog 1, where Big George bulled into the end zone, making the score 24-3.

Along with the Aggies' destructive middle linebacker Robert Jackson, Hayes added to the Razorbacks' misery shortly thereafter. The two behemoths chased Calcagni out of the backfield and smashed him to the cold, hard astroturf (then Hayes pushed himself up off the prone QB).

The Aggies got up, but Calcagni needed help having suffered a shoulder separation that caused inexperienced freshman Houston Nutt to take over at quarterback.

Arkansas scored on a halfback pass early in the fourth quarter, but the Aggies retaliated with an 80-yard touchdown drive of their own.

Walker directed the entirely ground-based attack during which the Ags attacked only up the middle or around the left side of their offensive line.

With 5:31 left to play, Woodard, who had been injured and was ineffective the previous year, vaulted over the exhausted Hog defense, then waved his hands at the dispirited Hog fans (well, those who were left).

Following the game, Bellard was effusive in his praise for the entire squad. The Wishbone attack hadn't turned the ball over at all, while the Maroon Marauders had limited the potent Hog offense to 198 yards of total offense.

Hayes led a secondary that held Arkansas to 4 completions in 21 passing attempts, two of which were intercepted.

"Now you are looking at a live man," Bellard said. "A year ago I was a dead man. Last year we were flat after playing Texas, and we weren't as sharp and crisp as we should have been. Saturday, we played an outstanding game."

With the offense on fire and the nationally-ranked defense snuffing out enemy offenses, the Aggies cruised through the rest of the 1976 season. A&M won its last seven games to finish 10-2 for the second straight time (the only time A&M has posted back-to-back 10-win seasons).

Hayes was named first-team All-SWC for the second straight season, one of 10

Aggies so honored in 1976 (14 made it in 1975, including nine defensive players).

He also was one of three Aggies to make first team All-American, along with Jackson and Franklin. His great quickness and speed made him a force to be feared in the arena.

In 1975 Bellard said of Hayes that "he can run like the wind and will knock the fire out of you." From the normally staid, calm Bellard, that was quite a compliment.

Simonini pointed out that he knew Hayes was a player from the time he showed up in 1973 as a freshman linebacker from Houston Wheatley High School.

"Lester had great speed, and when he came to A&M I'm not sure the coaches knew what to do with him," Simonini said. "Garth (TenNapel) and I finally asked them to get him away from us and move him somewhere else on the team."

"When Lester became one of the safeties, it made our defense better again because of his speed. He blitzed a lot, and that caused a lot of problems for our opponents because they never knew if he was coming or where he would be coming from."

Hayes remains elusive to this day, since neither his former National Football team, the Los Angeles Raiders, nor his agents, the Hendricks brothers of Houston, know how to get in touch with him.

That isn't much different than he was on the field, where opposing quarterbacks and receivers often didn't know where he was until it was too late.

Two other games stand out in Hayes' Aggie career — Baylor in 1975 and Texas in 1976. In the former he intercepted a pitchout and raced 77 yards for what turned out to be the winning touchdown (19-10). Against Texas, in his final regular-season game at A&M, Hayes intercepted three passes, setting the school record for most interceptions in a career (14, breaking Pat Thomas' record set in 1975).

Simonini was involved in Hayes' touchdown scamper, the only one of his career at A&M.

"Tank Marshall and I hit the Baylor quarterback (Charlie Parker), and the ball popped right up in the air," Simonini recalled with a chuckle. "As we were falling to the ground, I saw Lester catch the ball. With nobody in front of him, I knew that he wouldn't get caught and would score."

Following the game, Hayes was diffident, saying only that "I was about three yards from the spot where the ball popped up and I just grabbed it and ran."
