Economists: Texas shakes depression

DALLAS (AP) — Texas is slowly shaking off the oil and real estate depression and shifting toward exports, manufacturing and small business start-ups, which economists say are setting the stage for new investment.
 And a consensus forecast by the Dallas Morning News Board of Economists calls for the state jobless rate to fall in coming months, even though the panel expects a decreased rate of growth for the national economy.
 "You've got to look at the fundamentals," said Bernard L. Weinstein, director of the Center for Enterprise at Southern Methodist University. "At the basic industries, at employment, at the changing industrial structure, at the demographic trends... Texas is looking real good."
 "I think there will be a stampede of investors over the next year," he said.
 The panel said the state got a boost last week with the announcement that the multibillion dollar superconducting "super collider" will be built in Ellis County.
 "If we get a $6 billion federal construction project into Texas, it also brings us a national research lab and an additional $250 million or so in research money," said M. Ray Perryman, director of the Baylor University Forecasting Service.
 The super collider announcement came only two days after voters sent several influential Democratic and Republican Texans to key Washington posts, including President-elect George Bush, who is expected to appoint a handful of Texans to his Cabinet.
 Although Lloyd Bentsen was on the losing Democratic ticket as the vice presidential nominee, he was re-elected to his seat in the Senate, where he is chairman of the powerful Finance Committee.
 The panel said Texas' power base in Washington could grow and become ever more important for the state recovery, especially if House Speaker Jim Wright of Fort Worth is able to resolve issues raised by a House ethics committee investigating his dealings with insolvent Texas savings and loan associations.
 The board, however, foresees the price of West Texas intermediate crude falling to $14.63 per barrel — below the perceived comfort level of $15.
 Using retail sales as a barometer of economic activity, Ira Silver, chief economist at J.C. Penney Co., said sales in Texas lag behind those in the rest of the nation, but are up from last year.
