A&M celebrates official opening of dining facility

The newly renovated Duncan Dining Hall officially was reopened Friday night with a ribbon-cutting ceremony conducted by University officials.

Although the updated facility has been serving students since the beginning of this semester, about 500 guests attended the event, watched members of the Corps of Cadets march in to dinner and ate lavish meals prepared by six distinguished chefs.

The menu included shrimp cocktail, roasted beef tenderloin and baked Alaska.

Built in 1939, Duncan served meals "family style" to cadets from 12 residence halls.

Lloyd Smith, director of food services, said the cadets were served one entree under the family-style service—no choices were offered.

"People during the Depression were glad to eat anything," he said. "But times have changed drastically since then and we realized we had to change with the times."

"Students today have been raised with a variety of fast foods and frozen entrees," he said. "They're not used to always sitting down family style."

Smith said the students never really complained about family-style dining, but they did not like being told what to eat. Family style dictated how many portions were served at a certain time and to how many, he said.

"They didn't complain," he said, "but they didn't eat the food."

In 1984, Corps members were surveyed, and it was determined that they wanted to be seated as outfits in a dining facility that served a variety of food quickly and efficiently.

The concept of cost-effective dining sparked the recent Duncan renovation and the new "plate ready" system of serving meals.

"We decided to redesign to offer the cadets what they really wanted to eat," he said. "Now we can serve a variety of entrees rapidly."

The "plate ready" system offers cadets different entrees and vegetables at different food stations and enables 2,200 students to be served within about 14 minutes. The cafeteria can accommodate 3,000 people.

The new serving system feeds 180 to 200 people per minute, he said. The average cafeteria line serves 45 people per minute.

Regent Royce Wisenbaker, member of the University's Building and Planning Committee, said the dining facility will feed the Corps more efficiently, which is a benefit "because, as you know, an army travels on its stomach."

Corps members are able to decide what to eat more quickly by glancing above each food station at newly installed electronic message boards that list the meal served at each station. Smith said that if the cadets do not like what is served at one station, they can go to another.

A new beverage dispenser also has been installed in Duncan to help expedite the serving and seating of the cadets.

"Our new soda system is the largest in the world," he said. "It used to be that we had only tea or water to drink, period. Now we offer a variety of drinks."

Also the first of its kind in the world, the soda machine can dispense 850 gallons of soft drinks in 15 minutes.

In addition, to make cleaning more economical, a tray accumulator has been installed to handle the disposal of trays in 10 to 15 minutes.

Smith said that he hopes that Duncan's renovation pleases the students, "since today's students are sophisticated in what they eat and what they want to eat."

Student fees funded GSL board's expenses

HOUSTON (AP) — By the time the Texas Guaranteed Student Loan Corp. board of directors completed its 1986 meeting at a plush resort hotel on South Padre Island, the public non-profit group had spent more than $5,000.

The expensive outing is one in a series of travel and entertainment costs — funded by student fees and federal money — that have raised eyebrows in Texas financial aid circles.

"When I see them picking up expensive tabs for entertainment and travel, I get angry because it comes out of my students' pockets," said one financial aid officer at a small private college.

Texas college students whose loans are guaranteed by the corporation with the group.

The group will play "Concerto Grosso, Opus 6, No. 4" by Arcangelo Corelli, "Bassoon Concerto in F" by Antonio Vivaldi, Ottorino Respighi's "Trittico Budocciliano" and Franz Joseph Haydn's "Symphony No. 92 in G (Oxford)."

Tickets for the concert are $4 for students and $6 for non-students and are available at the Rudder Box Office.

In Advance

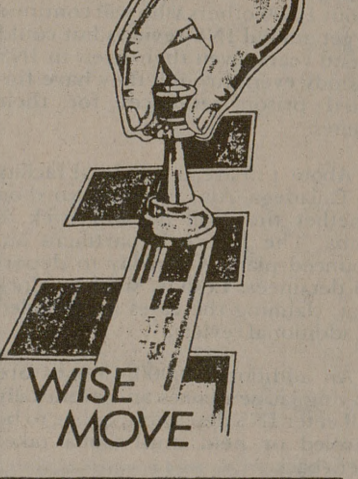

Brazos Sinfonetta to perform tonight

The Brazos Sinfonetta, a group of musicians from the Brazos Valley Symphony Orchestra, will perform at 8 p.m. today in Rudder Auditorium.

The University Chamber Series concert, sponsored by the philosophy and humanities department of the College of Liberal Arts, will be conducted by George Adams, associate conductor of the Brazos Valley Symphony. Adams also will play bassoon with the group.

The group will play "Concerto Grosso, Opus 6, No. 4" by Arcangelo Corelli, "Bassoon Concerto in F" by Antonio Vivaldi, Ottorino Respighi's "Trittico Budocciliano" and Franz Joseph Haydn's "Symphony No. 92 in G (Oxford)."

Tickets for the concert are $4 for students and $6 for non-students and are available at the Rudder Box Office.
