Juvenile judges will discuss repeat offenders

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Local judges should be given a stronger say in determining which juvenile offenders will be released from reform school, and when, a San Antonio jurist said.

State District Judge Tom Rickhoff called a Dec. 9 meeting of metropolitan juvenile judges in San Antonio to discuss the recidivism of juveniles released from facilities run by the Texas Youth Council.

"I've quit sending them to the TYC unless they're the kind I have to manacle to a post to keep in the courtroom," Rickhoff, Bexar County's only juvenile judge, said.

"Frankly, we can't trust them (TYC) to keep (the juveniles) or to have a plan for them when they get out," Rickhoff told the San Antonio Light.

Rickhoff said he is proposing that the Texas Legislature give local judges more input into the release of young offenders from state juvenile facilities.

Additionally, Rickhoff said, the state should contract with county juvenile probation offices to supervise state parolees because there are not enough state parole officers to do the job adequately.

According to figures gathered by Rickhoff, 73 percent of juveniles released by the TYC in Bexar County are rearrested or are referred back to TYC by parents, teachers or other authorities.

Elvis sightings may be subject of new book

RED OAK (AP) — Just the other day, Elvis Presley was walking out of a 7-Eleven store in Waxahachie singing "Blue Suede Shoes," and well... wait a minute. No, he was at a garage sale in Seagoville when... but then again he's hiding out in Lancaster, or maybe he's holed up in a house behind the drugstore in Ovilla.

Or maybe, heaven forbid, he's dead.

Rumored sightings of Elvis have circulated nationwide almost since the day he was pronounced dead (Aug. 16, 1977) and have shown particular strength in recent months, with an increase in the Dallas area.

Whatever Presley's disposition, two men in the northern Ellis County community of Red Oak are having a great time listening to people who seriously and not-so-seriously believe they've witnessed The King of Rock 'n' Roll in recent weeks.

In fact, they hope to publish a book on what they uncover.

David Kelly and Glenn Gill thought it would be fun to compile "eyewitness reports" with the idea of finding a publisher. So they put ads in the personals column of the Dallas newspapers asking whether anyone had seen Elvis in Waxahachie about Oct. 10.
